"Happy" Chandler Wins Kentucky Race

Philadelphia, Indianapolis Elect Demos

GOP Regimes Upset In Waterbury, Conn., And South Bend, Ind.

[By The Associated Press]

A. B. (Happy) Chandler, Democrat, last night was elected in his comeback bid for the Kentucky governorship.

In Philadelphia, Richardson Dilworth, veteran Democratic campaigner, swept to victory in a mayoralty race with Thacher Longstreth, an Eisenhower Republican.

These were the two most important contests in yesterday's off-year state and local elections which major party leaders were watching for 1956 election straws.

Chandler running with a split in Democratic ranks, had 217,632 votes to 145,918 for Republican Edwin R. Denney in 1,486 of Kentucky's 4,032 precincts. The present governor in normally Democratic Kentucky, is Lawrence Wetherby, Democrat, who could not succeed himself.

Dilworth Leads By 130,000

In Philadelphia, Dilworth had a majority of more than 130,000 votes over his 35 year old Republican opponent.

The mayor's post has been in Democratic hands for four years after 68 years of GOP control. Democratic Mayor Joseph S. Clark did not seek another term.

Democrats also elected a mayor in Indianapolis where the GOP has been in control four years.

They also ousted GOP administrations in Troy, Schenectady, Auburn, Ithaca, Little Falls and Glen Cove, N. Y., while Republican candidates reversed Democratic control in Cortland, Fulton and Ogdensburg, N. Y.

Ohio Amendment Trails

In Ohio, a proposed constitutional amendment to increase State unemployment compensation payments and clear the path for June 8 operation of a supplemental layoff pay plan for the auto industry was running behind in incomplete returns.

Early results in other cities showed Democrats had upset Republican regimes in South Bend, Ind., and Waterbury, Conn. and ousted an independent mayor in Norwalk, Conn. New Haven's Democratic mayor scored an easy second term victory and Socialist Mayor Jasper McLevy, 77, was reelected mayor of Bridgeport, Conn. for his 12th successive term.

National Issues Lost

Clear weather in both Kentucky and Philadelphia gave an assist to campaign workers toiling to get out the vote in their precincts.

National issues were almost completely lost in campaigning there and elsewhere for state, county and municipal offices. In the main, candidates belabored each other over the perennial local questions of how high taxes should be and who can furnish the most honest, efficient administration.

Dulles, Macmillan Will Map Strategy

GENEVA, Nov. 8 (AP)—The United States and Britain today reportedly arranged high level talks here within 48 hours to chart new moves against Russia's diplomatic offensive in the Middle East.

Diplomatic officials said high on the list of ideas for the conference is a suggestion that either President Eisenhower or Prime Minister Eden, or both, appeal directly to Premier Nikolai Bulganin for Soviet cooperation in maintaining a Middle East peace.

Secretary of State Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan are expected to lead off the discussions. Each is expected to offer a reappraisal of Western policies in the light of Soviet bloc arms sales and aid offers to Arab countries thus far uncommitted in the East-West power struggle.

Israel Offers To Support Peace-Restoration Plan

Insists Rights In Tense Border Area Be Upheld

JERUSALEM, Nov. 8 (AP)—Israel offered tonight to support United Nations proposals for restoring a cease-fire on the Egyptian-Israeli frontier if the measures upheld Israel rights and position in the tense El Auja (Nizana) area.

The area was the scene last week of the heaviest fighting since the 1948 Palestine war ended in an armistice signed on the isle of Rhodes in 1949.

Uneasy Peace

While an uneasy peace brooded over the border area, an Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman offered what he called full support to proposals advanced by U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to end the threat to peace in the troubled Negeb-Sinai frontier sector. The offer was put in this way:

"Insofar as the proposals on El Auja (Nizana) submitted by the secretary general of the United Nations and the chief of staff of the U. N. Truce Supervisory Organization are aimed at bringing about full compliance of the parties with provision of the general (1949) armistice agreement and insure Israel's rights and positions in the Nizana area, they are assured of Israel's full support."

Proposals Made Direct

The Hammarskjold proposals were made directly to Jerusalem and Cairo.

"Israel's declared policy," the Foreign Office spokesman said, "is based on the integral implementation of the Israel-Egyptian general armistice agreement as an accord equally binding on both parties."

The Israeli response to the Hammarskjold proposals was to be communicated officially tomorrow to Maj. Gen. E.L.M. Burns, chief of staff of the truce supervisory organization.

Skirmish Reported

Since the bloody outbreak last week in El Auja, there have been no major clashes on the Negeb frontier, but both Cairo and Jerusalem reported a skirmish at the southern tip of the Negeb near the Israeli port of Eilat (Elath) today.

The Cairo spokesman said four Israelis were killed and eight were wounded in the skirmish. The Egyptian spokesman said one Egyptian was wounded when an Israeli attack, led by four armored cars, was driven back across the frontier by Egyptian National Guard and frontier corps men.

Inherent Power To Hold Up Info Claimed By CSC

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Civil Service Commission today claimed "inherent power" under the Constitution and the law to withhold information from Congress, the press and the public.

Chairman Moss (D-Calif) of a House subcommittee on Freedom of Information called this "the broadest claim of authority" to be asserted by any federal agency. He joined Rep. Fascell (D-Fla) in questioning whether any such "inherent power" exists.

Formal Probe Begins

Philip Young, CSC chairman and chief advisor to President Eisenhower on governmental personnel, and the agency's General Counsel Lawrence V. Meloy were the principal witnesses as the Government Operations subcommittee launched a formal inquiry into the question whether federal agencies disclose all they should about their operations.

The witnesses said that in practice the commission will answer any "reasonable" requests for information.

But they declared (1) CSC itself reserves the right to determine what is "reasonable," and (2) CSC gets authority to do this from both the civil service law and the Constitution.

No Gag Intended

Young also said under persistent questioning that the commission doesn't mean to gag its employes through a section of its rules which describes official information as "government property" and forbids employes to divulge it without authorization.

"It may be this (section) needs some clarification," Young acknowledged. "We'll be glad to review it . . . in the light of our stated position."

This position actually is, he said, that officials are encouraged to give out all the information they can and have been given specific, written authorization to do so.

But Young said this doesn't permit employes to air outside the agency disputes within CSC or criticisms of its policies.

UN Council Seat Deadlock Intact After 21 Ballots

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 8 (AP)—The Philippines and Yugoslavia fought to another draw today in the longest run of ballots ever recorded in a contest for a U.N. Security Council seat.

When the 21st ballot showed no decision or even a prospect of a break, the U.N. Assembly postponed voting for two weeks.

Delegates once again will try to solve the deadlock which has split Washington and London and caused bitterness in quarters normally friendly. The diplomatic veneer is wearing thin as some delegates discuss the situation in private. They complain the deadlock is cutting across the work of the whole Assembly and causing unnecessary complications.

Philippines Leads

The voting is by secret ballot. On the first vote today, the 13th ballot, the Philippines got 30 and Yugoslavia 28 votes. On the 21st ballot the Philippines recorded 29 votes and Yugoslavia 27.

This range has held generally since the Philippines slipped from 38 votes, one short of election, on Oct. 14. The Philippines has always led except on the 19th ballot today when Yugoslavia polled 26 and the Philippines 25.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., floor manager for Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, veteran delegate from the Philippines, agreed to a suggestion by Fadhil Jamali, Iraq, to postpone the balloting for one week.

"We'll Win," Romulo Says

Romulo told reporters after the meeting "The Philippines is in this fight to win, and we will win."

V. K. Krishna Menon, India, supporting Yugoslavia, said he was prepared to continue voting until they all reached "exhaustion" and a decision. But if postponement were desired, he felt two weeks would be better. The Assembly approved this proposal 37-3 with 13 abstentions.

'Lifer' Who Spent 42 Years In State Penitentiary Dies

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8 (AP)—Joseph John Mueller, who got a life sentence after shooting his sweetheart in 1909, died today at the Maryland Penitentiary at 68.

The prosecution said he shot Regina Reed after his love for her cooled and he wanted to get out of the engagement. The shooting occurred in the Mount Washington section while the couple was on the way to an amusement park.

Mueller, 21 when sentenced, spent 42 years in prison. He was out on parole for about five years but parole violation sent him back in June, 1951.

Penitentiary authorities said he became ill recently. He died at the prison infirmary early today.

After the shooting a coroner's jury freed him after he said a holdup man shot the girl. Police continued their investigation and Mueller later confessed.

Army, N. Mexico In Hunting Row

SANTA FE, N.M., Nov. 8 (AP)—Gov. John Sims warned today that he would not hesitate to use the National Guard if necessary to keep the Army from hunting in New Mexico without a state license.

Army personnel from Ft. Bliss, Tex., plan a special hunt Friday on the fort's firing range in southern New Mexico. Maj. Gen. P. W. Rutledge, Ft. Bliss commander, claims the Army has exclusive authority over the 400,000-acre range and the soldiers don't need state licenses, which cost $50 each. State authorities contend they do.

New Mexico enjoys an advantage in the dispute in that a strip of state land separates the firing range from Texas. Thus the Army hunters, in order to enter the range and then return to Texas with their game, would have to cross state property—where the National Guard would presumably be stationed.

The Army is reported to have hinted to game officials that if the way out of the range were blocked, the game would be taken out either by plane or in a convoy.

Army Asks 8,000 Draftees In January

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)— The Defense Department asked selective service today to draft 8,000 men during January.

The Army was the only service asking for draftees in the month.

In the draft call for December the Navy requested 10,000, the Army 8,000—the first time the Navy had used selective service since World War II days.

The new manpower levy brings to 1,994,430 the number of men drafted since the early months of the Korean War.

Barbara Hutton Takes Net Star As Her Sixth Husband

PARIS, Nov. 8 (AP) — Woolworth heiress Barbara Hutton took her sixth husband today — former German tennis star Baron Gottfried von Cramm. She made no glowing predictions for the future and skipped champagne.

Instead, she smiled quietly and said, "I am very happy," as she posed for photographers with her husband in their Ritz Hotel suit.

Despite a touch of bronchitis and a slight fever, she appeared much more rested and happy than when she faced photographers, tired and ill, beside husband No. 5, Porfirio Rubirosa, more than a year ago.

The newlyweds hurried back to their hotel after a simple civil wedding in the city hall of suburban Versailles. Von Cramm chatted with newsmen before his new baroness emerged in a low-cut black satin gown, with an orchid, a double strand of pearls, diamond earrings, a diamond bracelet and a simple gold wedding band.

The heiress, who lavished a good part of her 40-million-dollar fortune on previous husbands, was smiling but shy when asked what her husband had given her for a wedding present.

"It's a secret," she said.

She said it was a pity they had not married when they first met in 1937. "That would have been better for both of us."

Smiling jovially, Von Cramm told reporters they had planned to wed since last summer, when they were in Tangier. He said in view of past divorces they did not plan any further religious ceremonies.

Von Cramm was married once before. He was divorced in 1937 by Baroness Elisabeth von Debebeck.

Court Ruling Frees Turncoats

Three former Army enlisted men who turned their backs to the U. S. after their release as POWs in Korea and then later returned home voluntarily, show little emotion as they answer questions of newsmen on the porch of the Army guardhouse at Fort Baker, Calif., yesterday. They had just been released after a Supreme Court ruling held the Army had no jurisdiction over the men. The Army was holding them on a charge of collaborating with the Communists. GM Study Opens With Proposals To Curb Giants

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP) — A four-week Senate "case study" of General Motors Corp. began today with proposals to curb giantism in industry.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), presiding at the Judiciary subcommittee hearings, gave assurances they "are not a prosecution" of the world's biggest manufacturing firm. A Republican, Sen. Wiley (Wis), urged that "partisan politics be kept out."

A small businessman testified that General Motors is "entirely too big." One economist warned against the trend of vast "conglomerates" ranging, as GM has done, into other industries. Another economist suggested the auto industry may be closed forever to newcomers.

GM Waives Confidence Pledge

O'Mahoney disclosed that three Michigan economists, who have made a special study of GM, have declined to testify because they gave "a pledge of confidence" to GM and to the Brookings Institution, for which they did research.

O'Mahoney said, however, that General Motors now has notified him it will waive the confidence pledge if requested to do so by the Brookings Institution. O'Mahoney said he wired the private research organization yesterday urging it to release the economists, and is hopeful of a reply shortly.

Undue Pressure Charged

The General Motors hearings have been described by O'Mahoney as a "study" rather than an investigation. He said the subcommittee wants to find out if possible how GM got so big and whether there is any truth to complaints it has exerted undue pressure on its dealers and suppliers.

The study started out today with an assertion by T. K. Quinn, small businessman, author and long-time critic of industrial bigness, that "General Motors is entirely too big."

"It unwittingly threatens the very existence of countless good companies and eventually our own free American institutions," Quinn said in a statement prepared for the subcommittee.

17 Killed As Plane Crashes Into School

SEOUL, Nov. 8 (AP)—A South Korean fighter plane flown by a rookie pilot plummeted into a jammed school house near Taegu today, killing 16 children and injuring 12, the ROK air force reported.

The pilot, Park Chang Suh, was killed instantly.

School apparently had just started, for it still was early in the morning when the plane, a Mustang propeller fighter, came crashing down.

Four of the classrooms in the school were demolished. The plane also was destroyed.

Nation Will Hear Ike Friday On Radio, TV

DENVER, No. 8 (AP)—President Eisenhower will take off for Washington at 9 a. m. Friday and the nation will hear his voice for the first time since his illness in an informal farewell talk at the airfield.

There will be another little talk on his arrival in Washington around 3:30 or 4 p. m.

Television and radio will cover both events.

"The President," said Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, "told me to say he would suspect he would say a few words."

Nothing profound or tremendously important is expected. Hagerty told a questioner, for example, he wouldn't think the chief executive would discuss anything like foreign policy.

Medical Bulletins Nearing End

Rather, Eisenhower is expected to voice his appreciation for the treatment he has received since his Sept. 24 heart attack, for the messages of sympathy from around the globe, and for the reception the city fathers are planning in Washington.

The daily medical bulletins, now nearing an end, reported that "The President's condition continues to be satisfactory." Hagerty said the bulletins will be discontinued when the President leaves the hospital.

In preparation for that, and for climbing the ramp to the presidential plane Friday, Eisenhower undertook six more trips up and down a 10-step flight of concrete stairs at the hospital.

Guatemala President To Call

The last official visitor at the hospital will be President Carlos Castillo Armas of Guatemala, who is on a state visit to the United States at Eisenhower's invitation. He will be here tomorrow to spend some 30 minutes with the chief executive.

Hagerty said Eisenhower definitely will receive his guest in pajamas and bath robe, since he isn't planning to don business clothing in advance of the trip back to Washington.

Bomber Explodes, Crashes In Texas

MARLIN, Tex., Nov. 8 (AP) — A B47 currently the nation's best general-use atomic carrier, exploded in the air near here tonight and crashed in four widely separated pieces of wreckage.

There apparently were no survivors. The sleek, swept-wing jet carries a crew of three—all officers.

An air rescue unit reported to its base that the plane was from Biggs Air Force Base at El Paso, Tex. The identification was made by a flight service check at Ellington Air Force Base, Houston, and by markings on the plane found by ground parties.

Grocer Surrenders For Deportation

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 8 (AP) — Frank Orlando, an upstate New York grocer described by the Justice Department as a racketeer, said goodbye to his wife and daughter today and surrendered for deportation to his native Italy.

There was a possibility that a lifetime in prison awaits him there, but U. S. officials have said they doubted this.

He told reporters as he gave himself up:

"God bless America. I love America."

The surrender climaxed an uphill battle that began for Orlando in August, 1954, when the Justice Department ordered him deported on the ground that he entered the U.S. illegally as a stowaway in 1924 and that he applied fraudulently for a certificate of arrival by using a false name in 1934.

Milk Of Vaccinated Cows Gives Disease Immunity

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 8 (AP)—Two University of Minnesota scientists have found a way to make cows give milk that can provide protection against disease.

They have discovered that cows vaccinated for a certain disease—or several diseases—will produce milk that has the power to protect against those diseases.

Immunity already has been built up in animals by feeding them milk from vaccinated cows. Twenty human guinea pigs have shown that protective qualities in milk are absorbed into the blood stream. Researchers say they are confident further experiments will show human beings can achieve immunity through drinking "protective milk."

The immunity to be achieved is of a "passive" or temporary character. It continues only as long as "protective milk" is consumed regularly.

This could mean that drinking milk from a cow vaccinated for smallpox, for example, might be substituted for vaccination against smallpox.

The discovery was made by Dr. William E. Petersen, professor of animal husbandry and authority on milk, and Dr. Berry Campbell, associate professor of anatomy who has done considerable work in the field of immunology.

They cautioned that much work remains to be done.

They say they are sure that "protective milk" can be used to immunize human beings against such diseases as streptococcal infections, such as sore throat, measles, smallpox, diphtheria, and tuberculosis.

They also believe it will be effective against polio.

Demands One Germany With Reds At Helm

Talks Seen Doomed As Russia Rejects Free Election Plan

GENEVA, Nov. 8 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov stunned the Big Four conference tonight with a thunderous demand for Communist dominance in a united Germany.

The Western Allies immediately obtained a recess until tomorrow. A French delegation officer said "tomorrow's meeting could be the last."

"If Molotov maintains his position, including his statement that Russia does not intend to submit any other proposals on German unification, it is difficult to see how the West could make any agreement or compromise on any other front in the agenda," the French official said.

More Meetings Expected

But American officials later tonight did not support the view the talks might end with tomorrow's session. They indicated that despite the conference's apparent failure the Big Four would need at least three or four more meetings to complete their agenda.

Molotov's sweeping rejection of any plan to unify Germany by free elections in the foreseeable future and his blunt demand that all Germany follow the Communist course of the East German regime demolished Western hopes of conciliation, built up by his Moscow remark last night that he was bringing back "better baggage" to Geneva.

Dulles Concerned

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles told the conference:

"What Mr. Molotov has said seems so serious in terms of the directive of our heads of government and the hopes with which we came here, that I prefer to study the matter overnight before speaking."

French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay and British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan agreed.

Western press officers jointly announced after the session that the initial allied impression of Molotov's speech is that it "tears up" the directive of the summit conference last July.

"It indicates," they said, "a determination by the Soviet Union to accept no settlenent of the German problem that does not involve the communization of all Germany."

West's Plan "Unreal"

Molotov denounced the West's proposal of last Friday for Germany's unification by free elections in September 1956. He called it "unreal and dangerous," reviving militarism and capitalism in all Germany and directing these forces against the Soviet Union.

He said German unity can only be achieved when the Germans in East and West "find a common language and take the task of preparing the settlement in their own hands."

Army Releases Three Turncoats

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8 (AP)—Three turncoat ex-soldiers who refused repatriation after the Korean War and went to Red China were released from an Army stockade at Ft. Baker today.

A federal judge had ordered their release earlier in accordance with a Supreme Court ruling yesterday that ex-servicemen cannot be tried by military courts for crimes committed while in service. They had been given dishonorable discharges after going over to the Reds.

The three are William A. Cowart, 22, Dalton, Ga., Otto G. Bell, 24, Hillsboro, Miss., and Lewie W. Griggs, 23, Neches, Tex.

There is still a possibility the three will be tried in federal (civil) court for turning against their country. But the attorney general's office in Washington has not made public its decision.

The three men, who were confined at Ft. Baker when they returned to San Francisco after their release by the Reds at Hong Kong last July, were quietly happy when their lawyers told them they were free to go.

They posed briefly outside the stockade for photographers, then were taken by their lawyers into San Francisco, where hotel reservations had been made.

'Lifer' Who Spent 42 Years In State Penitentiary Dies

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8 (AP)—Joseph John Mueller, who got a life sentence after shooting his sweetheart in 1909, died today at the Maryland Penitentiary at 68.

The prosecution said he shot Regina Reed after his love for her cooled and he wanted to get out of the engagement. The shooting occurred in the Mount Washington section while the couple was on the way to an amusement park.

Mueller, 21 when sentenced, spent 42 years in prison. He was out on parole for about five years but parole violation sent him back in June, 1951.

Penitentiary authorities said he became ill recently. He died at the prison infirmary early today.

After the shooting a coroner's jury freed him after he said a holdup man shot the girl. Police continued their investigation and Mueller later confessed.

Barbara Hutton Takes Net Star As Her Sixth Husband

PARIS, Nov. 8 (AP) — Woolworth heiress Barbara Hutton took her sixth husband today — former German tennis star Baron Gottfried von Cramm. She made no glowing predictions for the future and skipped champagne.

Instead, she smiled quietly and said, "I am very happy," as she posed for photographers with her husband in their Ritz Hotel suit.

Despite a touch of bronchitis and a slight fever, she appeared much more rested and happy than when she faced photographers, tired and ill, beside husband No. 5, Porfirio Rubirosa, more than a year ago.

The newlyweds hurried back to their hotel after a simple civil wedding in the city hall of suburban Versailles. Von Cramm chatted with newsmen before his new baroness emerged in a low-cut black satin gown, with an orchid, a double strand of pearls, diamond earrings, a diamond bracelet and a simple gold wedding band.

The heiress, who lavished a good part of her 40-million-dollar fortune on previous husbands, was smiling but shy when asked what her husband had given her for a wedding present.

"It's a secret," she said.

She said it was a pity they had not married when they first met in 1937. "That would have been better for both of us."

Smiling jovially, Von Cramm told reporters they had planned to wed since last summer, when they were in Tangier. He said in view of past divorces they did not plan any further religious ceremonies.

Von Cramm was married once before. He was divorced in 1937 by Baroness Elisabeth von Debebeck.

Army, N. Mexico In Hunting Row

SANTA FE, N.M., Nov. 8 (AP)—Gov. John Sims warned today that he would not hesitate to use the National Guard if necessary to keep the Army from hunting in New Mexico without a state license.

Army personnel from Ft. Bliss, Tex., plan a special hunt Friday on the fort's firing range in southern New Mexico. Maj. Gen. P. W. Rutledge, Ft. Bliss commander, claims the Army has exclusive authority over the 400,000-acre range and the soldiers don't need state licenses, which cost $50 each. State authorities contend they do.

New Mexico enjoys an advantage in the dispute in that a strip of state land separates the firing range from Texas. Thus the Army hunters, in order to enter the range and then return to Texas with their game, would have to cross state property—where the National Guard would presumably be stationed.

The Army is reported to have hinted to game officials that if the way out of the range were blocked, the game would be taken out either by plane or in a convoy.

Army Asks 8,000 Draftees In January

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)— The Defense Department asked selective service today to draft 8,000 men during January.

The Army was the only service asking for draftees in the month.

In the draft call for December the Navy requested 10,000, the Army 8,000—the first time the Navy had used selective service since World War II days.

The new manpower levy brings to 1,994,430 the number of men drafted since the early months of the Korean War.

Court Ruling Frees Turncoats

Three former Army enlisted men who turned their backs to the U. S. after their release as POWs in Korea and then later returned home voluntarily, show little emotion as they answer questions of newsmen on the porch of the Army guardhouse at Fort Baker, Calif., yesterday. They had just been released after a Supreme Court ruling held the Army had no jurisdiction over the men. The Army was holding them on a charge of collaborating with the Communists. GM Study Opens With Proposals To Curb Giants

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP) — A four-week Senate "case study" of General Motors Corp. began today with proposals to curb giantism in industry.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), presiding at the Judiciary subcommittee hearings, gave assurances they "are not a prosecution" of the world's biggest manufacturing firm. A Republican, Sen. Wiley (Wis), urged that "partisan politics be kept out."

A small businessman testified that General Motors is "entirely too big." One economist warned against the trend of vast "conglomerates" ranging, as GM has done, into other industries. Another economist suggested the auto industry may be closed forever to newcomers.

GM Waives Confidence Pledge

O'Mahoney disclosed that three Michigan economists, who have made a special study of GM, have declined to testify because they gave "a pledge of confidence" to GM and to the Brookings Institution, for which they did research.

O'Mahoney said, however, that General Motors now has notified him it will waive the confidence pledge if requested to do so by the Brookings Institution. O'Mahoney said he wired the private research organization yesterday urging it to release the economists, and is hopeful of a reply shortly.

Undue Pressure Charged

The General Motors hearings have been described by O'Mahoney as a "study" rather than an investigation. He said the subcommittee wants to find out if possible how GM got so big and whether there is any truth to complaints it has exerted undue pressure on its dealers and suppliers.

The study started out today with an assertion by T. K. Quinn, small businessman, author and long-time critic of industrial bigness, that "General Motors is entirely too big."

"It unwittingly threatens the very existence of countless good companies and eventually our own free American institutions," Quinn said in a statement prepared for the subcommittee.

17 Killed As Plane Crashes Into School

SEOUL, Nov. 8 (AP)—A South Korean fighter plane flown by a rookie pilot plummeted into a jammed school house near Taegu today, killing 16 children and injuring 12, the ROK air force reported.

The pilot, Park Chang Suh, was killed instantly.

School apparently had just started, for it still was early in the morning when the plane, a Mustang propeller fighter, came crashing down.

Four of the classrooms in the school were demolished. The plane also was destroyed.

Nation Will Hear Ike Friday On Radio, TV

DENVER, No. 8 (AP)—President Eisenhower will take off for Washington at 9 a. m. Friday and the nation will hear his voice for the first time since his illness in an informal farewell talk at the airfield.

There will be another little talk on his arrival in Washington around 3:30 or 4 p. m.

Television and radio will cover both events.

"The President," said Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, "told me to say he would suspect he would say a few words."

Nothing profound or tremendously important is expected. Hagerty told a questioner, for example, he wouldn't think the chief executive would discuss anything like foreign policy.

Medical Bulletins Nearing End

Rather, Eisenhower is expected to voice his appreciation for the treatment he has received since his Sept. 24 heart attack, for the messages of sympathy from around the globe, and for the reception the city fathers are planning in Washington.

The daily medical bulletins, now nearing an end, reported that "The President's condition continues to be satisfactory." Hagerty said the bulletins will be discontinued when the President leaves the hospital.

In preparation for that, and for climbing the ramp to the presidential plane Friday, Eisenhower undertook six more trips up and down a 10-step flight of concrete stairs at the hospital.

Guatemala President To Call

The last official visitor at the hospital will be President Carlos Castillo Armas of Guatemala, who is on a state visit to the United States at Eisenhower's invitation. He will be here tomorrow to spend some 30 minutes with the chief executive.

Hagerty said Eisenhower definitely will receive his guest in pajamas and bath robe, since he isn't planning to don business clothing in advance of the trip back to Washington.

Bomber Explodes, Crashes In Texas

MARLIN, Tex., Nov. 8 (AP) — A B47 currently the nation's best general-use atomic carrier, exploded in the air near here tonight and crashed in four widely separated pieces of wreckage.

There apparently were no survivors. The sleek, swept-wing jet carries a crew of three—all officers.

An air rescue unit reported to its base that the plane was from Biggs Air Force Base at El Paso, Tex. The identification was made by a flight service check at Ellington Air Force Base, Houston, and by markings on the plane found by ground parties.

Grocer Surrenders For Deportation

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 8 (AP) — Frank Orlando, an upstate New York grocer described by the Justice Department as a racketeer, said goodbye to his wife and daughter today and surrendered for deportation to his native Italy.

There was a possibility that a lifetime in prison awaits him there, but U. S. officials have said they doubted this.

He told reporters as he gave himself up:

"God bless America. I love America."

The surrender climaxed an uphill battle that began for Orlando in August, 1954, when the Justice Department ordered him deported on the ground that he entered the U.S. illegally as a stowaway in 1924 and that he applied fraudulently for a certificate of arrival by using a false name in 1934.

Milk Of Vaccinated Cows Gives Disease Immunity

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 8 (AP)—Two University of Minnesota scientists have found a way to make cows give milk that can provide protection against disease.

They have discovered that cows vaccinated for a certain disease—or several diseases—will produce milk that has the power to protect against those diseases.

Immunity already has been built up in animals by feeding them milk from vaccinated cows. Twenty human guinea pigs have shown that protective qualities in milk are absorbed into the blood stream. Researchers say they are confident further experiments will show human beings can achieve immunity through drinking "protective milk."

The immunity to be achieved is of a "passive" or temporary character. It continues only as long as "protective milk" is consumed regularly.

This could mean that drinking milk from a cow vaccinated for smallpox, for example, might be substituted for vaccination against smallpox.

The discovery was made by Dr. William E. Petersen, professor of animal husbandry and authority on milk, and Dr. Berry Campbell, associate professor of anatomy who has done considerable work in the field of immunology.

They cautioned that much work remains to be done.

They say they are sure that "protective milk" can be used to immunize human beings against such diseases as streptococcal infections, such as sore throat, measles, smallpox, diphtheria, and tuberculosis.

They also believe it will be effective against polio.

Demands One Germany With Reds At Helm

Talks Seen Doomed As Russia Rejects Free Election Plan

GENEVA, Nov. 8 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov stunned the Big Four conference tonight with a thunderous demand for Communist dominance in a united Germany.

The Western Allies immediately obtained a recess until tomorrow. A French delegation officer said "tomorrow's meeting could be the last."

"If Molotov maintains his position, including his statement that Russia does not intend to submit any other proposals on German unification, it is difficult to see how the West could make any agreement or compromise on any other front in the agenda," the French official said.

More Meetings Expected

But American officials later tonight did not support the view the talks might end with tomorrow's session. They indicated that despite the conference's apparent failure the Big Four would need at least three or four more meetings to complete their agenda.

Molotov's sweeping rejection of any plan to unify Germany by free elections in the foreseeable future and his blunt demand that all Germany follow the Communist course of the East German regime demolished Western hopes of conciliation, built up by his Moscow remark last night that he was bringing back "better baggage" to Geneva.

Dulles Concerned

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles told the conference:

"What Mr. Molotov has said seems so serious in terms of the directive of our heads of government and the hopes with which we came here, that I prefer to study the matter overnight before speaking."

French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay and British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan agreed.

Western press officers jointly announced after the session that the initial allied impression of Molotov's speech is that it "tears up" the directive of the summit conference last July.

"It indicates," they said, "a determination by the Soviet Union to accept no settlenent of the German problem that does not involve the communization of all Germany."

West's Plan "Unreal"

Molotov denounced the West's proposal of last Friday for Germany's unification by free elections in September 1956. He called it "unreal and dangerous," reviving militarism and capitalism in all Germany and directing these forces against the Soviet Union.

He said German unity can only be achieved when the Germans in East and West "find a common language and take the task of preparing the settlement in their own hands."

Army Releases Three Turncoats

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8 (AP)—Three turncoat ex-soldiers who refused repatriation after the Korean War and went to Red China were released from an Army stockade at Ft. Baker today.

A federal judge had ordered their release earlier in accordance with a Supreme Court ruling yesterday that ex-servicemen cannot be tried by military courts for crimes committed while in service. They had been given dishonorable discharges after going over to the Reds.

The three are William A. Cowart, 22, Dalton, Ga., Otto G. Bell, 24, Hillsboro, Miss., and Lewie W. Griggs, 23, Neches, Tex.

There is still a possibility the three will be tried in federal (civil) court for turning against their country. But the attorney general's office in Washington has not made public its decision.

The three men, who were confined at Ft. Baker when they returned to San Francisco after their release by the Reds at Hong Kong last July, were quietly happy when their lawyers told them they were free to go.

They posed briefly outside the stockade for photographers, then were taken by their lawyers into San Francisco, where hotel reservations had been made.

FBI Aid In Airliner Crash Probe Asked

Explosion On Plane Indicates Sabotage

DENVER, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board asked full-fledged FBI aid today in its investigation of possible sabotage of the United Air Lines plane which exploded in flight near Longmont, Colo., Nov. 1, killing 44.

At the same time, a postal inspector released a report which supported a government investigator's disclosure that a bomb-type explosion "was completely foreign to the aircraft or to airline operations."

He said evidence so far uncovered showed "The accident was caused by an explosion while the aircraft was at normal altitude on its assigned course of flight.

"The investigation to fix responsibility for this act is being directed by the FBI. To avoid hampering work of those agents, no further details can now be provided."

Webb W. Burke, head of the Denver FBI office, would not comment other than to say his agents are looking into the crash "to determine if there has been a violation of a federal statute."

Heretofore, the FBI had been involved in the probe only through the help of its laboratories and identification bureau. Several pieces of the wreckage, together with some clothing and effects of those aboard, have been sent to Washington for study.

The request for FBI aid was made by James N. Peyton, chief investigator for the CAB. The call came after Peyton said the rear luggage hold was shattered by an explosion caused by "something foreign" inside the New York-to-Seattle plane a few minutes after it left Denver's Stapleton Airfield.

Peyton said luggage stored in the hold has an acid smell—"like gunpowder or an exploding firecracker." He added that in referring to something "foreign" he meant "something not a part of the plane."

R. B. Dunbar, Denver postal inspector, said 400 pounds of mail was recovered from a vast area stretching 8½ miles north and south and four miles east and west, indicating it was blown out of the plane high in the air.

Figures In Till Case Are Heard By Grand Jury

GREENWOOD, Miss., Nov. 8 (AP)—A Negro teen-aged farm hand and an elderly Negro sharecropper testified today before the grand jury that will decide whether two white men will stand trial in the Emmett Till kidnaping case.

The two Negroes are expected to be key state witnesses if an indictment is returned.

The Leflore County grand jury may report tomorrow whether Roy Bryant, 24, and his half-brother, John W. Milam, 36, will be indicted for kidnaping. A trial jury in nearby Sumner six weeks ago found both men innocent of slaying Till.

Mose Wright, 64, Till's uncle, ended a weary wait at 2:21 p.m. when County Atty. J. J. Fraiser Jr., called him into the grand jury room.

At the murder trial, Wright said two white men roused the 14-year-old Chicago Negro boy from bed and took him away because he allegedly made off color remarks and wolf-whistled at Bryant's wife.

Wright was in the grand jury room 24 minutes and the jury later recalled him for a brief time.

Willie Reed, 18, farmhand, was called next and spent 19 minutes before the 20-man, all-white grand jury.

Reed at the murder trial testified he saw a bald man who looked like Milam with Till several hours after Milam and Bryant claimed they released the Till boy unharmed.

Deputy Sheriff John Ed Cothran, who testified in the murder trial that Milam admitted taking the boy from Wright's shack, was called before the grand jury after Reed.

Next came Sheriff George Smith, who testified at the trial that Bryant admitted jerking Till out of bed in the early hours of last Aug. 28 and taking him away.

Federal Housing Tenant Loyalty Oath Rule Stands

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—Federal housing tenants in every state but Wisconsin will still be required to sign loyalty oaths, a government attorney said today.

Lawrence Davern, assistant general counsel of the Public Housing Administration (PHA), said the rule would continue to stand elsewhere despite the Supreme Court's refusal to interfere with a Wisconsin court decision against the oaths.

PHA takes the position, Davern said, that the Wisconsin Supreme Court ruling applied only to the one state.

The oath requirement, proposed by Rep. Gwinn (R-NY), went into the housing law in 1952. Davern estimated about 250,000 heads of families in federal housing projects have signed it. Some 18 tenants in other states have challenged the provision in court.

Davern noted the Supreme Court did not express an opinion on the constitutional aspects. It merely declined to review the Wisconsin decision.

"We will enforce the law until courts of jurisdiction void it or Congress repeals it," Davern said.

Aside from that, Davern said PHA would welcome a Supreme Court opinion on the law, which he called a "headache." He suggested any real Communist would not hesitate to sign a false affidavit to get into a government housing unit.

The Wisconsin court, in a case involving the Hillside Terrace project at Milwaukee, held the oath requirement deprived tenants of their rights of free speech.

Congressional Library Scene Of Snake Hunt

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—There was a big snake hunt today in the Library of Congress.

Actually, it was a big hunt for a little snake. For the quarry of a hastily organized safari was a 12-inch garter snake known to be loose on the third floor of the library.

Admittedly the Library of Congress is an odd habitat for snakes but the truth is that two of them live there, the property of Billy Walters, 15, Senate page from Osceola, Ark.

Billy keeps them at the school for congressional pages, housed on the library's third floor, because his grandmother won't let him keep them at her home a few blocks away.

Somehow, the garter snake escaped from its case. Just how is something of a mystery but Billy frankly suspects some of his classmates.

Escape it did and for a time there was near terror among the library employes as word went out that "a snake is loose." Janitors, guards and hastily summoned police started a search. Elevators virtually quit running to the third floor.

A quick call was put in for Billy, who headquarters in the office of Rep. Gathings (D-Ark).

By the time Billy arrived, the snake had been found—it had gone back to the cage presumably to visit the second snake.

Sarcasm Tried To Bring Out Vote

MAPLEWOOD, N.J., Nov. 8 (AP)—A group of Maplewood citizens tried sarcasm to bring out the voters today.

A folder left on the community's doorsteps last night read:

"Be a typical suburbanite. Stay away from the polls on election day.

"Eighty per cent of your neighbors never vote in an off-year election — so why should you? Russia gets by with only 3 per cent of the population voting; maybe we can do it here with your help."

Vic Mature's Wife Wins Default Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Nov. 8 (AP)—Victor Mature's wife testified in winning a default divorce today that "nine-tenths of my married life has been spent waiting for Mr. Mature to come home."

Mature, 41, recently returned from movie work in England.

He and the former Dorothy Stanford, Pasadena, Calif., society girl, were married in 1948. Their final separation was in August, 1954.

Mrs. Mature, who alleged cruelty, estimated her husband's earnings for this year at $450,000. Mature has been paying her $1,200 a month alimony.

Mature formerly was married to actress Frances Charles and Martha Stephenson Kemp, widow of bandleader Hal Kemp.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Isbrandtsen Co. Inc. said today its ship the Flying Trader picked up the crew of a sunken Italian motor ship. The crewmen were adrift in the Mediterranean.

The Flying Trader was bound for Beirut, Lebanon, and the rescue took place 270 miles west of there.

American Airlines Orders 30 Boeing Jet Transports

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—American Airlines announced tonight the purchase of 30 Boeing jet transports and said it would establish the nation's first transcontinental jet service June 15, 1959.

The planes will cost about 4½ million dollars each for a total of about 135 million dollars, American's president, C. R. Smith, said in a news release.

He added that they will cut three hours or more off the present transcontinental schedules which American is flying with 360-mile-an-hour piston-engine DC7 airplanes.

The DC7 can make it from Los Angeles to New York in 7 hours, 15 minutes. The jet is expected to cover the same distance in 4 hours, 15 minutes.

The first U. S. domestic jet schedules will be between New York and Chicago, Chicago and Los Angeles, and nonstop between New York and Los Angeles, Smith said.

Later the jet service will be extended to other cities on American's system, the largest in the United States.

The order tightened the hot jet sales race between the Model 707 of Boeing Airplane Co., Seattle, which American ordered, and the DC8 offered by Douglas Aircraft Co., Santa Monica, Calif.

The first big jet order was announced Oct. 13 by Pan American World Airways—20 707s for 109 million dollars, and 25 DC8s for 160 million.

United Air Lines followed with an order for 30 DC8s costing 175 million dollars, 40 million more than American is paying for the same number of 707s.

Ike Will Renominate Sobeloff As Judge

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell made it clear today that President Eisenhower will resubmit his nomination of Solicitor General Simon E. Sobeloff of Baltimore to be a judge on the Fourth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Approval of the original nomination was blocked in the Senate earlier this year.

In an address prepared for a B'Nai B'Rith dinner to present the organization's "medal for humanitarism" to Sobeloff, the attorney general said the President had sought "to establish and maintain loftiest standards in the admintration of justice" by recommending outstanding and qualified persons as federal judges."

Sobeloff's nomination for the court, centered at Richmond, Va., never got out of committee in the last session of congress. Seven senators announced their opposition to the nomination on grounds that the solicitor general is known as a strong advocate of racial integration in the public schools.

Hoagy Carmichael's Wife Gets Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Nov. 8 (AP)—Mrs. Ruth Carmichael, 41, wife of composer Hoagy Carmichael, 55, obtained a divorce today on testimony that he had been "cold and indifferent" to her for the last three years.

Mrs. Carmichael told Superior Judge Edward Brand her divorce suit "was more or less a culmination of many things which I'd give my life for if I didn't have to state them specifically."

She testified her husband had been quarrelsome over expenses and, during her past illnesses, threatened to fire the doctor and nurses.

Lawrence Davern, assistant general counsel of the Public Housing Administration (PHA), said the rule would continue to stand elsewhere despite the Supreme Court's refusal to interfere with a Wisconsin court decision against the oaths.

PHA takes the position, Davern said, that the Wisconsin Supreme Court ruling applied only to the one state.

The oath requirement, proposed by Rep. Gwinn (R-NY), went into the housing law in 1952. Davern estimated about 250,000 heads of families in federal housing projects have signed it. Some 18 tenants in other states have challenged the provision in court.

Davern noted the Supreme Court did not express an opinion on the constitutional aspects. It merely declined to review the Wisconsin decision.

"We will enforce the law until courts of jurisdiction void it or Congress repeals it," Davern said.

Aside from that, Davern said PHA would welcome a Supreme Court opinion on the law, which he called a "headache." He suggested any real Communist would not hesitate to sign a false affidavit to get into a government housing unit.

The Wisconsin court, in a case involving the Hillside Terrace project at Milwaukee, held the oath requirement deprived tenants of their rights of free speech.

Congressional Library Scene Of Snake Hunt

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—There was a big snake hunt today in the Library of Congress.

Actually, it was a big hunt for a little snake. For the quarry of a hastily organized safari was a 12-inch garter snake known to be loose on the third floor of the library.

Admittedly the Library of Congress is an odd habitat for snakes but the truth is that two of them live there, the property of Billy Walters, 15, Senate page from Osceola, Ark.

Billy keeps them at the school for congressional pages, housed on the library's third floor, because his grandmother won't let him keep them at her home a few blocks away.

Somehow, the garter snake escaped from its case. Just how is something of a mystery but Billy frankly suspects some of his classmates.

Escape it did and for a time there was near terror among the library employes as word went out that "a snake is loose." Janitors, guards and hastily summoned police started a search. Elevators virtually quit running to the third floor.

A quick call was put in for Billy, who headquarters in the office of Rep. Gathings (D-Ark).

By the time Billy arrived, the snake had been found—it had gone back to the cage presumably to visit the second snake.

Sarcasm Tried To Bring Out Vote

MAPLEWOOD, N.J., Nov. 8 (AP)—A group of Maplewood citizens tried sarcasm to bring out the voters today.

A folder left on the community's doorsteps last night read:

"Be a typical suburbanite. Stay away from the polls on election day.

"Eighty per cent of your neighbors never vote in an off-year election — so why should you? Russia gets by with only 3 per cent of the population voting; maybe we can do it here with your help."

Vic Mature's Wife Wins Default Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Nov. 8 (AP)—Victor Mature's wife testified in winning a default divorce today that "nine-tenths of my married life has been spent waiting for Mr. Mature to come home."

Mature, 41, recently returned from movie work in England.

He and the former Dorothy Stanford, Pasadena, Calif., society girl, were married in 1948. Their final separation was in August, 1954.

Mrs. Mature, who alleged cruelty, estimated her husband's earnings for this year at $450,000. Mature has been paying her $1,200 a month alimony.

Crew Of Sunken Italian Motor Ship Rescued

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Isbrandtsen Co. Inc. said today its ship the Flying Trader picked up the crew of a sunken Italian motor ship. The crewmen were adrift in the Mediterranean.

The Flying Trader was bound for Beirut, Lebanon, and the rescue took place 270 miles west of there.

American Airlines Orders 30 Boeing Jet Transports

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—American Airlines announced tonight the purchase of 30 Boeing jet transports and said it would establish the nation's first transcontinental jet service June 15, 1959.

The planes will cost about 4½ million dollars each for a total of about 135 million dollars, American's president, C. R. Smith, said in a news release.

He added that they will cut three hours or more off the present transcontinental schedules which American is flying with 360-mile-an-hour piston-engine DC7 airplanes.

The DC7 can make it from Los Angeles to New York in 7 hours, 15 minutes. The jet is expected to cover the same distance in 4 hours, 15 minutes.

The first U. S. domestic jet schedules will be between New York and Chicago, Chicago and Los Angeles, and nonstop between New York and Los Angeles, Smith said.

Later the jet service will be extended to other cities on American's system, the largest in the United States.

The order tightened the hot jet sales race between the Model 707 of Boeing Airplane Co., Seattle, which American ordered, and the DC8 offered by Douglas Aircraft Co., Santa Monica, Calif.

The first big jet order was announced Oct. 13 by Pan American World Airways—20 707s for 109 million dollars, and 25 DC8s for 160 million.

United Air Lines followed with an order for 30 DC8s costing 175 million dollars, 40 million more than American is paying for the same number of 707s.

Ike Will Renominate Sobeloff As Judge

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell made it clear today that President Eisenhower will resubmit his nomination of Solicitor General Simon E. Sobeloff of Baltimore to be a judge on the Fourth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Approval of the original nomination was blocked in the Senate earlier this year.

In an address prepared for a B'Nai B'Rith dinner to present the organization's "medal for humanitarism" to Sobeloff, the attorney general said the President had sought "to establish and maintain loftiest standards in the administration of justice" by recommending outstanding and qualified persons as federal judges."

Sobeloff's nomination for the court, centered at Richmond, Va., never got out of committee in the last session of congress. Seven senators announced their opposition to the nomination on grounds that the solicitor general is known as a strong advocate of racial integration in the public schools.

Hoagy Carmichael's Wife Gets Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Nov. 8 (AP)—Mrs. Ruth Carmichael, 41, wife of composer Hoagy Carmichael, 55, obtained a divorce today on testimony that he had been "cold and indifferent" to her for the last three years.

Mrs. Carmichael told Superior Judge Edward Brand her divorce suit "was more or less a culmination of many things which I'd give my life for if I didn't have to state them specifically."

She testified her husband had been quarrelsome over expenses and, during her past illnesses, threatened to fire the doctor and nurses.

America's traditional gift-whiskies in decanters of surpassing beauty

JUST as America knows no finer bonded bourbons, the art world knows no more beautiful decanters than the Classic Decanter for OLD GRAND-DAD and the Presentation Decanter for OLD TAYLOR.

And just as your friends would have difficulty deciding which of the two deeply mellow and richly flavorsome bourbons they would prefer, so they would be hard put to judge between the distinctive beauties of the two decanters.

If you decide to make a truly handsome gift, why not favor your best friends with both these rare bourbons in their artistically perfect decanters.

Whether you give one or both, you may be sure that money can buy no more flavorsome—and welcome—bonded bourbons, nor art devise decanters in finer taste.

Plans Are Under Way For Two Bridges

Preliminary work is under way on the most complicated engineering problem of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project.

Rex E. Dexter, resident engineer for the Corps of Army Engineers here, said temporary bridges will be needed at Baltimore Street for vehicular and Western Maryland Railway traffic.

Both Baltimore Street and the railroad must be kept open during the construction of the two permanent bridges, Dexter said.

The Corps of Engineers has let the contract for the planning of this project to the architectural engineering firm of Sverdrup and Parcel of St. Louis.

Two of the company's representatives were here Friday examining the area that will be affected with the work.

In addition to the bridge, a spur track into the Queen City Brewing Company will also be affected.

There is a possibility that a by-pass railroad bridge with one track will be constructed to handle the traffic on the Connellsville subdivision.

Dexter said the contract for Phase 4 of the Wills Creek paving part of the overall project, along with the Western Maryland permanent and temporary bridges will be advertised in March, according to an announcement this week by the Corps of Engineers.

The contract for paving the second and third phases of the creek, from just downstream from the Valley Street Bridge to a point about 300 feet from the Market Street bridge, has been adveritsed.

When bids for this channel work together with the construction of a pumping station at the B&O Viaduct were opened last week, the apparent low bidder was the E. J. Albrecht Company of Chicago.

Dexter pointed out that it was originally planned to have the creek bed remain on the present rock formation from the third phase through the fourth phase.

But some deep points were discovered, and it will be necessary to fill in with concrete in the vicinity of the Baltimore Street bridges, Dexter explained.

Vote Machine Bids Received

Six bids were received by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday for insurance on the 103 voting machines recently purchased by the county.

The machines, which cost a total of $146,466, are stored in several reconditioned rooms of the Court House basement.

Bids were submitted by Bert J. Graham, J. H. Holzshu, Wiebel and Workmeister, Samuel T. Weatherholt and Son, M. D. Reinhart, all of Cumberland, and the Beall Insurance and Realty Company of Frostburg.

No decision was made on awarding the contract for insurance coverage pending a tabulation of the bids. The bids varied with premiums listed on one, three and five-year coverage.

The commissioners also discussed briefly the plan for financing the purchase price of the 103 machines. Local banking institutions have been invited to finance the devices but no decision has been reached.

The board announced that the second floor porch of the Allegany County Infirmary has been enclosed and the furnishings and draperies are ready for placement.

It is planned to hold an open house in the near future so that the public can see the new accommodations for the inmates of the infirmary. Those persons who use wheel chairs or are ambulatory will be able to make use of the new facilities.

The furniture and draperies in the new quarters will be purchased from funds left to the infirmary by the late Emma R. Seem, this city. This fund totals about $5,000 and is kept separate from other county funds. It will be used for similar projects, under terms of the Seems will.

LaVale Group Studies Need For Police

The need for police protection of its own was discussed for the growing suburb of LaVale at a meeting Monday of the executive board of the LaVale Civic Improvement Association in the LaVale Fire Hall.

J. Kenneth Morgan, president, pointed out that while the LaVale Barracks of State Police is located in the suburb, it is the community's obligation to provide its own police.

The State Police serve the entire county and should not have to be burdened with local police duties, members of the board agreed.

Cumberland and Hagerstown, with populations around the 37,000 mark, each has a police force totaling about 50 men.

Oakland with a 1950 census of 1,600, has two constables, while little LaPlata with a population of 780 has one police officer.

According to the census taken for school purposes, LaVale has a population of about 8,000, and no municipal police.

Harry Kauffman, a member of the board, pointed out that the LaVale special taxing district has power to provide for police protection under the law passed in the General Assembly setting up the district.

Also discussed were the needs for street lighting, and a program for side roads, and other problems facing the rapidly growing section.

It is important that more citizens participate in the civic improvement association activities, the board agreed.

A concerted membership drive will be started with a goal of having every family in LaVale being represented in the community organization, Morgan pointed out.

Hampered by a lack of funds, the board's recreation committee comprised of Walter N. Hedrick and Al Tosh is seeking the donation of property to be used for playground purposes.

Under the association's setup it is qualified to hold title to property, Morgan said.

PTA Minstrel Being Planned

Assault Case Trial Opens In Keyser Today

Three Cumberland men accused of raping a 34-year-old woman are scheduled to go on trial today in Mineral County Circuit Court at Keyser.

Defendants are James W. Fadley, 30, of River Avenue; James E. Beerman, 30, of Fourth Street, and Daral C. Lambert, 25, of Grand Avenue. They were indicted by a Mineral County grand jury following a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace C. J. Phillips in Ridgeley.

Charges were preferred by Mrs. Betty Smith, of Hagerstown, who told Cumberland authorities she was forcibly assaulted in July when the trio took her to Cumberland Municipal Airport near Wiley Ford after promising her a ride to a sister's home on Laing Avenue.

Later the woman swore out a warrant in West Virginia and the defendants were turned over to State Police at Keyser. The trio waived extradition before Chief Judge George Henderson in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Fourteen witnesses have been summoned to appear for the trial.

"Lucky" Luciano Gets Job In Naples

NAPLES, Italy, Nov. 8 (AP)—No fooling, Charles "Lucky" Luciano has really gone and got a job.

For months, the exiled former New York vice lord threatened to do it. He said he was going to open a dairy shop, then a butcher shop, a bakery, a haberdashery, an electrical shop. He said he was going to import rags from the United States and he intended to star in a movie based on his life. None of the forecasts came true.

But today, he has a two-room shop in Naples' Royal Hotel building full of surgical instruments for which he is the distributor in southern Italy. He opened the business several days ago.

Hunter Receives Suspended Fine

A Baltimore hunter Monday received a suspended $50 fine for hunting game in Maryland with an improper license.

Francis Loren White was arrested October 29 on Green Ridge Mountain by Game Warden Joseph J. Keating.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick suspended the fine when White said he had moved to Maryland from North Carolina recently and bought what he thought was a proper resident license. Because White was not a resident of the state for the proper time for a resident license, Magistrate Dick said he would suspend the fine on condition White buy a non-resident license.

Resolution On Bridge Strengthening Adopted

A resolution submitted by Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson at yesterday's session of the Allegany County Commissioners requesting that the bridge across the Potomac River leading from the Uhl Highway to Paw Paw be strengthened has been adopted.

Wilkinson's resolution stated that the bridge across the river at that point carries a weight limit capacity of 20,000 pounds.

"It is anticipated that in connection with the construction of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's plant at North Branch, heavy loads of sand in excess of the bridge weight limit may have to be carried by truck to the plant site from Berkeley Springs across the bridge," the resolution stated.

"It is feared that without the strengthening of the structure these heavy loads may cause the collapse or damage to the bridge, making it unusable by the many residents of West Virginia and of Allegany County who regularly use the bridge," it was added.

The bridge is owned jointly by the states of Maryland and West Virginia.

Wilkinson's resolution requested that both states be notified and urged to take immediate action to strengthen or reinforce the bridge. Copies of the resolution will also be sent to State Senator Charles M. See and members of the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly.

Lawmakers Clash Over Baltimore Port Authority Proposal

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8 (AP) — State senators from Anne Arundel County and Baltimore clashed today over a proposed independent authority for the Port of Baltimore.

Sens. Phipps (D-Anne Arundel) and Bertorelli (D-Balto-First) disagreed on whether a legislative council committee had given the proposal adequate consideration.

Phipps said no, Berterelli sharply disagreed.

A 30-member Joint Port Commission has recommended the appointment by the governor of a five-man authority to include at least one member each from Baltimore, Baltimore County and Anne Arundel County.

Among other things it would have power—subject to approval by local authorities—to condemn private property within certain boundaries ranging into the tributaries of the Patapsco and Back rivers.

Phipps complained the counties and city won't have a direct say in the appointment of authority members. He argued that since any land acquired would come from the counties or city they should select three members, leaving the governor to name the other two.

Phipps contended a legislative council subcommittee hadn't given the port problem proper consideration and that neither he nor the Anne Arundel Commissioners had had time to study the discussions.

Bertorelli replied that the problem had been given fair consideration and he urged the hearing not be delayed, as Phipps asked.

Sen. Goldstein (D-Calvert) council chairman, said the report was only a preliminary one and no action would be taken before all interested groups were heard.

Commission officials indicated their full report would be available in about two weeks, and Goldstein assured Phipps he would have ample opportunity to present views before the council acts on that report.

Among other things, Phipps and Del. Kirkland (D-Anne Arundel) asked that some compromise be worked out to prevent total loss of tax revenue from any property condemned by the authority. They suggested that the authority be required to pay a certain percentage of property taxes which would have gone to the counties or city if the property had not been taken.

Phipps also strenuously objected to the proposal to give the governor power to appoint all members of the authority, contending the counties and city should have some control over who serves on it.

Bertorelli, opposing Phipps' move to postpone even the formal acknowledgment of the report, declared the Anne Arundel senator should have broken any previous engagement and attended a commission meeting last week.

The Joint Port Commission said the port authority should spend nearly $1-million a year to promote business for the port. It should also improve cargo handling facilities.

The report proposed that the authority use State bridge tolls as a source of independent and continuing income after bridge bonds are paid off in seven years.

The commission suggested State and federal grants of $12 to $15 million would be needed to enable the commission to operate until toll revenues become available.

County Will Pay Part Of Huyett Retirement Bill

HAGERSTOWN, Nov. 8 (AP) — Washington County's commissioners reversed themselves today and agreed to pay $1,302 toward a retirement income for Del. John B. Huyett (D-Wash).

The commissioners previously had balked at paying the bill from the State Employees' Retirement System.

They voted unanimously today to pay it. There was no explanation for the change of heart.

The 1955 General Assembly extended retirement benefits to elected officials, including members of the Legislature, and gave them credit for time served in other public offices.

Huyett was sheriff of Washington County from 1942 to 1946 and a member of the county liquor board from 1934 to 1939. John P. Mannion, director of the employes' retirement system, told the commissioners it was his opinion under the law they must pay an employer's constribution toward a pension for Huyett's years of service in the county posts.

When the question first came before the commissioners they consulted their attorney, John M. Colton, and he advised them to hold up payment.

Colton pointed out the Frederick municipal government had initiated a court test to determine whether it was obliged to pay a similar bill.

The retirement system had billed Frederick for more than $13,000 to cover Chairman Russell H. McCain of the State Roads Commission, and State Police Superintendent Elmer F. Munshower.

Both McCain and Munshower are former Frederick city officials.

Swallowed Hatpin Fatal To Zoo Cow

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8 (AP) — A Scottish Highland cow died at the Baltimore Zoo today, stabbed to death by a 3-inch hatpin she apparently had eaten. The pin punctured the animal's heart.

Zoo Director Arthur Watson said the pin must have been thrown in the cage. He asked Park Police to see if the hatpin's owner could be traced.

The cow was one of three of the breed at the zoo and was going to have a calf.

PSC May Decide Water Rate Row

HAGERSTOWN, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Washington County commissioners today asked the Public Service Commission to investigate and fix the water rates which the city of Hagerstown charges customers outside city limits.

Representatives of suburban residents and the city's mayor and council joined in requesting that the commissioners seek PSC intervention.

The controversy was touched off last August when the city council set the rate for consumers outside the city limits at 75 cents a thousand gallons. The rate inside the city is 30 cents.

A complaint was filed in Circuit Court and the city council last week reduced the "out of town" rate to 60 cents.

The city has about 3,000 outside water customers, one of them being the city of Williamsport, which buys water wholesale from Hagerstown and distributes it to Williamsport customers.

Film Of Accused Bookie Is Shown As Trial Begins

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8 (AP) — A seven-minute movie of Irving Klein in action was shown in Criminal Court today when he went on trial on charges of bookmaking.

Klein's attorney protested the film was an "illegal invasion of the defendant's privacy." He also contended the movie violated constitutional guarantees that an accused may not be required to testify against himself.

It was the first time the police have ever tried to use motion pictures as evidence against an alleged bookmaker.

Judge John T. Tucker overruled defense motions and took a look at the film.

Patrolman John Livesay said he took the movie from an apartment house across a busy northwest Baltimore intersection from where Klein was operating.

It showed a series of men coming up to Klein and conversing with him. Something changed hands. Klein had a paper in his hand.

Klein's attorney said the film did not show what the police said it showed. He said no one could make out that it was a scratch sheet Klein was holding, or that what changed hands was money for bets.

Patrolman Livesay said Klein went to telephone booths in nearby stores after the street corner conversations.

Judging from a recent nation-wide survey, 76% of the people in this country don't understand how the New York Stock Exchange works. This advertisement is being published to explain the Exchange and how it serves America. We hope you'll find it informative and worthwhile.

What goes on at the Stock Exchange?

1. It all began 'way back when Washington was President. The government had sold bonds to pay for the Revolution. Infant companies had issued securities in which there was scattered trading. But there was no established market place where buyers and sellers could get together. So in 1792, a group of businessmen established the New York Stock Exchange, where the public's orders to buy or sell stocks and bonds could be handled.

2. It's still a market place . . . but it now serves more investors than there were people in the whole country in 1792. And, by providing a market place for securities over the years, the Exchange has helped make it possible for business to raise the capital it needed to build our great industries.

3. The Exchange doesn't own stocks which are bought and sold on its floor — never has. What it does do is bring together buyers and sellers of securities through its Member Firms. Orders are handled on the floor of the Exchange by "floor" members representing the Member Firms. It's the responsibility of the floor member to get the lowest available price for a buyer of stock and the highest price for a seller.

4. If you want to own your share of American business, the man to see is a partner or a registered representative with a Member Firm in your community. He can give you information about the 1,522 common and preferred stocks and the 739 corporate bonds listed on the Exchange. Cost for his help and advice: not one penny.

Before you invest, get the facts. Investing is a serious business. There always is some risk. So before you put your money into securities, be sure you have adequate savings to cushion you and your family against emergencies.

Lawmakers Clash Over Baltimore Port Authority Proposal

Sens. Phipps (D-Anne Arundel) and Bertorelli (D-Balto-First) disagreed on whether a legislative council committee had given the proposal adequate consideration.

Phipps said no, Berterelli sharply disagreed.

A 30-member Joint Port Commission has recommended the appointment by the governor of a five-man authority to include at least one member each from Baltimore, Baltimore County and Anne Arundel County.

Among other things it would have power—subject to approval by local authorities—to condemn private property within certain boundaries ranging into the tributaries of the Patapsco and Back rivers.

The report proposed that the authority use State bridge tolls as a source of independent and continuing income after bridge bonds are paid off in seven years.

The commission suggested State and federal grants of $12 to $15 million would be needed to enable the commission to operate until toll revenues become available.

Judging from a recent nation-wide survey, 76% of the people in this country don't understand how the New York Stock Exchange works. This advertisement is being published to explain the Exchange and how it serves America. We hope you'll find it informative and worthwhile.

What goes on at the Stock Exchange?

1. It all began 'way back when Washington was President. The government had sold bonds to pay for the Revolution. Infant companies had issued securities in which there was scattered trading. But there was no established market place where buyers and sellers could get together. So in 1792, a group of businessmen established the New York Stock Exchange, where the public's orders to buy or sell stocks and bonds could be handled.

2. It's still a market place . . . but it now serves more investors than there were people in the whole country in 1792. And, by providing a market place for securities over the years, the Exchange has helped make it possible for business to raise the capital it needed to build our great industries.

3. The Exchange doesn't own stocks which are bought and sold on its floor — never has. What it does do is bring together buyers and sellers of securities through its Member Firms. Orders are handled on the floor of the Exchange by "floor" members representing the Member Firms. It's the responsibility of the floor member to get the lowest available price for a buyer of stock and the highest price for a seller.

4. If you want to own your share of American business, the man to see is a partner or a registered representative with a Member Firm in your community. He can give you information about the 1,522 common and preferred stocks and the 739 corporate bonds listed on the Exchange. Cost for his help and advice: not one penny.

Before you invest, get the facts. Investing is a serious business. There always is some risk. So before you put your money into securities, be sure you have adequate savings to cushion you and your family against emergencies.

Man Is Held Under $1,000 Bond On Bad Checks Count

A former Frostburg man, recently released from the Maryland Penitentiary, is being held under $1,000 bond in Allegany County jail for action of the grand jury, on a charge of attempting to cash several bad checks.

Albert Cole was taken before Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick yesterday morning and the bond was set during the hearing.

City Police pointed out that he admitted breaking and entering a local establishment and taking a book of blank checks from the premises.

Cole, who now resides at 450 North Mechanic Street, but gave a previous address as 113 Park Street, Frostburg, has admitted passing at least three bad checks as well as breaking into the Hatfield Tire Service store on North Mechanic Street and taking a blank check book.

Lt. James E. Van of the Cumberland Police Department, said Cole passed at least two checks at Bowman's Grocery on North Mechanic Street and late bought a radio and received about $25 in cash at Marple's Jewelry Store, North Centre Street.

Lt. Van said the man told police at first he had found the check book in an alley, but after lengthy questioning admitted he had taken them from Hatfields after breaking into the store last Monday.

Police, searching his living quarters, found the check book and a Masonic ring which also had been stolen from Hatfield's. Several checks, prepared for cashing, were also found.

Cole told authorities he waited several days after taking the checks before writing several of them. A clerk in one of the stores identified Cole as the man who passed the worthless checks, Lt. Van said.

Cole paid $6.50 for repairs to a door on Pioneer Place which he smashed in an attempt to escape arrest by police Saturday.

The only trouble with most smiles is that they don't show often enough, but others need the correction Mr. Powers describes.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Re-Style Your Smile

If charm is deeply concerned with putting others at ease, as you and I so firmly believe it is, then a smile is the greatest wonder worker of all. A smile instantly reaches out with good humor, friendliness, interest approval—a shining array of expressions of encouragement. And a warm and beautiful smile can flash a glimpse of all the things you are that make you a charmer.

A smile, of course, must come from the heart—the lips and eyes take it from there. All most girls must learn about smiling is to smile oftener, to let good inner attitudes shine through. But there are genuine and ready smiles that can be made more attractive. The dentist or orthodontist can correct most faults, but sometimes it's a case of retaining the action of the lips as they smile.

A mouth that's too small for example, may smile with a smirking expression. For this, make it a habit to smile with parted lips. A mouth that's extra wide, on the other hand, produces a more winning smile if the lips are closed. Both changes must come from your own efforts.

And then there's the mouth that is short on upper lip and shows gum margins in a smile. For this, train the upper lip by this method: 1. Stretch the upper lip down over the teeth. Say "Mo-o-o-o." 2. Hold the lip between the teeth and smile. 3. Purse the lips, pull them downward and grin. 4. Let the lower jaw fall and try to touch your nose with your upper lip.

Months of daily practice are necessary to eliminate strain from the new way of smiling, but it, too, can become as natural as all beguiling smiles must be.

Tomorrow—Gossipers, beware!

Americans Give More

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 (AP)—Community Chests and Councils of America report that Americans are giving nine per cent more through United Funds and Community Chests this fall than last.

The first 110 cities reporting campaign results have achieved 100.4 per cent of their 1956 goals, it was said.

B&O Machinist Retires Here

A local B&O Railroad Company machinist has retired after 56 years service.

He is Harry J. Whetzle, RD 1, LaVale, who had been employed at the roundhouse here. A native of Sandy Hook, he was a son of William H. Whetzle, who was road foreman of engines on the Shenandoah Division between Brunswick and Harrisonburg, Va.

Whetzle was first employed in 1899 by the B&O at Riverside in Baltimore as an engine cleaner. He went to Brunswick in 1904 and started his apprenticeship as a machinist, which he completed June 1, 1909. He worked there until April 1, 1910 when he left the B&O for a short time to work for the Washington Terminal.

In 1913 he came to Cumberland as a machinist at the roundhouse and has worked as enginehouse foreman, relief foreman and Interstate Commerce Commission inspector at intervals during the past 42 years.

He is married to the former Ocle Shoemaker. Whetzle was presented with a U. S savings bond by fellow workers at the roundhouse upon his retirement. The presentation was made by J. F. Peach, assistant master mechanic here.

The troupe will perform the noted folk opera in Antwerp, Dusseldorf, Munich and Berlin, and then go to Moscow and Leningrad for three weeks beginning Dec. 18.

Guide Dog Study

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 (AP) — The New York School of Social Work at Columbia University is making a study of the use of guide dogs by blind persons.

Dulles' Geneva Chauffeur Used To Drive For Chaplin

By EDDY GILMORE

GENEVA, Nov. 8 (AP)—The man who chauffeurs Secretary of State Dulles at the Geneva conference reports he used to drive for Charlie Chaplin.

"Yes," said Fred Kafader, a Swiss, "life is full of surprise. I used to drive Mr. Chaplin when he first came to Switzerland in the early 1950s, and now I'm driving the secretary of state."

Chaplin lives at nearby Vevey. Dulles has been in Geneva nearly two weeks at the Big Four foreign ministers' conference.

Asked if there is much difference in driving a film clown and an international diplomat, Kafader replied:

"Chaplin is funnier."

He quickly added, however, that Dulles might be extremely amusing too, but the mechanics of Dulles' automobile prevents any prolonged give and take of wit.

"It's this glass window," said the chauffeur. "Mr. Dulles keeps it shut. Mr. Chaplin kept it open.

"Driving Mr. Dulles is easier. In fact, there's hardly anything to it. It's one of the nicest jobs I know of."

The chauffeur said the secretary is no back seat driver as a rule, but he recalled one exception.

"We were leaving Mr. Molotov's villa last week. Mr. Dulles was already in his car and seated in the back seat when some photographer came up and asked him if he'd get out and pose shaking hands with Mr. Molotov."

Kafader paused and smiled.

"The secretary told me to get going. And I never knew him to be more emphatic."

Meg's Romance May Alter Basic British Fabric

LONDON, Nov. 8 (AP)—Princess Margaret's renunciation of her love for Peter Townsend provoked a public controversy that ultimately may alter part of Britain's basic fabric — the relationship between church and state.

The star-crossed love affair of the Princess and the divorced war hero takes it place in the anthrology of famous romances. But for the historian a more important chapter may develop over the years.

The Church of England hailed Margaret's decision to chose duty over love. Her marriage to Townsend would have conflicted with its attitude against remarriage of divorced persons while their exmates are living, as is Townsend's. On the surface, at least, the church won a victory. But at what price?

The romance focused public scrutiny on the Church of England "as by law established" and its relationship with the state to a degree without precedent in the last few centuries.

For a week letter columns of newspapers have been filled with pointed expressions of opinion about the case.

Many praised Margaret "for giving a moral example to the world." There were expressions of support also for the archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, the primate of all England.

But other letters contained phrases such as: "I will never go to church again." "The archbishop of Canterbury should resign." "The church is confounding the teachings of Christ. His theme was love, charity and forgiveness."

Two mass circulation newspapers, the Daily Mirror and Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, called for disestablishment — the severing of all ties that now link the endowed Anglican church with the crown and the government.

The influential Manchester Guardian analyzed the public mood this way: "The British people are not really happy about the outcome of the affair and some of its effects may be deep."

Falls Popular In Fall

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Nov. 8 (AP)—Newlyweds seem to be taking more interest in Niagara Falls now than is usual in the fall. A total of 1,483 honeymoon certificates were issued to visitors in September and October, against 1,122 in the same two months last year.

BULLET-RIDDLED CAR EXAMINED — A detective examines an auto riddled with 300 bullet holes and parked at 2337 Melrose St., Chicago. When police located the owner, Herbert Schmidt, 22, he said he shot up the car last year when he returned empty handed from a hunting trip. (AP Photofax)

Airline Due To Get Permanent Authority

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP) — A Civil Aeronautics Board examiner recommended today that Piedmont Aviation Inc., Winston-Salem, N.C., be granted a permanent certificate for all of the cities or its system except Danville, Va., and London-Corbin, Ky.

Examiner Curtis C. Henderson said service at those points should continue on a temporary basis, under a three-year certificate, because of the small amount of traffic generated there.

The examiner's recommendations coincided with those of the CAB itself in an Oct. 10 show-cause order. Thus it was likely that Piedmont soon would join the ranks of the local service airlines gaining permanent authority under legislation passed earlier this year.

Piedmont asked that it be permitted to limit service at Princeton-Bluefield, W. Va., to one round trip a day when traffic was too light to justify additional service. The airline has this authority currently on a temporary basis.

Henderson recommended that Piedmont be relieved of the obligation to serve Princeton-Bluefield on more than one round trip a day. But said this should be granted under a separate application for a change of service pattern. He said Piedmont has indicated it will file such an application immediately.

The 28 airports for which the CAB and the examiner have recommended permanent certification for Piedmont:

Cincinnati and Columbus, Ohio; Parkersburg, W. Va., - Marietta, Ohio; Louisville and Lexington, Ky.; Bristol, Va.-Tenn.-Kingsport-Johnson City, Tenn.; Ashland, Ky.-Huntington, W. Va.; Myrtle Beach, S. C.; Knoxville, Tenn.; Morehead City-Beaufort and Southern Pines-Pinehurst-Aberdeen, N. C., (on a seasonal basis); and the following:

In North Carolina — Asheville, Hickory, Charlotte, Fayetteville, Wilmington, New Bern, Winston-Salem, Greensboro - High Point, Raleigh-Durham, Kinston.

In Virginia — Norfolk, Newport News - Hampton - Warwick, Richmond, Lynchburg, Roanoke.

In West Virginia—Princeton-Bluefield, Beckley and Charleston.

50,000th Statehouse Visitor Is Honored

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 8 (AP) — Mrs. Fred W. Rahn of Indianapolis, Ind., was made an honorary curator of Maryland's historic Statehouse today in recognition of being its 50,000th visitor this year.

She and her husband, a retired employe of a meat packing firm, said they had visited all the state capitols in the country but "this is the most impressive of all."

"It's so pretty and bright," Mrs. Rahn said in receiving an orchid and a shower of other gifts from Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin.

The Rahns, who are visiting a son in Baltimore, actually signed the guest register under the 183-year-old wooden dome yesterday, but agreed to come back today for the ceremonies with the governor.

New Putting Green Put In At Ike's Farm

DENVER, Nov. 8 (AP)—There's a new putting green at President Eisenhower's farm in Gettysburg, Pa., and he probably will be able to try it out next month, weather permitting.

The President's physicians confirmed yesterday that the recuperating chief executive will be allowed to do a bit of putting not too long after he gets to Gettysburg. He will check out of the hospital here Friday and fly back East.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, noted Boston heart specialist, told a news conference that when he calls on Eisenhower at Gettysburg next month he may bring along a few golf balls for a bit of putting practice with the President.

The green is the gift of the Professional Golf Assn.

Dulles' Geneva Chauffeur Used To Drive For Chaplin

By EDDY GILMORE

GENEVA, Nov. 8 (AP)—The man who chauffeurs Secretary of State Dulles at the Geneva conference reports he used to drive for Charlie Chaplin.

"Yes," said Fred Kafader, a Swiss, "life is full of surprise. I used to drive Mr. Chaplin when he first came to Switzerland in the early 1950s, and now I'm driving the secretary of state."

Chaplin lives at nearby Vevey. Dulles has been in Geneva nearly two weeks at the Big Four foreign ministers' conference.

Asked if there is much difference in driving a film clown and an international diplomat, Kafader replied:

"Chaplin is funnier."

He quickly added, however, that Dulles might be extremely amusing too, but the mechanics of Dulles' automobile prevents any prolonged give and take of wit.

"It's this glass window," said the chauffeur. "Mr. Dulles keeps it shut. Mr. Chaplin kept it open.

"Driving Mr. Dulles is easier. In fact, there's hardly anything to it. It's one of the nicest jobs I know of."

The chauffeur said the secretary is no back seat driver as a rule, but he recalled one exception.

"We were leaving Mr. Molotov's villa last week. Mr. Dulles was already in his car and seated in the back seat when some photographer came up and asked him if he'd get out and pose shaking hands with Mr. Molotov."

Kafader paused and smiled.

"The secretary told me to get going. And I never knew him to be more emphatic."

Meg's Romance May Alter Basic British Fabric

LONDON, Nov. 8 (AP)—Princess Margaret's renunciation of her love for Peter Townsend provoked a public controversy that ultimately may alter part of Britain's basic fabric — the relationship between church and state.

The star-crossed love affair of the Princess and the divorced war hero takes it place in the anthrology of famous romances. But for the historian a more important chapter may develop over the years.

The Church of England hailed Margaret's decision to chose duty over love. Her marriage to Townsend would have conflicted with its attitude against remarriage of divorced persons while their exmates are living, as is Townsend's. On the surface, at least, the church won a victory. But at what price?

The romance focused public scrutiny on the Church of England "as by law established" and its relationship with the state to a degree without precedent in the last few centuries.

For a week letter columns of newspapers have been filled with pointed expressions of opinion about the case.

Many praised Margaret "for giving a moral example to the world." There were expressions of support also for the archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, the primate of all England.

But other letters contained phrases such as: "I will never go to church again." "The archbishop of Canterbury should resign." "The church is confounding the teachings of Christ. His theme was love, charity and forgiveness."

Two mass circulation newspapers, the Daily Mirror and Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, called for disestablishment — the severing of all ties that now link the endowed Anglican church with the crown and the government.

The influential Manchester Guardian analyzed the public mood this way: "The British people are not really happy about the outcome of the affair and some of its effects may be deep."

Falls Popular In Fall

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Nov. 8 (AP)—Newlyweds seem to be taking more interest in Niagara Falls now than is usual in the fall. A total of 1,483 honeymoon certificates were issued to visitors in September and October, against 1,122 in the same two months last year.

Airline Due To Get Permanent Authority

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP) — A Civil Aeronautics Board examiner recommended today that Piedmont Aviation Inc., Winston-Salem, N.C., be granted a permanent certificate for all of the cities on its system except Danville, Va., and London-Corbin, Ky.

Examiner Curtis C. Henderson said service at those points should continue on a temporary basis, under a three-year certificate, because of the small amount of traffic generated there.

The examiner's recommendations coincided with those of the CAB itself in an Oct. 10 show-cause order. Thus it was likely that Piedmont soon would join the ranks of the local service airlines gaining permanent authority under legislation passed earlier this year.

Piedmont asked that it be permitted to limit service at Princeton-Bluefield, W. Va., to one round trip a day when traffic was too light to justify additional service. The airline has this authority currently on a temporary basis.

Henderson recommended that Piedmont be relieved of the obligation to serve Princeton-Bluefield on more than one round trip a day. But said this should be granted under a separate application for a change of service pattern. He said Piedmont has indicated it will file such an application immediately.

The 28 airports for which the CAB and the examiner have recommended permanent certification for Piedmont:

Cincinnati and Columbus, Ohio; Parkersburg, W. Va., - Marietta, Ohio; Louisville and Lexington, Ky.; Bristol, Va.-Tenn.-Kingsport-Johnson City, Tenn.; Ashland, Ky.-Huntington, W. Va.; Myrtle Beach, S. C.; Knoxville, Tenn.; Morehead City-Beaufort and Southern Pines-Pinehurst-Aberdeen, N. C., (on a seasonal basis); and the following:

In North Carolina — Asheville, Hickory, Charlotte, Fayetteville, Wilmington, New Bern, Winston-Salem, Greensboro - High Point, Raleigh-Durham, Kinston.

In Virginia — Norfolk, Newport News - Hampton - Warwick, Richmond, Lynchburg, Roanoke.

In West Virginia—Princeton-Bluefield, Beckley and Charleston.

New Car Production Record Shattered

DETROIT, Nov. 8 (AP)—The nation's auto assembly plants moved today into the highest production ground ever attained; they passed the total output mark of all 1950 and roared on to what promises to be an eight million car year.

The 1950 record toppled when this year's assemblies passed the 6,665,863 total. It went down sooner than most industry authorities expected. Even as recently as six months ago some experts were predicting a leveling off of assembly line activities. Only a few of the most optimistic among the experts were bold enough to predict an eight million car output much before 1960.

The industry's record-smashing performance this year stems largely from General Motors-Ford battle and Chrysler's tremendous comeback push. General Motors' volume is up nearly a million units over output for the comparable 1954 period; Ford's increase is pushing up toward the half million point; Chrysler has more than doubled the half million assemblies it recorded up to this point a year ago.

All the major producers have indicated they intend to continue at top speed during the remainder of the year. Their combined output still represents approximately 95 per cent of the industry total. The remainder is provided by Studebaker-Packard (150,785 car assemblies to date), and American Motors (Nash-Hudson) (136,849 cars to date.)

So far this year General Motors has built 3,349,093 passenger cars against 2,351,088 in the same 1954 period; Ford Motors 1,882,880 against 1,401,308, and Chrysler Corp. 1,130,550 against 506,127.

Chevrolet has accounted for 1,526,627 car assemblies compared with 1,156,168; Ford Division has built 1,480,904 against 1,147,738.

Berkeley Teachers Will Vote On Social Security Coverage

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 8 (AP)—Berkeley County teachers will vote Feb. 14-20 on whether they want Social Security coverage.

County School Supt. James L. Creasy has been designated by the State Auditor's Office as the agent to conduct the Berkeley referendum. Berkeley is the 23rd West Virginia county to arrange a referendum on Social Security for teachers.

Outcome of the voting will determine whether teachers want to take advantage of a new amendment to the federal Social Security law. Under the amendment, members of the State Teachers Retirement System—formerly excluded—become eligible for Social Security coverage if they vote favorably on the proposal in county referendums.

Gastronomic Doubleheader Has Two Goals

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—This is the month for loyal citizens to celebrate (a) National Cheese Shopper's Month and (b) National Baked-in-Butter Turkey Time.

The gastronomic doubleheader has a single purpose:

To tease us into using more dairy products, and incidentally whittle away at this nation's vexing dairy surpluses.

A fellow over at the Agriculture Department dropped by today to make an additional point.

"Did you know," he asked, "that if each of us would drink three extra glasses of milk each week we'd have the dairy surplus problem pretty well licked?"

Without waiting for an answer, he had another question:

"What country leads the world in the consumption of milk products?"

That turned out to be a tough one. For it's a country renowned, in fiction at least, for its pubs and its whisky. Good old Ireland is in first place.

The thought of all those Irishmen standing around swilling milk and nibbling cheese is indeed a switch.

New Zealand is second among the milk fanciers, Sweden third, Australia fourth, Canada fifth, and you have to go all the way down to 13th place to find the United States.

The report—prepared by Terrence W. McCabe and Regina Murray of the Agriculture Department—shows that even France, supposed to be a nation of wine drinkers, comes in ahead of this country. Wine glasses and all, France is tenth.

The statistics tell the sad story: The Irish down 1,425 pounds of milk products per capita each year compared with 699 pounds here.

Incidentally, for rich living New Zealand stacks right up near the top. The report shows it leads the world in drinking fluid milk, eats the most butter and is a country of big meat eaters.

Four thousand, three hundred pounds of paint are required to paint the dome of the Capitol in Washington.

Soviet 'New Look' Serious Campaign, Official Asserts

MOSCOW, Nov. 8 (AP)—First Deputy Premier Lazar Kaganovich said this week the "new look" in Soviet international policy is not simply a diplomatic gesture but a serious campaign by the Soviet government to better international relations.

He told a big audience assembled in the Bolshoi Theater on the eve of the 38th anniversary of the Communist Revolution that these new Soviet techniques had been so successful that most reasonable circles in "bourgeois countries" now realize policy "from a position of strength" is a fiasco, and the best thing for the capitalist world to do was to engage in amicable negotiation on world problems.

He discussed the foundation and expansion of the Baghdad Pact in the Middle East, which he denounced as likely to lead to war, but made no reference to arms sales by the Soviet bloc to Egypt.

He said Soviet proposals at the current Big Four foreign ministers conference "are aimed at achieving real security."

"The Soviet government has rejected the proposals of the West to safeguard security by means of a bloc directed against the U.S.S.R.," he said. "We did not fight the last war in order to rearm Germany. We want to see Germany restored—but it must be a peace-loving Germany."

Kaganovich dwelt on the "competitive coexistence" theme that has been a feature of recent Soviet statements. He said Russia now holds second place in volume of production.

"I am convinced, however," he added, "that by correct application of Socialist methods we shall fulfill Lenin's behest to catch up and outstrip the United States."

He reported "considerable successes" in the drive to open up Russia's vast virgin lands to agriculture. He said 1955 crop yields would be good despite bad weather. He said wages had risen considerably, but that housing is still not satisfactory.

Prime Minister Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev sat on the stage as Kaganovich spoke. Early in his speech, while discussing the triumphs of the Soviet Union, Kaganovich said:

"Snobs should remember our example when they sneer at the People's Republic of China. The Chinese people will achieve victories just as the Soviet people achieved them when led by the Communist party."

Moscow was lavishly decorated for the anniversary celebration.

Foundation Reports

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Alfred P. Sloan Foundation reports it made grants of $6,560,615 to more than 80 medical and other institutions in 1953 and 1954. But its assets continued to grow, rising more than $17,700,000 to $59,369,434 as of last Dec. 31.

He said Soviet proposals at the current Big Four foreign ministers conference "are aimed at achieving real security."

"The Soviet government has rejected the proposals of the West to safeguard security by means of a bloc directed against the U.S.S.R.," he said. "We did not fight the last war in order to rearm Germany. We want to see Germany restored—but it must be a peace-loving Germany."

Kaganovich dwelt on the "competitive coexistence" theme that has been a feature of recent Soviet statements. He said Russia now holds second place in volume of production.

"I am convinced, however," he added, "that by correct application of Socialist methods we shall fulfill Lenin's behest to catch up and outstrip the United States."

He reported "considerable successes" in the drive to open up Russia's vast virgin lands to agriculture. He said 1955 crop yields would be good despite bad weather. He said wages had risen considerably, but that housing is still not satisfactory.

Prime Minister Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev sat on the stage as Kaganovich spoke. Early in his speech, while discussing the triumphs of the Soviet Union, Kaganovich said:

"Snobs should remember our example when they sneer at the People's Republic of China. The Chinese people will achieve victories just as the Soviet people achieved them when led by the Communist party."

Moscow was lavishly decorated for the anniversary celebration.

Lonaconing Gives Half Blood Quota

50 Pints Given By Residents

LONACONING — This community failed to reach its quota of 100 pints of blood for the Red Cross Blood Bank yesterday, with only 50 pints collected.

The bloodmobile visits here three time a year, with a quota of 100 for each visit. This represents 300 pints of blood a year to assure the health and welfare of several thousand persons. Bloodmobile officials, visibly disappointed at the results yesterday, indicate that the response is far below the average, and that the cost of bringing the bloodmobile here to collect and process only 50 pints of blood is extremely high.

They point out that every person in the community is protected by the blood bank, because the fact that it collects blood here, makes every resident eligible for free blood if, as and when needed, no matter where he may be at the time misfortune strikes. In order to continue the blood bank visits here, so the community can share in the free blood program, quotas in the future must be reached, they indicated.

There were 22 citizens volunteered and gave their blood yesterday, by walking in without appointments. The Red Cross branch had scheduled 88 appointments. Of the 88 people scheduled 50 of them, or just the number the quota fell short, failed to keep their appointments. Among those who did report were several rejections due to disability such as colds etc.

Physicians on volunteer duty yesterday were Dr. George J. Richards of Lonaconing and Dr. Martin M. Rothstein, Frostburg.

One donor gave her sixteenth pint of blood to become a member of the Red Cross Two-Gallon Club. She is Mrs. Miriam Dailey.

Piedmont Gets Full Report On Flood Project

PIEDMONT—A report on money donated to the flood dredging project and money expended to date was given at the regular meeting of the City Council by Ormond Ledlow, city clerk.

Ledlow said $1843.75 has been received of which $1129.75 was collected in a house-to-house solicitation by members of the Piedmont Woman's Club. Another $614 was donated at the city clerk's office.

It was ordered at the meeting with Councilman Joseph Maybury presiding, that a letter of appreciation be sent to the Piedmont Woman's Club for work done by members in the solicitation of such a large amount for the project.

The work of rebuilding the trunk sewer at the lower end of Water Street has been completed by Hugh Morris, contractor.

Dredging of the Potomac River by Jess Wolfe is continuing. At the present time $1433.36 has been expended for this work.

Willard Johnson requested that the street be fixed near his coal house. Councilman James Bissett will investigate.

It was ordered that a red line be placed on the north side of Third Street above the Knights of Columbus building to the Tri-Towns Fire Company Hall so that trailer trucks can deliver merchandise to the Tichnell Feed Company.

It was requested that $2,500 of fire insurance be taken out with Boyd and Hudson Company for the old Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad Company station bui'ding which the town recently purchased from the Western Maryland Railway. The town will use the building for storing materials.

Ledlow stated that $4,354.53 has been received for first-half taxes of 1955 collected by Sheriff Earl Kemp. He also revealed that $101.93 has been collected from parking meters.

Yule street lighting decorations for this year were discussed, and it was noted that all new wiring will be needed. Clarence F. Bowers will be consulted to make an estimate of how much wiring will have to be purchased.

Jury To Get Insurance Case Today

Railroader Seeks Disability Claim

KEYSER—A case in Mineral County Circuit Court, between a local Baltimore and Ohio Railroad fireman and an insurance company, which has attracted considerable attention among railroad and insurancemen here, is scheduled to go to a jury this morning.

The case involves a suit by Charles H. Kesecker against the World Insurance Company over the alleged failure of the company to continue payments to the plantiff for disability he sustained while working at his occupation as a fireman.

Kesecker claimed a spine disc was injured in a fall. Later the disc was removed at University Hospital, Baltimore, but he remained disabled.

The plaintiff said he took out an insurance policy in 1951. The company stopped payment in 1953, he added.

Claiming he is incapacitated, Kesecker is represented by Vernon O. Rankin. Representative for the insurance firm is Howard N. Rogers.

Jurors are Frank Walker, Edward Lawrence, Clyde Simpson, Carl Dawson, Paul Keplinger, H. D. Snyder, Leroy Fleming, Joseph Stefano, Harry Cumberledge, Charles Alt, Raymond Burner and Kenneth Hollen.

A number of witnesses including medical men were heard in court yesterday, and court recessed about 5 p. m. after all testimony was concluded. Judge Ernest A. See, who is presiding, indicated that the jury will get the case this morning, after receiving the usual instructions from the court.

State Trapper Wars On Foxes

Beal runs a trap line through Garrett County of over 130 miles which he covers every day. These eight foxes represent his largest single day catch to date. The two on the right of the top group are grays and the one on the right at the bottom, the others are all red foxes.

Maryland State Trapper Runs 130-Mile Line In Garrett Co.

By HOWARD WARD
Frostburg NEWS Correspondent

FROSTBURG—James Beal, of Finzel, state trapper for over eight years, is at present, running a trapline of over 130 miles in Garrett County, trapping predatory animals, particularly red and gray foxes. This program is carried out under the Game Management Department with Ernest Ogden, state game technician, of Frostburg in charge.

Beal who starts out early in the morning visits each of the 40 sets which stretch from Keysers Ridge north on route 219 to Oakland, then to Herrington Manor, Swallow Falls, Sang Run, the W. Va. state line near Cranesville, back to Accident then to Bittinger and ending up near Grantsville.

A set is the prepared trap. Each trap is treated in a white solution made from white oak or maple bark, this prevents rust and destroys the steel and human odors. After the trap is secured by a chain to a log or rail it is set in front of a hole made to simulate a hole usually dug by a fox when digging out rodents. The trap is covered over lightly with screened dirt and leaves. A lure either commercially prepared or homade is then poured or sprinkled over the set. This lure is made with scent glands from the foxes, the liver and sexual glands. The prepared lure comes from S. Stanley Hawbaker from Pennsylvania.

The purpose of the trapping, according to Beal, is to reduce the fox population in order to give small game, such as rabbits, squirrel, pheasants, grouse and quail a better chance to multiply.

In the eight years he has been trapping for the state all over Maryland, Beal estimates that the fox population has been reduced at least 50 percent.

Beal took 281 foxes in 1954, with the largest years catch being 532. In October his catch was 50. His largest days catch to date has been 13. He has been trapping for over 35 years on a part time basis. Several years ago he caught a large wildcat on Big Savage Mountain that stood at least 18 inches high. Other game caught in the traps include skunks, oppossum and raccoons. In most cases the animals are freed except the skunk which has to be shot before being taken from the traps.

Jury To Get Insurance Case Today

Railroader Seeks Disability Claim

KEYSER—A case in Mineral County Circuit Court, between a local Baltimore and Ohio Railroad fireman and an insurance company, which has attracted considerable attention among railroad and insurancemen here, is scheduled to go to a jury this morning.

The case involves a suit by Charles H. Kesecker against the World Insurance Company over the alleged failure of the company to continue payments to the plantiff for disability he sustained while working at his occupation as a fireman.

Kesecker claimed a spine disc was injured in a fall. Later the disc was removed at University Hospital, Baltimore, but he remained disabled.

The plaintiff said he took out an insurance policy in 1951. The company stopped payment in 1953, he added.

Jurors are Frank Walker, Edward Lawrence, Clyde Simpson, Carl Dawson, Paul Keplinger, H. D. Snyder, Leroy Fleming, Joseph Stefano, Harry Cumberledge, Charles Alt, Raymond Burner and Kenneth Hollen.

A number of witnesses including medical men were heard in court yesterday, and court recessed about 5 p. m. after all testimony was concluded. Judge Ernest A. See, who is presiding, indicated that the jury will get the case this morning, after receiving the usual instructions from the court.

State Trapper Wars On Foxes

James Beal, left, state trapper of predatory animals, is shown with his son Dale with a days catch of gray and red foxes taken last week in Garrett County. Beal runs a trap line through Garrett County of over 130 miles which he covers every day. These eight foxes represent his largest single day catch to date. The two on the right of the top group are grays and the one on the right at the bottom, the others are all red foxes.

Maryland State Trapper Runs 130-Mile Line In Garrett Co.

Frostburg NEWS Correspondent

FROSTBURG—James Beal, of Finzel, state trapper for over eight years, is at present, running a trapline of over 130 miles in Garrett County, trapping predatory animals, particularly red and gray foxes. This program is carried out under the Game Management Department with Ernest Ogden, state game technician, of Frostburg in charge.

Beal who starts out early in the morning visits each of the 40 sets which stretch from Keysers Ridge north on route 219 to Oakland, then to Herrington Manor, Swallow Falls, Sang Run, the W. Va. state line near Cranesville, back to Accident then to Bittinger and ending up near Grantsville.

A set is the prepared trap. Each trap is treated in a white solution made from white oak or maple bark, this prevents rust and destroys the steel and human odors. After the trap is secured by a chain to a log or rail it is set in front of a hole made to simulate a hole usually dug by a fox when digging out rodents. The trap is covered over lightly with screened dirt and leaves. A lure either commercially prepared or homade is then poured or sprinkled over the set. This lure is made with scent glands from the foxes, the liver and sexual glands. The prepared lure comes from S. Stanley Hawbaker from Pennsylvania.

The purpose of the trapping, according to Beal, is to reduce the fox population in order to give small game, such as rabbits, squirrel, pheasants, grouse and quail a better chance to multiply.

In the eight years he has been trapping for the state all over Maryland, Beal estimates that the fox population has been reduced at least 50 percent.

Beal took 281 foxes in 1954, with the largest years catch being 532. In October his catch was 50. His largest days catch to date has been 13. He has been trapping for over 35 years on a part time basis. Several years ago he caught a large wildcat on Big Savage Mountain that stood at least 18 inches high, Other game caught in the traps include skunks, oppossum and raccoons. In most cases the animals are freed except the skunk which has to be shot before being taken from the traps.

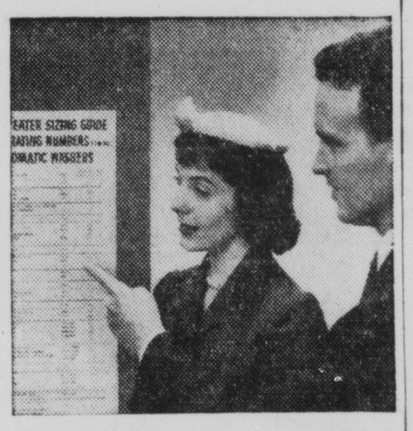
Tells how only GAS delivers enough hot water to ANY automatic washer for CONTINUOUS operation

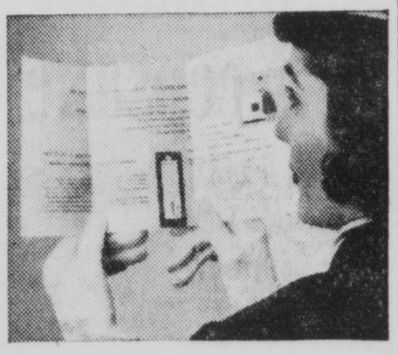
Today's automatic washers are wonderful the way they can take load after load. But any woman knows that if there isn't enough hot water . . . clothes are going to be dull and gray. Laundry-Rating is the new, easy way to make sure you get enough 160 degree* hot water to keep any automatic washer made going continuously, load after load. So, if you want to enjoy sparkling bright, wonderfully white clothes . . . you want a Laundry-Rated Gas Water Heater. Only Gas can provide you with unlimited hot water, fast, efficiently, and economically.

*As recommended by the Ellen H. Richards Institute of Pennsylvania State University and Good Housekeeping Institute



How does laundry-rating work?

You tell your dealer what kind of an automatic washer you have or expect to get. He'll tell you how many gallons of hot water it uses an hour. THAT is its laundry-rating. He'll show you a selection of new GAS water heaters that meet your requirements. You'll have more than enough hot water for automatic washing and ALL your other needs . . . with GAS!



Your GAS Company

is cooperating with water heater manufacturers and utilities all over America in promoting this better way to buy a water heater. For more information visit your Gas company office or see your Gas appliance dealer or plumber for your FREE Laundry-Rating pamphlet.

From start to finish you're ahead with GAS

Water heating with GAS is fast and economical . . . so is clothes drying. A penny's worth of GAS is all it takes to dry a full load of clothes in an automatic GAS dryer. Simple installation costs very little.

Load after load without stopping . . . only with GAS!

Many women with automatic washers like to run through 3, 4, maybe even 9 loads of wash, without stopping. Old-fashioned heaters can't begin to keep up with that pace. That's why the new Laundry-Rated Gas Water Heaters are so popular with automatic washer owners. Only GAS is fast enough to do the job . . . and yet is so economical.

LAUNDRY-RATING

Tells how only GAS delivers enough hot water to ANY automatic washer for CONTINUOUS operation

Today's automatic washers are wonderful the way they can take load after load. But any woman knows that if there isn't enough hot water . . . clothes are going to be dull and gray. Laundry-Rating is the new, easy way to make sure you get enough 160 degree* hot water to keep any automatic washer made going continuously, load after load. So, if you want to enjoy sparkling bright, wonderfully white clothes . . . you want a Laundry-Rated Gas Water Heater. Only Gas can provide you with unlimited hot water, fast, efficiently, and economically.

*As recommended by the Ellen H. Richards Institute of Pennsylvania State University and Good Housekeeping Institute

How does laundry-rating work?

You tell your dealer what kind of an automatic washer you have or expect to get. He'll tell you how many gallons of hot water it uses an hour. THAT is its laundry-rating. He'll show you a selection of new GAS water heaters that meet your requirements. You'll have more than enough hot water for automatic washing and ALL your other needs . . . with GAS!

Load after load without stopping . . . only with GAS!

Many women with automatic washers like to run through 3, 4, maybe even 9 loads of wash, without stopping. Old-fashioned heaters can't begin to keep up with that pace. That's why the new Laundry-Rated Gas Water Heaters are so popular with automatic washer owners. Only GAS is fast enough to do the job . . . and yet is so economical.

Your GAS Company

is cooperating with water heater manufacturers and utilities all over America in promoting this better way to buy a water heater. For more information visit your Gas company office or see your Gas appliance dealer or plumber for your FREE Laundry-Rating pamphlet.

From start to finish you're ahead with GAS

Water heating with GAS is fast and economical . . . so is clothes drying. A penny's worth of GAS is all it takes to dry a full load of clothes in an automatic GAS dryer. Simple installation costs very little.

McKeldin Denies Knowland's Charges Labor Trying To Assume Government

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8 (AP)—Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin said tonight he is confident those Republicans who have said labor is trying to take over the Democratic Party and the government speak "only for themselves, and not with the authority of the Republican leadership."

"I think such an attempt to create a straw man would be very poor strategy for any party, particularly one that is in as good a position with the people as the Republican Party is at this time," McKeldin said.

The governor's statement was the second within a week in which he took the position of answering Sen. Knowland (R-Calif), who is expected to be a presidential aspirant if President Eisenhower does not seek re-election.

Earlier today in Miami Beach, Knowland said "There are some in the ranks of the new labor combine who visualize taking control of the Democratic Party as they have in the State of Michigan and making it into the equivalent of the British Labor Party . . . thereby to gain control over the government structure of this country."

Read Of Charges

"I have read . . . of charges by certain Republicans that the labor unions were planning an extensive anti-Republican campaign, but I have seen nothing to substantiate their statement," McKeldin said in a statement.

"I think such an attempt to create a straw man would be very poor strategy for any party . . .

"I am confident that those who have made the statements are speaking only for themselves, and not with the authority of the Republican leadership."

Reply To Report

McKeldin's statement also was an obvious reply to a report last week by Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz) of "increasingly ruthless and successful efforts" of certain labor leaders to take over and control the Democratic Party.

"I have been asked," McKeldin's statement added, "if it is the new Republican policy to make the statement that leaders of organized labor are planning an all-out effort to elect a President of the United States and members of the Congress who are members of the opposition (Democratic) party.

"I know of no policy and certainly would not subscribe to it on the basis of my own experience. . .

"I cannot believe that labor leaders now would make a serious effort to defeat supporters of the policies of President Eisenhower—policies which have played so important a part in the present high rate of American prosperity—a prosperity which in turn has opened the way for the new gains made by labor . . . " the governor said.

Nominated Eisenhower

McKeldin, who nominated President Eisenhower for the presidency at the 1952 GOP convention and who has been a staunch supporter of his administration, only last Saturday said it was "unnecessary and unbecoming" for others within the Republican Party to put forward candidates until President Eisenhower decides whether to run again.

That McKeldin statement was taken as an answer to Sen. Knowland who earlier in the week had said if the President is not going to run, the party and the country are entitled to have sufficient time to pick another candidate.

Youths Slated For Hearing In Use Of Vehicle

Car Is Wrecked In Driving Spree

Two local youths who reportedly signed a statement in Police Headquarters yesterday admitting they took a car belonging to a local resident, went on a driving spree and wrecked the vehicle, are expected to be taken this morning to Trial Magistrate's Court for a preliminary hearing. They are charged with unauthorized use of a vehicle, police said.

Harold L. Walter, 19, and Jerry E. Frantz, 20, both with records, and only recently released from custody, were questioned at length yesterday by City Police Detective Lt. James E. Van.

They were arrested yesterday morning by Officers George Furstenberg and Frank R. Carner. Detective Donald Smith, who also questioned the boys, said they used tinfoil to cross wires and start the auto belonging to John A. Collins, of 413 Beall Street.

Van further questioned the two boys yesterday and said they admitted taking the car, driving it around the city for awhile and later taking it to Hancock.

After reaching Hancock they turned back toward Cumberland and made the return trip by way of Berkeley Springs and Paw Paw, W. Va., said Van.

When they got to Evitts Creek Hill, Van added, the car was apparently traveling at a high rate of speed, failed to negotiate a curve and ran up over a slope along the highway and back onto the road.

Between $400 and $500 damages was done to the car, police said.

Detective Smith said he had received a call at 1 a. m. yesterday that an auto had been smashed on Oldtown Road. The man who phoned said he had seen two youths running from the scene. Neither apparently had been injured.

Snow Flurries Continue In Garrett County

Snow flurries continued throughout most of yesterday in Garrett County, but R. E. Weber, weather observer at Oakland, said heavy snow was unlikely this morning because of extremely dry air and overcast skies.

Temperatures dipped to 17 degrees yesterday morning and were expected to drop about the same today in the westernmost county in Maryland.

Cumberland had a low yesterday of 23 degrees although the day was bright and sunny.

other items of interest to women. Maryland is not a particularly good place to try to find semi-precious stones in their natural state.

At Lanham he found it convenient to travel the short distance to either Baltimore or Washington to pick up desired stones at a lapidary shop. Here in Allegany County he has found no such ready supply of stones.

Friends Help Out

But friends traveling to points where semi-precious stones abound have been a big help. One woman brought some quartz back from Maine. A soldier found some valuable stones in the nearly-dry bed of the Rio Grande River. A Boy Scout brought some stones back from a jamboree in California.

In grinding Mallery uses two different grades of stone, an emery wheel and finally, polishing felt, to get the desired polish on his stones. He puts jeweler's wax on the stone to hold it against the grinding stone. He also has found that tin oxide is mighty good for polishing stones.

Mallery likes the two hobbies for the pleasure they have given him. But what is more important, he has enjoyed them especially when he has found young 4-H Club boys who are interested in them. Last summer to spread the story about his hobbies, Mallery conducted a demonstration for the boys from the three western-most counties of Maryland at the Tri-County 4-H Camp at Pleasant Valley near Bittinger.

He likes to talk about his hobbies and would be happy to present a demonstration at club meetings here in Allegany County.

County Asks For Hospital Site

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 8 (AP)—The Hampshire County Court proposed today that the State Board of Education deed it a five-acre site for a new $720,000 general hospital in Romney.

Hampshire County residents made a resolution Oct. 22 that the 40-bed hospital be built in Romney, provided that federal aid could be secured under the Hill-Burton Act. A special election would be held to vote revenue bonds.

County Commissioners George Herriott, H. F. Smith and Ellis Haines came before the board today to discuss a possible site on property of the West Virginia Schools for the Deaf and Blind owned by the board.

Supt. Hugo F. Schunhoff of the schools said such a hospital would have a "tremendous advantage" by providing surgical care for students now obtained at Cumberland, Md., 28 miles from Romney.

The board went on record today as being willing to donate the site—if it can legally do so—and will check with Gov. Marland and Atty. Gen. John G. Fox on the legality. It attached the condition that facilities of the hospital must be made available for care and treatment of the students at the schools, "at rates charged in similar cases."

Meanwhile, Schunhoff, the county commissioners and Board Secretary H. K. Baer will meet with State Health Dorector N. H. Dyer the week of Nov. 21 about the federal aid matter.

Mrs. Sloan Injured

Mrs. Marion D. Sloan, 74, wife of former Judge D. Lindley Sloan, 821 Buckingham Road, The Dingle, was admitted yesterday morning to Memorial Hospital after she suffered a fractured right leg in a fall at her home. Hospital attaches said last night her condition was "good" and she was "resting comfortably."

Nominated Eisenhower

McKeldin, who nominated President Eisenhower for the presidency at the 1952 GOP convention and who has been a staunch supporter of his administration, only last Saturday said it was "unnecessary and unbecoming" for others within the Republican Party to put forward candidates until President Eisenhower decides whether to run again.

That McKeldin statement was taken as an answer to Sen. Knowland who earlier in the week had said if the President is not going to run, the party and the country are entitled to have sufficient time to pick another candidate.

Youths Slated For Hearing In Use Of Vehicle

Car Is Wrecked In Driving Spree

Two local youths who reportedly signed a statement in Police Headquarters yesterday admitting they took a car belonging to a local resident, went on a driving spree and wrecked the vehicle, are expected to be taken this morning to Trial Magistrate's Court for a preliminary hearing. They are charged with unauthorized use of a vehicle, police said.

Harold L. Walter, 19, and Jerry E. Frantz, 20, both with records, and only recently released from custody, were questioned at length yesterday by City Police Detective Lt. James E. Van.

They were arrested yesterday morning by Officers George Furstenberg and Frank R. Carner. Detective Donald Smith, who also questioned the boys, said they used tinfoil to cross wires and start the auto belonging to John A. Collins, of 413 Beall Street.

Van further questioned the two boys yesterday and said they admitted taking the car, driving it around the city for awhile and later taking it to Hancock.

After reaching Hancock they turned back toward Cumberland and made the return trip by way of Berkeley Springs and Paw Paw, W. Va., said Van.

When they got to Evitts Creek Hill, Van added, the car was apparently traveling at a high rate of speed, failed to negotiate a curve and ran up over a slope along the highway and back onto the road.

Between $400 and $500 damages was done to the car, police said.

Detective Smith said he had received a call at 1 a. m. yesterday that an auto had been smashed on Oldtown Road. The man who phoned said he had seen two youths running from the scene. Neither apparently had been injured.

Snow Flurries Continue In Garrett County

Snow flurries continued throughout most of yesterday in Garrett County, but R. E. Weber, weather observer at Oakland, said heavy snow was unlikely this morning because of extremely dry air and overcast skies.

Temperatures dipped to 17 degrees yesterday morning and were expected to drop about the same today in the westernmost county in Maryland.

Cumberland had a low yesterday of 23 degrees although the day was bright and sunny.

Some frost was reported early last night in West Virginia with thermometers down to the low 20s. Pennsylvania reported clear and cold weather for the day.

Forecast today is cloudy with high between 45 and 50 degrees.

other items of interest to women. Maryland is not a particularly good place to try to find semi-precious stones in their natural state.

At Lanham he found it convenient to travel the short distance to either Baltimore or Washington to pick up desired stones at a lapidary shop. Here in Allegany County he has found no such ready supply of stones.

Friends Help Out

But friends traveling to points where semi-precious stones abound have been a big help. One woman brought some quartz back from Maine. A soldier found some valuable stones in the nearly-dry bed of the Rio Grande River. A Boy Scout brought some stones back from a jamboree in California.

In grinding Mallery uses two different grades of stone, an emery wheel and finally, polishing felt, to get the desired polish on his stones. He puts jeweler's wax on the stone to hold it against the grinding stone. He also has found that tin oxide is mighty good for polishing stones.

Mallery likes the two hobbies for the pleasure they have given him. But what is more important, he has enjoyed them especially when he has found young 4-H Club boys who are interested in them. Last summer to spread the story about his hobbies, Mallery conducted a demonstration for the boys from the three western-most counties of Maryland at the Tri-County 4-H Camp at Pleasant Valley near Bittinger.

He likes to talk about his hobbies and would be happy to present a demonstration at club meetings here in Allegany County.

Dinner Tonight

Fire Checked Here

Firemen of West Side were summoned to 417 Washington Street yesterday morning when the contents of a waste paper basket in a third floor apartment caught fire. No damage was reported by firemen.

County Asks For Hospital Site

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 8 (AP)—The Hampshire County Court proposed today that the State Board of Education deed it a five-acre site for a new $720,000 general hospital in Romney.

Hampshire County residents made a resolution Oct. 22 that the 40-bed hospital be built in Romney, provided that federal aid could be secured under the Hill-Burton Act. A special election would be held to vote revenue bonds.

County Commissioners George Herriott, H. F. Smith and Ellis Haines came before the board today to discuss a possible site on property of the West Virginia Schools for the Deaf and Blind owned by the board.

Supt. Hugo F. Schunhoff of the schools said such a hospital would have a "tremendous advantage" by providing surgical care for students now obtained at Cumberland, Md., 28 miles from Romney.

The board went on record today as being willing to donate the site—if it can legally do so—and will check with Gov. Marland and Atty. Gen. John G. Fox on the legality. It attached the condition that facilities of the hospital must be made available for care and treatment of the students at the schools, "at rates charged in similar cases."

Meanwhile, Schunhoff, the county commissioners and Board Secretary H. K. Baer will meet with State Health Dorector N. H. Dyer the week of Nov. 21 about the federal aid matter.

Mrs. Sloan Injured

Mrs. Marion D. Sloan, 74, wife of former Judge D. Lindley Sloan, 821 Buckingham Road, The Dingle, was admitted yesterday morning to Memorial Hospital after she suffered a fractured right leg in a fall at her home. Hospital attaches said last night her condition was "good" and she was "resting comfortably."

Heart Trouble No Class Matter

The man who is directing the medical battle to restore President Eisenhower to sound health indicates that science's campaign against heart disease, the No. 1 public health problem, has been complicated in the span of a single generation because people today can afford a more expensive diet.

But Dr. Paul Dudley White, the Boston heart specialist, in an article copyrighted by the Associated Press, does not place full blame on what a man eats. Rather he stresses that medical science still lacks the answers to the problem of preventing the disease.

But research has found that the amount of coronary heart disease in any country appears to vary uniformly with the weekly income and the resulting amount of fat in the diet of the persons studied. Thus this affliction, once looked upon chiefly as the problem of leaders in the professions and in business, now finds victims as well among artisans, farmers, and laborers. It can no longer be looked upon as a class disease.

Dr. White believes that with adequate research some real answers to the problem of prevention could be forthcoming in the next decade or two. For this reason he voices the hope the nation will not allow itself to settle back into what he terms the semi-complacent state that existed before the attack which felled President Eisenhower.

Men who have been close to presidents in the past, as well as those who have served in the post long, have looked upon the presidency as a man killing job. But little has been done to lighten the load a president must carry. Dr. White is hopeful something now will be done to lessen such White House chores as document signing, speech-making, press conferring, and hand-shaking.

Especially is he hopeful that even greater amounts of money will be made available for research so that heart disease can be toppled from its place atop the nation's list of health problems.

His enumeration of the basic and the environmental factors requiring research gives some idea of the scope of the studies which would have to be made. Among basic factors are race, age, sex, body build, personality, and heredity. The environmental factors are stress and strain, diet, exercise, climate, tobacco and alcohol, and religious and social customs.

It would seem that an economy which has improved to the point where we are more and more apt to be the target of this disease should also be able to produce the funds necessary for research to combat it.

Border Line Case

Leaders Of Israel, Fearing Egypt's Future Army, Urge Preventive War

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — What's going on in Israel today is exactly what's been going on inside the Pentagon among some of our top defense planners — a debate over preventive war.

For about four years certain U.S. military men have been warning that Russia was rapidly catching up with the United States' lead on atomic-hydrogen weapons, that it would be wise policy to precipitate war when we still had the atomic advantage. They argued that war was inevitable anyway and it was better to have it come now than later.

Likewise in the Near East, Israeli leaders, especially the young army officers, have pointed to the six shiploads of Czech-Russian weapons already unloaded in Egypt, have argued that once the hitherto untrained Egyptian army becomes armed and retrained by Russian technicians, Israel will be in grave danger.

They urge, therefore, preventive war.

Actually, Israel has a small, well-equipped determined army that probably could walk right through Egypt and capture Cairo —if war occurred today. Some observers compare the Israeli army with that of the Prophet Mohammed who with a small fanatical band of zealots walked right through North Africa conquering armies 10 times its size and did not stop until it swept over Spain.

But in another six months or a year, with Red arms pouring into Egypt, that situation would probably be reversed. That is the reason for Israeli restlessness today.

Our Boners In Near East

Chief reason for the festering Middle East as far as the United States is concerned is that we concentrate our attention on the Far East. For two years, thanks in part to the China lobby and the tremendous amounts it spent to influence American opinion, we worried about Formosa and Chiang Kai-shek.

Last spring Congress was even required to pass a resolution giving the President free power to drop the atom bomb on the mainland of China, if necessary, to defend the small offshore islands of Quemoy-Matsu.

During this same period late last spring, U.S. diplomats were given their first warning that Egypt planned to get arms from the Communists. Premier Nasser told the absolute truth when he said last month that the State Department knew about the arms purchase long before, for he personally had informed U.S. Ambassador Henry Byroade of his plan, and this writer reported the facts at the time.

However, Secretary Dulles figured Premier Nasser was bluffing.

Weeks dragged by; months. The State Department continued to be absorbed with the Far East and a divided Germany. The American public continued to be absorbed with booming prosperity.

Only top official who concentrated on the Near East was Eric Johnston, special Eisenhower envoy who struggled valiantly to persuade Israel, Syria, Lebanon and Jordan to accept his plan of a TVA for the River Jordan. Johnston, an able, patriotic citizen, did a fine job. But it was probably a mistake to appoint him in the first place because, as head of the motion picture industry and a former supporter of the American Zionist movement, he was marked in Arab minds as being pro-Israel. Though this was unfair, it made his negotiation difficult.

They have now reached an impassable stalemate.

NOTE 1—Johnston's motion picture producers headquarters in Washington, apparently recognizing the stalemate, recently invited friends to a preview of "Hill 24 Does Not Answer," the most ambitious of Israeli films produced to appeal to the American market.

NOTE 2—The Czech-Egyptian arms deal is actually a barter deal for cotton. No cash is involved. Meanwhile Secretary Dulles won't let Benson sell U.S. surplus cotton on the world market for fear of hurting the Egyptian economy.

Battle Inside The Team

A hot backstage debate has been going on inside the Eisenhower team over one of the most important problems facing the nation.

It's over the question of a balanced budget or continued foreign aid to the Near East and Far East. It has a direct bearing on tension in the Near East and recent Soviet diplomatic successes all through Asia.

On one side is Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, unswerving champion of a balanced budget; together with Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr., whose daddy while in the White House always shied away from doing much about the rest of the world; and John Hollister, now in charge of foreign aid.

Hollister, former law partner of the late Senator Taft, was appointed to the foreign aid post in order to win the support of the Taft isolationists. However, instead of winning the isolationists over to Eisenhower's side, he has proceeded to woo Eisenhowerites over to the isolationist side. He is the only foreign aid director in history who wants to cut foreign aid.

Opposing the 3-H men—Hollister-Hoover-Humphrey—is Harold Stassen, former foreign aid director, together with many State Department officials

They point out that Russia today has finally awakened to the effectiveness of Truman-Acheson technical aid—or Point 4—started 10 years ago. As a result Russia is now offering the same technical aid we once offered—just as the 3-H men want to pull back our advisers and cut the budget.

Russian Inroads

What's happening in Asia and Africa is this:

1. Russian technical experts have arrived in Cairo to train Egyptian troops to operate MIGs, submarines and Russian artillery. Premier Nasser promised special U.S. Envoy George Allen that they wouldn't come, but they've come anyway. Formerly, Egypt got her military advice from England and the U.S.A.

2. Russia has offered to build the long-dreamed-of Aswan Dam on the headwaters of the Nile. This would stabilize the Nile, prevent floods, help ameliorate droughts and bring billions of income to Egypt. American engineering firms have been angling for this dam, but Russia now offers to supply the engineers and the money.

3. Russia is starting a road-building program in Afghanistan, the key country on the Northern India-Pakistan boundary which protects them from Russia.

4. Russia has invited King Saud of Saudi Arabia to come to Moscow. The invitation has been pressed so vigorously that Saud has been told he can select his own date.

5. Syria has been offered arms by Russia. Soviet agents have made so much progress in Syria that already the cabinet is reported dominated by Reds.

These are some of the facts causing the debate over foreign aid inside the White House.

Apathy Is Thing To Watch In Elections Of 1955

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Again, as in 1954, local elections are being surveyed to determine whether any national trend appears to give a hint for 1956.

Election of a state legislature in New Jersey has been expected to reveal a party attitude, though experience there in the past with contests for the legislature has indicated a position consistently favoring the Republicans.

It usually takes time for a change in the governorship to be reflected down through the legislature in any state. Instances of the governorship going to one political party while both houses of the legislature go the other way are not unusual in northern states. This happened in New York in 1954 when Harriman, a Democrat, became governor and the legislature remained Republican in both houses.

No Conclusive Trend

The reason for this, of course, is the same as in congressional elections in off-years. Thus, in 1954 the House of Representatives went Democratic even though two years before President Eisenhower swept the country on the Republican ticket. There were some observers who in 1954 thought they detected a national trend but there was nothing conclusive about it either way. It was, on the whole, a close election between the parties and a change of just a handful of districts would have given the Republicans a victory.

Contests for state legislature, like contests for Congress, are enmeshed in local issues and candidates do not hesitate to take their stand irrespective of party doctrine. Thus in Virginia this year, where the Republican party has many more candidates in the field than usual against the well-organized Democratic groups which rule the state, it is not surprising to find here and there a Republican nominee who favors segregation. This is in deference to local sentiment and means that maybe the candidate in question realizes he wouldn't stand a ghost of a chance unless he expressed himself that way. Other candidates in Virginia who say they respect the Supreme Court's rulings still hedge a bit and find some ambiguous way to express themselves so as to try to corral the voters on both sides. It is hard to discern a national trend under such circumstances.

Difficult To Measure

The municipal election in Philadelphia could have national significance, but not from a party standpoint. An issue of corruption threw out of power four years ago the Republicans who had held the city hall for generations. But now, with reform Republicans fighting reform Democrats, it is difficult to measure how much the people still hold the Republican party responsible for the sins of the past, and how much they are rewarding or opposing the incumbents, as the case may be, on the actual record of Democratic rule.

Surely it is a far cry from a national trend when a city like Philadelphia votes primarily on a local problem involving corruption as an issue. Everyone familiar with American politics is aware that in federal, state and municipal elections there is likely to be less partisanship exhibited on questions of integrity than on anything else. The old slogan "turn the rascals out" still holds good everywhere.

But it is also true that the people forget quickly. Despite the bad record of Tammany Hall in New York City the people have repeatedly returned the Democrats to power after only a brief interval of probation. Somehow guilt in politics becomes personal and parties do not bear the brunt of it for any great length of time.

There is solace in this for the national Democratic party. For, while the corruption issue hurt the Democrats in the 1952 presidential election, it is doubtful whether the resentment over it will survive in 1956. The democrats in Congress have been trying desperately this year to devise some kind of Republican analogy on the integrity issue, but they haven't succeeded, though they will offer Dixon-Yates and the so-called deviations of the "dollar-a-year men" as a possible basis for voter resentment.

So far as the 1955 elections are concerned, a most important thing to watch is how much apathy is manifested—that is, how large or small the vote is on state and city elections in the same localities compared to other years. In a time of prosperity like the present it would not be surprising when the final tallies are in to see a relatively small vote totalled up for both parties and all candidates.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Foster Parents

In the prolonged discussion I am having with all sorts of people about parentless children, I have been assaulted by social workers who tell me that only they know about children, and by foster parents who accuse me of believing that they go into this business only for the dough they get.

One intelligent foster mother writes me as follows:

"The State of Connecticut probably pays as much as any, more than most, for this care, and do you know what it is? We foster parents receive about seven cents an hour for each child. Out of this seven cents we are to provide food, beds, bed-linen, towels, hair cuts, shoe repair, bandades, toys, transportation to doctor or dentist, amusements, and much else. The state buys clothing and pays the medical bills. Also, they contribute a small weekly spending allowance for each child, not enough to meet the expenses in a Scout club, or a church youth group. For bikes, footballs, basketballs, ice skates, roller skates, dolls, color books, hats, gloves, dominoes, or any of the other things these children want, and must have in order not to be 'different' just because they are homeless, the state pays nothing."

But the state would have no expenses if these children were adopted into homes which need children but cannot have any naturally. In such homes, the parents would pay all the bills as they do for natural children. But I am told many parents only want to get rid of their children temporarily. They put them into orphan asylums only for a period and will not agree to adoption by anyone else. All sorts of reasons for this are given by my correspondents who seem to agree that it is right that parents should abandon their children temporarily. One of the reasons given in my correspondence is that the parents are poor which to me is no reason at all.

After all, most of the parents among whom I grew up were poor and they had large families, and none of them abandoned their children to social workers or put them out to pasture in foster homes at the expense of the state. And many of them sent their sons to college out of the pennies earned on push-carts. How they did it will puzzle the high standard of living folks in this welfare state but they did do it, and the sons and daughters are around to tell of it.

In this exciting discussion, no one has yet raised the issue of the unwed mother who abandons her baby. What, morally, are her rights? She will not give the child a father's name nor his protection. She hands over his child; sometimes even before it is born, to a stranger, occasionally for pay. She lacked the moral restraints and physical self-control to keep from having a child. But when the case-worker comes around with adoption papers, she holds out for religious reasons, after she has abandoned religion as she has abandoned her child.

One would imagine that she would be only too happy to give the little tyke a break, see him well placed among decent, comfortable, intelligent people who would give him an opportunity for education and advancement. But no! She handicapped him by illegitimacy; and now she wishes further to handicap him by keeping him from opportunity in life. Are we to resolve the child's future in the interest of such a mother or in the interest of the child?

Surely such a mother is worthy of no consideration and if such an unfortunate child can be placed in a good home, there is no reason why her selfishness should play any part in the decisions that are to be made. The child ought not to be deprived of the advantages of life to satisfy the whims of a strumpet.

Maybe I am an old sentimentalist but I believe that the child should come first. He ought not to be a case with a number but a human being to be gently nurtured. For the child, the best place is a home where there is a father and a mother who will regard him as a gift from heaven and act accordingly.

Events are thicker than a bricklayer's sandwich and the plans of mice and men are running into extra editions.

We've jumped the track oftener than a yo-yo on a soaped string. But we're gradually getting to understand our European neighbors.

That's because most of our congressional habitues spent the summer at the sidewalk tables of the Paris bistros.

They are now back at their indoor tables and Corcoran Art Gallery of Old Masters has been enriched by their passport pictures.

The object of the congressional beach-headings was an investigation of the building slump in Pyramids.

They discovered the Old World knew what to do until the doctor arrives. It's after he leaves that they're puzzled.

"A Real Doll"

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (INS) — An NBC-TV cameraman who worked on Ray Henle's filmed hour-long "Conversation with Herbert Hoover," a jewel of a show we saw last Sunday, couldn't restrain himself when the 81-year old ex-President finished the chore.

"You're a real doll, Mr. Hoover," he said, pumping his hand.

It shook the old gentleman. The next day he took the puzzling matter to a friend of many years. The friend hadn't heard the expression either but promised to submit the case to a hep niece. Triumphantly, he returned to Hoover the following day and told him that the girl had approved.

"Chief, 'a real doll' means that you're quite a fellow, that you're okay with whoever said it," the friend explained.

It pleased Hoover. Next time he saw his friend he winked and said, "I'm a real doll."

Had Good Time

Hoover had a good time on the show:

"The only gift your president receives from the American people is the President's Flag. He gets no pension. He gets no title. But he gets his own flag and has a right to fly it.

"A man who was a senator carries the title long after he leaves the Senate. A Kentucky colonel is called colonel away from Louisville. A president out of office is just 'Mister.' I think it's a comfortable feeling.

"I go fishing whenever I get a chance. I have rather a yen for fishing because the ripple of a brook and the slap of a wave against the side of a boat will brain-wash almost anybody into a much clearer position."

"You have a famous statement about fishing, haven't you?" Henle asked.

"Well," Hoover answered, "I once explained why I think presidents fish. They all went fishing; they all have, even though they haven't fished before. That's because the American people have respect for privacy only on two occasions, one of them when a man is praying and the other when he is fishing. And the President can't pray all the time. . . ."

Hoover never accepted a salary as president and gave his salary as secretary of commerce to charity. Henle asked him why. He said:

"I've never accepted compensation for federal service except in this sense: that I have at all times taken federal salaries and expended them on matters that are outside my own needs and uses.

"I was led to doing this by an overall question of conviction of my own, and I don't say this in disparagement of men accepting salaries from the government because most of our officials must have such salaries in order to live.

Owed Country A Debt

"But it happens that I prospered in my profession at a time when the income tax was only one per cent. I was thus able to save a competence and I felt I owed my country a debt that was unpayable. I felt I had no right to ask her to pay me. . . ."

Flying back to New York with Mr. Hoover on United Air Lines' executive plane after his 80th birthday celebration at his birthplace in Iowa, I couldn't help but stare as he sat there puffing his pipe and opening congratulatory wires from people all over the world — including people who had belted him around for years.

"You feel any bitterness?" I asked him.

He shook his head. "Reminds me of the story of the old fellow about my own time in life who stood up in the prayer meeting when the preacher asked, 'Can anybody in this congregation honestly say he doesn't have a single enemy?' This old party said, 'I don't' and when the preacher invited him to share his secret with the rest of the people he just said, 'I outlived the dastards.' "

Thickened Lesions In Mouth Should Be Removed

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

Any swelling or ulcerated lesion in the mouth that fails to heal in from three to four weeks should be viewed with suspicion. More expert advice may be needed because of the possibility of cancer. Cure invariably follows treatment during the early stages.

Malignancies in and about the mouth favor the lower lip. A blister that ruptures to form an ulcer may be regarded initially as a canker or cold sore. But the leison fails to heal and when a scab forms it usually falls off before the ulcer has a chance to close. The crust re-forms, only to meet with the same fate.

This process of partial healing and recurrence of scaly formation may persist for months. The lesion must be eliminated via surgery or X-ray. In some instances, a sliver of tissue is excised and sent to the laboratory for diagnosis so that there is no doubt as to the nature of the condition.

When cancer develops on the tongue, the floor of the mouth, the gums, palate, tonsils, or inside the cheek, the type of treatment varies with its location and with the physician. The use of X-ray and radium requires the same skill, judgment, experience, and accuracy as does the use of the scalpel.

The cause of oral cancer is not known. Most victims are men. The lesions are irritated by smoking but this does not necessarily mean that tobacco is the cause. We must not be overly worried, however, because not every lesion in the mouth is cancerous. Benign conditions include innocent ulcers, gumboils, and canker sores.

Leukoplakia is an example of an "in between" lesion: it becomes cancerous when neglected or irritated. A thickened, whitish patch appears on the mucous membrane which cannot be dislodged by scraping. The most common sites are tongue, inside the cheek, about the lips, or on the hard palate.

This ailment, frequently referred to as smoker's patches or mouth psoriasis, has been recognized for more than a century. It is irritated by tobacco, alcohol, and decayed and sharp teeth. Leukoplakia also is found in individuals with poorly fitting dentures and in those who do not practice dental hygiene.

No treatment is required when the lesions are small and thin except to eliminate the irritants. This means no smoking, strong drinks, or spicy foods. Consideration must be given to faulty crowns and bridgework. Good oral hygiene is essential. But thickened or hardened legions should be removed.

TOMORROW: Infectious asthma.

Heart Trouble No Class Matter

The man who is directing the medical battle to restore President Eisenhower to sound health indicates that science's campaign against heart disease, the No. 1 public health problem, has been complicated in the span of a single generation because people today can afford a more expensive diet.

But Dr. Paul Dudley White, the Boston heart specialist, in an article copyrighted by the Associated Press, does not place full blame on what a man eats. Rather he stresses that medical science still lacks the answers to the problem of preventing the disease.

But research has found that the amount of coronary heart disease in any country appears to vary uniformly with the weekly income and the resulting amount of fat in the diet of the persons studied. Thus this affliction, once looked upon chiefly as the problem of leaders in the professions and in business, now finds victims as well among artisans, farmers, and laborers. It can no longer be looked upon as a class disease.

Dr. White believes that with adequate research some real answers to the problem of prevention could be forthcoming in the next decade or two. For this reason he voices the hope the nation will not allow itself to settle back into what he terms the semi-complacent state that existed before the attack which felled President Eisenhower.

Men who have been close to presidents in the past, as well as those who have served in the post long, have looked upon the presidency as a man killing job. But little has been done to lighten the load a president must carry. Dr. White is hopeful something now will be done to lessen such White House chores as document signing, speech-making, press conferring, and hand-shaking.

Especially is he hopeful that even greater amounts of money will be made available for research so that heart disease can be toppled from its place atop the nation's list of health problems.

His enumeration of the basic and the environmental factors requiring research gives some idea of the scope of the studies which would have to be made. Among basic factors are race, age, sex, body build, personality, and heredity. The environmental factors are stress and strain, diet, exercise, climate, tobacco and alcohol, and religious and social customs.

It would seem that an economy which has improved to the point where we are more and more apt to be the target of this disease should also be able to produce the funds necessary for research to combat it.

Border Line Case

Leaders Of Israel, Fearing Egypt's Future Army, Urge Preventive War

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — What's going on in Israel today is exactly what's been going on inside the Pentagon among some of our top defense planners — a debate over preventive war.

For about four years certain U.S. military men have been warning that Russia was rapidly catching up with the United States' lead on atomic-hydrogen weapons, that it would be wise policy to precipitate war when we still had the atomic advantage. They argued that war was inevitable anyway and it was better to have it come now than later.

Likewise in the Near East, Israeli leaders, especially the young army officers, have pointed to the six shiploads of Czech-Russian weapons already unloaded in Egypt, have argued that once the hitherto untrained Egyptian army becomes armed and retrained by Russian technicians, Israel will be in grave danger.

They urge, therefore, preventive war.

Actually, Israel has a small, well-equipped determined army that probably could walk right through Egypt and capture Cairo —if war occurred today. Some observers compare the Israeli army with that of the Prophet Mohammed who with a small fanatical band of zealots walked right through North Africa conquering armies 10 times its size and did not stop until it swept over Spain.

But in another six months or a year, with Red arms pouring into Egypt, that situation would probably be reversed. That is the reason for Israeli restlessness today.

Our Boners In Near East

Chief reason for the festering Middle East as far as the United States is concerned is that we concentrate our attention on the Far East. For two years, thanks in part to the China lobby and the tremendous amounts it spent to influence American opinion, we worried about Formosa and Chiang Kai-shek.

Last spring Congress was even required to pass a resolution giving the President free power to drop the atom bomb on the mainland of China, if necessary, to defend the small offshore islands of Quemoy-Matsu.

During this same period late last spring, U.S. diplomats were given their first warning that Egypt planned to get arms from the Communists. Premier Nasser told the absolute truth when he said last month that the State Department knew about the arms purchase long before, for he personally had informed U.S. Ambassador Henry Byroade of his plan, and this writer reported the facts at the time.

However, Secretary Dulles figured Premier Nasser was bluffing.

Weeks dragged by; months. The State Department continued to be absorbed with the Far East and a divided Germany. The American public continued to be absorbed with booming prosperity.

Only top official who concentrated on the Near East was Eric Johnston, special Eisenhower envoy who struggled valiantly to persuade Israel, Syria, Lebanon and Jordan to accept his plan of a TVA for the River Jordan. Johnston, an able, patriotic citizen, did a fine job. But it was probably a mistake to appoint him in the first place because, as head of the motion picture industry and a former supporter of the American Zionist movement, he was marked in Arab minds as being pro-Israel. Though this was unfair, it made his negotiation difficult.

They have now reached an impassable stalemate.

NOTE 1—Johnston's motion picture producers headquarters in Washington, apparently recognizing the stalemate, recently invited friends to a preview of "Hill 24 Does Not Answer," the most ambitious of Israeli films produced to appeal to the American market.

NOTE 2—The Czech-Egyptian arms deal is actually a barter deal for cotton. No cash is involved. Meanwhile Secretary Dulles won't let Benson sell U.S. surplus cotton on the world market for fear of hurting the Egyptian economy.

Battle Inside The Team

A hot backstage debate has been going on inside the Eisenhower team over one of the most important problems facing the nation.

It's over the question of a balanced budget or continued foreign aid to the Near East and Far East. It has a direct bearing on tension in the Near East and recent Soviet diplomatic successes all through Asia.

On one side is Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, unswerving champion of a balanced budget; together with Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr., whose daddy while in the White House always shied away from doing much about the rest of the world; and John Hollister, now in charge of foreign aid.

Hollister, former law partner of the late Senator Taft, was appointed to the foreign aid post in order to win the support of the Taft isolationists. However, instead of winning the isolationists over to Eisenhower's side, he has proceeded to woo Eisenhowerites over to the isolationist side. He is the only foreign aid director in history who wants to cut foreign aid.

Opposing the 3-H men—Hollister-Hoover-Humphrey—is Harold Stassen, former foreign aid director, together with many State Department officials

They point out that Russia today has finally awakened to the effectiveness of Truman-Acheson technical aid—or Point 4—started 10 years ago. As a result Russia is now offering the same technical aid we once offered—just as the 3-H men want to pull back our advisers and cut the budget.

Russian Inroads

What's happening in Asia and Africa is this:

1. Russian technical experts have arrived in Cairo to train Egyptian troops to operate MIGs, submarines and Russian artillery. Premier Nasser promised special U.S. Envoy George Allen that they wouldn't come, but they've come anyway. Formerly, Egypt got her military advice from England and the U.S.A.

2. Russia has offered to build the long-dreamed-of Aswan Dam on the headwaters of the Nile. This would stabilize the Nile, prevent floods, help ameliorate droughts and bring billions of income to Egypt. American engineering firms have been angling for this dam, but Russia now offers to supply the engineers and the money.

3. Russia is starting a road-building program in Afghanistan, the key country on the Northern India-Pakistan boundary which protects them from Russia.

4. Russia has invited King Saud of Saudi Arabia to come to Moscow. The invitation has been pressed so vigorously that Saud has been told he can select his own date.

5. Syria has been offered arms by Russia. Soviet agents have made so much progress in Syria that already the cabinet is reported dominated by Reds.

These are some of the facts causing the debate over foreign aid inside the White House.

Apathy Is Thing To Watch In Elections Of 1955

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Again, as in 1954, local elections are being surveyed to determine whether any national trend appears to give a hint for 1956.

Election of a state legislature in New Jersey has been expected to reveal a party attitude, though experience there in the past with contests for the legislature has indicated a position consistently favoring the Republicans.

It usually takes time for a change in the governorship to be reflected down through the legislature in any state. Instances of the governorship going to one political party while both houses of the legislature go the other way are not unusual in northern states. This happened in New York in 1954 when Harriman, a Democrat, became governor and the legislature remained Republican in both houses.

No Conclusive Trend

The reason for this, of course, is the same as in congressional elections in off-years. Thus, in 1954 the House of Representatives went Democratic even though two years before President Eisenhower swept the country on the Republican ticket. There were some observers who in 1954 thought they detected a national trend but there was nothing conclusive about it either way. It was, on the whole, a close election between the parties and a change of just a handful of districts would have given the Republicans a victory.

Contests for state legislature, like contests for Congress, are enmeshed in local issues and candidates do not hesitate to take their stand irrespective of party doctrine. Thus in Virginia this year, where the Republican party has many more candidates in the field than usual against the well-organized Democratic groups which rule the state, it is not surprising to find here and there a Republican nominee who favors segregation. This is in deference to local sentiment and means that maybe the candidate in question realizes he wouldn't stand a ghost of a chance unless he expressed himself that way. Other candidates in Virginia who say they respect the Supreme Court's rulings still hedge a bit and find some ambiguous way to express themselves so as to try to corral the voters on both sides. It is hard to discern a national trend under such circumstances.

Difficult To Measure

The municipal election in Philadelphia could have national significance, but not from a party standpoint. An issue of corruption threw out of power four years ago the Republicans who had held the city hall for generations. But now, with reform Republicans fighting reform Democrats, it is difficult to measure how much the people still hold the Republican party responsible for the sins of the past, and how much they are rewarding or opposing the incumbents, as the case may be, on the actual record of Democratic rule.

Surely it is a far cry from a national trend when a city like Philadelphia votes primarily on a local problem involving corruption as an issue. Everyone familiar with American politics is aware that in federal, state and municipal elections there is likely to be less partisanship exhibited on questions of integrity than on anything else. The old slogan "turn the rascals out" still holds good everywhere.

But it is also true that the people forget quickly. Despite the bad record of Tammany Hall in New York City the people have repeatedly returned the Democrats to power after only a brief interval of probation. Somehow guilt in politics becomes personal and parties do not bear the brunt of it for any great length of time.

There is solace in this for the national Democratic party. For, while the corruption issue hurt the Democrats in the 1952 presidential election, it is doubtful whether the resentment over it will survive in 1956. The democrats in Congress have been trying desperately this year to devise some kind of Republican analogy on the integrity issue, but they haven't succeeded, though they will offer Dixon-Yates and the so-called deviations of the "dollar-a-year men" as a possible basis for voter resentment.

So far as the 1955 elections are concerned, a most important thing to watch is how much apathy is manifested—that is, how large or small the vote is on state and city elections in the same localities compared to other years. In a time of prosperity like the present it would not be surprising when the final tallies are in to see a relatively small vote totalled up for both parties and all candidates.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Foster Parents

In the prolonged discussion I am having with all sorts of people about parentless children, I have been assaulted by social workers who tell me that only they know about children, and by foster parents who accuse me of believing that they go into this business only for the dough they get.

One intelligent foster mother writes me as follows:

"The State of Connecticut probably pays as much as any, more than most, for this care, and do you know what it is? We foster parents receive about seven cents an hour for each child. Out of this seven cents we are to provide food, beds, bed-linen, towels, hair cuts, shoe repair, bandages, toys, transportation to doctor or dentist, amusements, and much else. The state buys clothing and pays the medical bills. Also, they contribute a small weekly spending allowance for each child, not enough to meet the expenses in a Scout club, or a church youth group. For bikes, footballs, basketballs, ice skates, roller skates, dolls, color books, bats, gloves, dominoes, or any of the other things these children want, and must have in order not to be 'different' just because they are homeless, the state pays nothing."

But the state would have no expenses if these children were adopted into homes which need children but cannot have any naturally. In such homes, the parents would pay all the bills as they do for natural children. But I am told many parents only want to get rid of their children temporarily. They put them into orphan asylums only for a period and will not agree to adoption by anyone else. All sorts of reasons for this are given by my correspondents who seem to agree that it is right that parents should abandon their children temporarily. One of the reasons given in my correspondence is that the parents are poor which to me is no reason at all.

After all, most of the parents among whom I grew up were poor and they had large families, and none of them abandoned their children to social workers or put them out to pasture in foster homes at the expense of the state. And many of them sent their sons to college out of the pennies earned on push-carts. How they did it will puzzle the high standard of living folks in this welfare state but they did do it, and the sons and daughters are around to tell of it.

In this exciting discussion, no one has yet raised the issue of the unwed mother who abandons her baby. What, morally, are her rights? She will not give the child a father's name nor his protection. She hands over his child; sometimes even before it is born, to a stranger, occasionally for pay. She lacked the moral restraints and physical self-control to keep from having a child. But when the case-worker comes around with adoption papers, she holds out for religious reasons, after she has abandoned religion as she has abandoned her child.

One would imagine that she would be only too happy to give the little tyke a break, see him well placed among decent, comfortable, intelligent people who would give him an opportunity for education and advancement. But no! She handicapped him by illegitimacy; and now she wishes further to handicap him by keeping him from opportunity in life. Are we to resolve the child's future in the interest of such a mother or in the interest of the child?

Surely such a mother is worthy of no consideration and if such an unfortunate child can be placed in a good home, there is no reason why her selfishness should play any part in the decisions that are to be made. The child ought not to be deprived of the advantages of life to satisfy the whims of a strumpet.

Maybe I am an old sentimentalist but I believe that the child should come first. He ought not to be a case with a number but a human being to be gently nurtured. For the child, the best place is a home where there is a father and a mother who will regard him as a gift from heaven and act accordingly.

That's because most of our congressional habitues spent the summer at the sidewalk tables of the Paris bistros.

"A Real Doll"

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (INS) — An NBC-TV cameraman who worked on Ray Henle's filmed hour-long "Conversation with Herbert Hoover," a jewel of a show we saw last Sunday, couldn't restrain himself when the 81-year old ex-President finished the chore.

"You're a real doll, Mr. Hoover," he said, pumping his hand.

It shook the old gentleman. The next day he took the puzzling matter to a friend of many years. The friend hadn't heard the expression either but promised to submit the case to a hep niece. Triumphantly, he returned to Hoover the following day and told him that the girl had approved.

"Chief, 'a real doll' means that you're quite a fellow, that you're okay with whoever said it," the friend explained.

It pleased Hoover. Next time he saw his friend he winked and said, "I'm a real doll."

Had Good Time

Hoover had a good time on the show:

"The only gift your president receives from the American people is the President's Flag. He gets no pension. He gets no title. But he gets his own flag and has a right to fly it.

"A man who was a senator carries the title long after he leaves the Senate. A Kentucky colonel is called colonel away from Louisville. A president out of office is just 'Mister.' I think it's a comfortable feeling.

"I go fishing whenever I get a chance. I have rather a yen for fishing because the ripple of a brook and the slap of a wave against the side of a boat will brain-wash almost anybody into a much clearer position."

"You have a famous statement about fishing, haven't you?" Henle asked.

"Well," Hoover answered, "I once explained why I think presidents fish. They all went fishing; they all have, even though they haven't fished before. That's because the American people have respect for privacy only on two occasions, one of them when a man is praying and the other when he is fishing. And the President can't pray all the time. . . ."

Hoover never accepted a salary as president and gave his salary as secretary of commerce to charity. Henle asked him why. He said:

"I've never accepted compensation for federal service except in this sense: that I have at all times taken federal salaries and expended them on matters that are outside my own needs and uses.

"I was led to doing this by an overall question of conviction of my own, and I don't say this in disparagement of men accepting salaries from the government because most of our officials must have such salaries in order to live.

Owed Country A Debt

"But it happens that I prospered in my profession at a time when the income tax was only one per cent. I was thus able to save a competence and I felt I owed my country a debt that was unpayable. I felt I had no right to ask her to pay me. . . ."

Flying back to New York with Mr. Hoover on United Air Lines' executive plane after his 80th birthday celebration at his birthplace in Iowa, I couldn't help but stare as he sat there puffing his pipe and opening congratulatory wires from people all over the world — including people who had belted him around for years.

He shook his head. "Reminds me of the story of the old fellow about my own time in life who stood up in the prayer meeting when the preacher asked, 'Can anybody in this congregation honestly say he doesn't have a single enemy?' This old party said, 'I don't' and when the preacher invited him to share his secret with the rest of the people he just said, 'I outlived the dastards.' "

"What," demanded a judge, "is your alibi for speeding through the center of town?"

"Please, your honor," was the way the defendant won an immediate acquittal, "I just found out the ladies of my wife's church were holding another rummage sale and I was rushing home to save my last pair of pants."

Rumor is that a pedestrian in Manhattan stopped Jascha Heifetz and inquired, "Could you tell me how to get to Carnegie Hall?"

"Yes," said Heifetz. "Practice!"

Keyser Seeks 8th PVC Title In Finale With Romney

Pioneers Will Mark Homecoming; LaSalle To Invade Altoona

Keyser High School will be gunning for its eighth Potomac Valley Conference football championship when it winds up its campaign with Coach Wes Abrams' Romney High School Pioneers in the latter's homecoming game Saturday at 1:30 o'clock in Romney.

A victory or a tie would enable Keyser to retain the title. At the present time KHS owns a 4-0 record. A loss, however, would tie Ridgeley and Keyser with 4-1 records even though the Blackhawks have won five of their six games in the circuit. Each team in the loop is limited to a maximum of five games.

In February 1953 the P.V.C. football rules were amended to read as follows:

"Divide the number of games won by the number of games played. A tie counts a half game won and a half game lost.

Se Maximum At Five

"A maximum of five games may be used in computing percentages with all losses counting.

"A school must play a minimum of four games to qualify for the conference championship."

The Pioneers and Golden Tornado will be tangling for the 16th straight year in the conference. In the past 15 games Keyser has emerged the victor nine times, Romney four times and two games ended in ties.

Keyser copped titles the first two years of the conference, 1937 and 1938, scored again in 1943, tied Ridgeley for the honors in 1948 and also finished on top in 1949, 1952 and 1954.

Here are the results of past conference battles between the schools:

1954—Keyser 21-0	1944—Keyser 12-6
1953—Romney 18-13	1943—7-7 tie
1952—14-14 tie	1942—Romney 34-0
1949—Keyser 13-7	1941—Romney 13-0
1948—Keyser 26-6	1940—Romney 14-0
1947—Keyser 7-0	1939—Keyser 18-0
1946—Keyser 19-0	1938—Keyser 32-0
1945—Keyser 38-0

Clark Had Six Winners

Frederick "Tack" Clark will conclude his 13th season as Keyser mentor in this game. Since he took over at Keyser, after shifting from Moorefield, his teams have engaged in 134 games, winning 84, losing 45 and playing five tie games. Clark tutored P.V.C. championship teams at Moorefield in 1942 and at Keyser in 1943, 1948, 1949, 1952 and 1954.

Wesley Abrams winds up his second season at Romney. His teams have won nine and lost nine.

LaSalle At Altoona

LaSalle High School's Explorers are scheduled to play the Marauders of Altoona Catholic High School Saturday night at Altoona, Pa. It will be the twelfth game of the series that was inaugurated in 1935. Altoona holds a 6-4 edge in wins. The 1940 contest ended in a scoreless tie.

Here are the scores of past games in the series:

1954—LaSalle 33-6	1940—0-0 tie
1953—LaSalle 44-19	1939—Altoona 21-0
1951—LaSalle 30-0	1938—Altoona 33-13
1949—Altoona 7-0	1937—Altoona 34-0
1942—Altoona 14-0	1935—LaSalle 14-3
1941—Altoona 14-0

Clingerman's To Host Purple Heart Tonight

Clingerman's first place team (15-3) hosts the Purple Heart Club in the top attraction tonight in the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League.

The runner-up Woodmen of the World (13-5) will shoot it out with Cresaptown on the latter's board.

Golden Nugget at Frostburg American Legion, Pocahontas at Green's Chevrolet, Frostburg Eagles at Cas Taylor's and Stadium Inn at the Hi Dee Club.

The Eagles, Hi Dee Club and Legion are deadlocked for third place with 11-7 records.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—(INS)—If there were half as many so-called upsets in racing as there are in football, there would be continuing scandals and at least half a dozen congressional investigations.

What is an upset? Isn't it the unexpected defeat of a favorite by an underdog? And isn't the upset actually in the mind of the public which has no means of knowing all the facts about individuals or teams?

Lou Little, Columbia's veteran coach, insists there are no real upsets in football.

Many a coach writhes in misery as he sees the public make his team a strong favorite when he knows that he should be a decided underdog. Of course, the rival coach is chuckling because he expects an easy victory and knows he will be hailed as a great teacher.

Lou Little always has insisted his despised team which upset powerful Stanford in the Rose Bowl many years ago was a great team. He knew how strong it was. The public didn't.

This lack of knowledged is what makes false favorites.

Comparative past performances and reputations are contributing factors.

Eddie Arcaro gets many a blast for losing on a 3-to-5 shot when he, the trainer and the owner all know that the horse should be about 5 to 1.

The public has made the nag a hot but false favorite because of Eddie's reputation.

Similarly, the public invariably will make Notre Dame a favorite over any club merely on the past performances and reputation of the Irish.

Of course, it must be admitted that the public will be right more often than not with Arcaro and Notre Dame, because Eddie gets "hot" horses to ride and Notre Dame gets great prospects for its coach.

Just as horses come to hand and improve with racing, so do football teams gradually gain by experience.

That is why teams which may have been pushovers in October suddenly jell and begin to click in November. You saw a fine sample of that last Saturday when Harvard, a decided underdog, beat Princeton, and Illinois beat Michigan.

Harvard and Illinois were not the teams Saturday that they had been a month ago. They may not have "figured" on paper but they did on the gridiron.

Nats Swing 4-For-5 Trade With Red Sox

Get Five Youngsters For Vernon, Schmitz, Porterfield, Umphlett

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—Moving swiftly to rebuild the Washington Senators, the club's new president Calvin Griffith today acquired five young players from the Boston Red Sox but had to surrender two of Washington's old pros, Mickey Vernon and Bob Porterfield.

It was a 5-for-4 deal as the Senators also gave up left handed pitcher Johnny Schmitz and reserve outfielder Tommy Umphlett. Quite obviously, the Red Sox are bidding for the pennant in 1956, since the Boston club can't expect too many years' service from its new players.

Vernon will be 38 in April; Schmitz will be 35 later this month. Porterfield, who has been having difficulty winning for the last two seasons after a 22-game year in 1953, is 31. Umphlett apparently was a throw-in. He came here from the Red Sox two years ago and never hit pver .220.

In return, the Senators acquired three pitchers and two outfielders, all 25 or younger, but none with much of a major league record. The biggest name among the five belongs to outfielder Karl Olson, whom Griffith already has labeled Washington's center fielder.

The other outfielder is Neil Chrisley, a lefthander who batted .320 with Nashville of the Southern Assn. last year. The three pitchers, all righthanders, are Dick Brodowski, Al Curtis and Truman Clevenger.

Chrisley, the youngest, is 22. Clevenger and Brodwoski are 23.

Both Washington and Boston denied that any cash was involved.

Cronin said Washington "got what it wanted—it wants a 'new look'—they got some good young ball players and we are satisfied."

Boston's rebuilt team faded in the stretch last season after making a strong run for the pennant earlier. The likes of Vernon, Porterfield and Schmitz would have come in handy last September.

The Senators' manager, Chuck Dressen, said "I think it is a good trade for both clubs," adding that the Red Sox got the players they thought would help in the pennant race next year while the Senators picked up the "younger fellows" in whom they were interested.

Dressen said he hated to let Vernon go. "He's one of the nicer fellows and a good team player . . . In this trade we either had to give up Vernon or no trade."

Vernon is obviously the biggest name in the trade. One of the American League's all-time stars at first base, Vernon twice won the American League batting championship and wound up last year at .301.

It has been no secret that Porterfield was anxious to leave Washington. He and Manager Chuck Dressen had been on the verge of an open feud a number of times and Bob reportedly told Griffith that he wouldn't pitch another year for Dressen.

Contacted at his home in Princeton, W. Va., Porterfield said. "I'm tickled pink."

Harry Walker Named Manager In Texas Loop

1955 St. Louis Pilot Is Signed By Houston

HOUSTON, Nov. 8 (AP) — Harry Walker, baseball veteran who managed the St. Louis Cardinals most of last season, today became one of the highest paid managers in history for the Class AA Texas League Houston Buffs.

Art Routzong, general manager of the Cardinal farm club, said the 37-year-old Walker has signed a one year contract as a playing manager and will remain on the active list "unless the youngsters on the club can beat him out."

No salary terms were announced but Routzong said Walker probably will receive a higher salary than any Texas League manager in history, with the exception of the $30,000 Charlie Grimm, now manager at Milwaukee, drew in Dallas in 1950.

Piloted Cards In 1955

Walker was called from Rochester of the International League last May 29 to succeed Eddie Stanky as Cardinal manager.

"I'm tickled to death to be here," Walker said today. "I'd like to stay in the majors, of course, but in the minor league picture I don't know of a town where I'd rather be than Houston. Brother Dixie says it is the garden spot of the world."

Dixie Walker, who replaced brother Harry at Rochester, led the Buffs into the Dixie Series in 1954. Last season's manager was Mike Ryba, who a week ago was appointed to the Cardinal scouting staff.

Harry and Dixie operate a hardware store in Leeds, Ala. Harry has another store in nearby Hueytown, Ala., as well as a building materials company.

Meanwhile the signing of Dixie to return as manager of the Rochester Red Wings in 1956 was announced by George Sisler, general manager of the Wings. Terms of the contract were not disclosed.

Saxton And Jones Fight On Coast

OAKLAND, Calif., Nov. 8 (AP)—A lively advance sale for tomorrow night's televised fight between Ralph (Tiger) Jones and Johnny Saxton was reported today by promoter Johnny Munro.

The overweight clash, scheduled for 10 rounds, will be staged at the Oakland Auditorium with a 10 p.m. (EST) start.

Saxton, a title contender in his own welterweight division, is stepping up a class to take on Jones, a highly regarded middleweight who has championship ambitions of his own.

The bout will be the second between the two fighters. Saxton took a decision in their initial match three years ago, long before he won—and lost—the welter title.

Grid Deaths Drop, Four Are Reported

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 8 (INS) — The fatalities committee of the American Football Coaches Association reported today that gridiron deaths have dropped sharply during the current season.

Committee chairman Floyd R. Eastwood said only four deaths resulting directly from football injuries were reported to him up to Nov. 1. During the same period in 1954, there were 12 deaths.

Eastwood, dean of students at Los Angeles State College, said three of this seasons fatalities were high school players in southern states.

The four victims were Phil Lewis, 16, Seridan, Ark.; Max Campbell, 18, Danville, Va.; Steve Thompson, 17, Nashville, Tenn., all high school players, and Ray Dennison, 26, Colorado A. & M. college.

Eastwood said head injuries caused all four deaths.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 8 (AP) — Mrs. Alan Ameche, wife of the former University of Wisconsin All-America fullback, will collect $7,500 for injuries received when her husband's car hit a tree.

The Wisconsin Supreme Court, upholding a lower court decision, agreed today that Ameche, now fullback for the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League didn't exercise proper care and control of his car at the time of the accident Feb. 6, 1953.

Yanks Win 6-2 In Atom-Bombed Japanese City

HIROSHIMA, Nov. 8 (INS)—The barnstorming New York Yankees had to come from behind today to score a 6-to-2 victory over a Japanese All-Star nine in the atom-bombed city of Hiroshima.

It was victory No. 11 for the Bronx Bombers who have not lost a game in 12 starts against leading Japanese professional talent. The Yankees were held to a tie in their third appearance.

Some 25,000 fans packed the Sogo Stadium and cheered wildly as the Japanese team jumped into the lead by scoring in the second and third innings. But the lead did not last long.

Yankee batting star Andy Carey blasted a two-run homer in the top of the fourth to tie the score at 2 to 2.

Another two-run homer by Outfielder Hank Bauer in the sixth put the Yankees ahead for good and the Bronx Bombers bunched three hits in the last inning to pile up two more runs.

Pioneers Will Mark Homecoming; LaSalle To Invade Altoona

Keyser High School will be gunning for its eighth Potomac Valley Conference football championship when it winds up its campaign with Coach Wes Abrams' Romney High School Pioneers in the latter's homecoming game Saturday at 1:30 o'clock in Romney.

A victory or a tie would enable Keyser to retain the title. At the present time KHS owns a 4-0 record. A loss, however, would tie Ridgeley and Keyser with 4-1 records even though the Blackhawks have won five of their six games in the circuit. Each team in the loop is limited to a maximum of five games.

In February 1953 the P.V.C. football rules were amended to read as follows:

"Divide the number of games won by the number of games played. A tie counts a half game won and a half game lost.

Se Maximum At Five

"A maximum of five games may be used in computing percentages with all losses counting.

"A school must play a minimum of four games to qualify for the conference championship."

The Pioneers and Golden Tornado will be tangling for the 16th straight year in the conference. In the past 15 games Keyser has emerged the victor nine times, Romney four times and two games ended in ties.

Keyser copped titles the first two years of the conference, 1937 and 1938, scored again in 1943, tied Ridgeley for the honors in 1948 and also finished on top in 1949, 1952 and 1954.

Here are the results of past conference battles between the schools:

1954—Keyser 21-0	1944—Keyser 12-6
1953—Romney 18-13	1943—7-7 tie
1952—14-14 tie	1942—Romney 34-0

1946—Keyser 19-0	1938—Keyser 32-0
1945—Keyser 38-0

Officials for the Saturday game will be "Bobby" Cavanaugh, Jim Gaffney, Bob Pence and Jim Fahey.

Clark tutored P.V.C. championship teams at Moorefield in 1942 and at Keyser in 1943, 1948, 1949, 1952 and 1954.

Saxton And Jones Fight On Coast

OAKLAND, Calif., Nov. 8 (AP)—A lively advance sale for tomorrow night's televised fight between Ralph (Tiger) Jones and Johnny Saxton was reported today by promoter Johnny Munro.

The overweight clash, scheduled for 10 rounds, will be staged at the Oakland Auditorium with a 10 p.m. (EST) start.

Saxton, a title contender in his own welterweight division, is stepping up a class to take on Jones, a highly regarded middleweight who has championship ambitions of his own.

The bout will be the second between the two fighters. Saxton took a decision in their initial match three years ago, long before he won—and lost—the welter title.

Grid Deaths Drop, Four Are Reported

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 8 (INS) — The fatalities committee of the American Football Coaches Association reported today that gridiron deaths have dropped sharply during the current season.

Committee chairman Floyd R. Eastwood said only four deaths resulting directly from football injuries were reported to him up to Nov. 1. During the same period in 1954, there were 12 deaths.

Eastwood, dean of students at Los Angeles State College, said three of this seasons fatalities were high school players in southern states.

The four victims were Phil Lewis, 16, Seridan, Ark.; Max Campbell, 18, Danville, Va.; Steve Thompson, 17, Nashville, Tenn., all high school players, and Ray Dennison, 26, Colorado A. & M. college.

Eastwood said head injuries caused all four deaths.

Yanks Win 6-2 In Atom-Bombed Japanese City

HIROSHIMA, Nov. 8 (INS)—The barnstorming New York Yankees had to come from behind today to score a 6-to-2 victory over a Japanese All-Star nine in the atom-bombed city of Hiroshima.

It was victory No. 11 for the Bronx Bombers who have not lost a game in 12 starts against leading Japanese professional talent. The Yankees were held to a tie in their third appearance.

Some 25,000 fans packed the Sogo Stadium and cheered wildly as the Japanese team jumped into the lead by scoring in the second and third innings. But the lead did not last long.

Yankee batting star Andy Carey blasted a two-run homer in the top of the fourth to tie the score at 2 to 2.

Another two-run homer by Outfielder Hank Bauer in the sixth put the Yankees ahead for good and the Bronx Bombers bunched three hits in the last inning to pile up two more runs.

Welsh Recaptures Lead In Offense

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

George Welsh of Navy ran and passed for 179 yards in the 7-7 tie with Duke to recapture the total offense lead among major college football players.

Welsh tops Art Luppino of Arizona, 989 yards to 906 yards after another busy weekend. Luppino retained his rushing lead with 134 yards against Texas Tech for a season total of 906, passing the idle Jim Swink of Texas Christian who had been first in both total offense and rushing until his team had an open date.

Len Dawson of Purdue, handicapped by a broken thumb in early season, finally has taken over the lead among the passers from Columbia's Claude Benham in a tight race. Each has completed 70 passes in seven games but Dawson's completion percentage of .551 in 127 attempts tops Benham's .483 in 145 throws. Bill Beagle of Dartmouth is third among the passers and Welsh is fourth. Welsh has gained the most with his passes, a total of 967 yards.

BAGHDAD, Nov. 8 (AP)—Paul Anderson, world heavyweight champion weight lifter from Toccoa, Ga., set a world clean and jerk record by lifting 207½ kilograms (457½ pounds) last night at an exhibition.

Howell Raps Otto Graham For Dirty Play Complaint

Denies Giants Tried To "Get" Browns' Ace

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 (AP) — Otto Graham, veteran quarterback of the Cleveland Browns, is talking through his helmet when he complains of dirty playing, New York Giant Coach Jim Lee Howell said today.

Howell, who starred for years as an end with the Giants before succeeding Steve Owen two years ago, chided some of the Browns for intimating the Giants were out to get Graham last Sunday during the Browns-Giants game in Cleveland.

Graham was injured in the first half and sat out the rest of the game as the Browns, sparked by the passing of reserve quarterback George Ratterman, rallied from a 14-3 deficit to defeat the Giants 24-14.

Graham Complains

Graham, speaking at the Atlanta Quarterback Club Monday night, complained that football was getting "rougher and rougher," and unless something was done, "it will get out of hand."

The 34-year-old star added: "Commissioner Bert Bell says the National Football League plays rough and tough but not dirty. But I know it isn't true."

"Any insinuation that the Giants deliberately went out to get Graham is ridiculous," Howell told newsmen at a press conference. "Why if we wanted to get Graham, we could have done it a long time ago. It's the easiest thing in the world to put a quarterback out of commission.

"The fact that such quarterbacks as Sammy Baugh, Sid Luckman, Bob Waterfield and others were able to play as many years as they did is proof that we play clean, if hard, football. That goes for Graham, too. He's been around some nine or ten years without getting injured. That's a credit to the league. Why, if anyone was out to get Graham, they could have done it the first year he was in the league."

Howell said the play which sidelined Graham with a head injury was perfectly legitimate. He said Herb Rich, Giants' defensive halfback, hit Graham low as he was about to pass and Tom Landry came in to make the tackle.

Says Colo Slugged Chuck

The tall mentor of the Giants praised the Browns for their clean play with one eexception. He accused Don Colo, Cleveland lineman of deliberately slugging Chuck Conerly after the Giant quarterback had completed a pass on the last play of the game.

"I ran out on the field and called Colo every name I could think of," he said. "I was very angry at this deliberate foul play and said some things I shouldn't have. Know what Colo said? 'You get Graham and it's all right, but when we try to get Conerly, you complain.' "

Baker, Valdes To Meet Dec. 7

Heavyweight Match Set For Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Nov. 8—(INS)—Bob Baker of Pittsburgh and Nino Valdes of Cuba were named today as opponents in the feature match of the 30th annual Cleveland News Toyshop Boxing Show at the Cleveland arena December 7.

Matchmaker Larry Atkins said he was able to get the bout only after Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club in New York, promised that the winner will meet world heavyweight champ Rocky Marciano in June.

Baker is the No. 2 ranked heavyweight contender and Valdes is considered the No. 3 best in the business.

The Cleveland fight will be the second meeting between the two fighters. In May, 1953, Baker won a disputed decision over Valdes at Huntington, W. Va.

George Hott's 20 Tds Is New Shepherd Mark

Widdows Has 30 EP, Last Eight In Row

George Hott, former Moorefield High School halfback, has scored eleven touchdowns for 66 points in six games this season for Shepherd College's Rams who can windup an undefeated season this weekend if they defeat the Shipbuilders of Newport News Apprentice School, Va., in a game set for Saturday at Shepherdstown.

Hott missed the D. & E. game this season due to illness.

In 1954 he played in only the last five games and scored nine touchdowns for 54 points. His 20 tds for 120 points in 11 games in two years is a new record at Shepherd.

Hott, who is 6-foot-3 and weighs 195 pounds, is one of the leaders in the West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference ball carrying averages with a healthy 8.1 yards per try.

Shepherd College, winner of the WVIC title, appears headed for its first undefeated - untied football season in the school's history. The Rams, coached by Don Fuoss, former Altoona, Pa., resident and All-State center at Catawba College, Salisbury, have rolled over seven opponents this season, scored 38 touchdowns and 25 PATs for a total of 235 points while limiting their opposition to five tds and 1 extra point.

Win Nine Straight

Shepherd has won its last nine games, scored in the last 21 contests, and has an overall 2-year record of 12-2-1 going into the 1955 final with Newport News.

In winning its first WVIC championship Shepherd defeated Fairmont State 26-6, Glenville 26-6, Potomac State 33-0 and Davis and Elkins 47-6. Non-conference foes defeated were Bridgewater 24-0, Gallaudet 41-13 and District of Columbia Teachers 56-0.

John Shearer, quarterback, of Bladensburg, Hott and Dick Widdows, former Allegany High (Cumberland) player, are the senior co-captains of the Rams.

Hott attended West Virginia University before going into the service, transferred to Shepherd to complete his education. Widdows is a 4-year letterman.

Shearer, a 200-pounder, has passed for 12 touchdowns this season to bring his two-year record up to 17 six-pointers via the air lanes. He scored five times this season and three times last year.

Widdows Boots 8 For 8

Widdows, an end, is having his finest season, having scored three touchdowns and 12 PATs. Barney Tucker of Cumberland is also a member of the undefeated Rams.

Lewis Locks Gates As WVU Team Drills

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 8 (AP)—For the first time this season Coach Art Lewis locked the gate on football practice at West Virginia University.

All this week his sixth - ranked Mountaineers will run through play patterns, pass defenses, blocking and tackling drills in secrecy.

It's that way with the Pitt game. Anybody who wants to see what Lewis has in mind must travel to Pittsburgh Saturday and join a crowd expected to fill Pitt Stadium to its 60,000 seat capacity.

Beard Nears 1,500 Mark In Yards Gained At VPI

Cumberlander Needs Seven To Hit Mark

BLACKSBURG, Va., Nov. 8 — Captain Dickie Beard leads Virginia Tech against a fast-improving N. C. State eleven in Bluefield Saturday, needing just seven yards to boost his collegiate ground-gaining total to 1,500 yards.

Dickie Beard

The 175-pound senior halfback from Cumberland, Maryland, is averaging almost four yards a carry with 273 yards gained in the eight games played this season. A year ago, Beard gained 647 yards to lead the Southern Conference ground gainers.

One of the finest running backs in Tech grid history, Beard was hampered by a leg injury early this season that cut down his effectiveness. Also, he was a marked man after his spectacular record of a year ago and opposing defenses were designed to halt his running.

Beard's latest two appearances were his best for the season. He picked up a total of 107 yards against George Washington and Clemson, averaging nearly 5 yards a carry.

As a freshman, Beard broke into varsity competition with 224 yards for the season. He collected 349 as a sophomore to lead all Tech backs, and last year's great record of 647 yards was high for the conference.

Beard's value to the team is not limited to his running ability. He has kicked 12 extra points, punted eight times for a 30-yard average and has been a dependable defensive performer.

Tech followers bank on Beard and his mates to match the recent Clemson performance against the offensive - minded N. C. State eleven. The Wolfpack goes into the Bluefield encounter boasting a three-game winning streak, the latest victim being Boston University by a 40-13 margin.

Tech trimmed State in a thriller last year, 30 to 21, for its 17th victory in the 31-game series.

Venezuelan Methods Confound Officials

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 8 (AP) — Venezuelan horse training methods confounded Laurel officials today.

Prendase, a 4-year-old colt entered in Friday's $65,000 International at a gruelling mile and a half, arrived by plane about noon.

A few hours later, owner Jose Federico Siccardi was asking Laurel officials if he "could start him in a race tomorrow or the next day."

American trainers consider a week the minimum between races.

However, Prendase has never raced on grass and Siccardi is anxious to have his horse try it.

Riepl Voted Back Of Week

Penn Sophomore Is Honored By The AP

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frank Riepl is a sophomore halfback on the Pennsylvania team that hasn't won a game. When it lost its 16th straight to Notre Dame last Saturday, it wasn't even close. The final score was 46-14. But Riepl showed enough in a losing cause to get Associated Press recognition as Back of the Week.

Riepl won his honors over the toughest type of competition, for last weekend was studded with brilliant performances by backfield men. It was the same weekend when Bob Mitchell, an Illinois sophomore, came out of nowhere to lead his team to a surprising 25-6 victory over mighty Michigan. It was the day Ronnie Knox flashed for UCLA, Lennie Moore sparkled for Penn State, Charlie Horton dazzled for Vanderbilt and dozens of other backs ran wild.

It didn't take long for Riepl to start throwing his 168 pounds around against Notre Dame. He caught the opening kickoff back of his own goal line and raced through the entire team in a shocking 108-yard run for a touchdown. That wasn't all although it was one of the longest runs of the season. Later in the first half he threw a 12-yard touchdown pass to Bob Barber and kicked the two extra points that gave Penn a 14-7 lead at 5:10 of the second period and a 14-14 tie at half time.

Hangs Up Record

BAGHDAD, Nov. 8 (AP)—Paul Anderson, world heavyweight champion weight lifter from Toccoa, Ga., set a world clean and jerk record by lifting 207½ kilograms (457½ pounds) last night at an exhibition.

The American team arrived last week and gave exhibitions in Basrah, Kurkuk and Mosol. The touring strong men left today for Afghanistan.

Denies Giants Tried To "Get" Browns' Ace

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 (AP) — Otto Graham, veteran quarterback of the Cleveland Browns, is talking through his helmet when he complains of dirty playing, New York Giant Coach Jim Lee Howell said today.

Howell, who starred for years as an end with the Giants before succeeding Steve Owen two years ago, chided some of the Browns for intimating the Giants were out to get Graham last Sunday during the Browns-Giants game in Cleveland.

Graham was injured in the first half and sat out the rest of the game as the Browns, sparked by the passing of reserve quarterback George Ratterman, rallied from a 14-3 deficit to defeat the Giants 24-14.

Graham Complains

Graham, speaking at the Atlanta Quarterback Club Monday night, complained that football was getting "rougher and rougher," and unless something was done, "it will get out of hand."

The 34-year-old star added: "Commissioner Bert Bell says the National Football League plays rough and tough but not dirty. But I know it isn't true."

"Any insinuation that the Giants deliberately went out to get Graham is ridiculous," Howell told newsmen at a press conference. "Why if we wanted to get Graham, we could have done it a long time ago. It's the easiest thing in the world to put a quarterback out of commission.

"The fact that such quarterbacks as Sammy Baugh, Sid Luckman, Bob Waterfield and others were able to play as many years as they did is proof that we play clean, if hard, football. That goes for Graham, too. He's been around some nine or ten years without getting injured. That's a credit to the league. Why, if anyone was out to get Graham, they could have done it the first year he was in the league."

Howell said the play which sidelined Graham with a head injury was perfectly legitimate. He said Herb Rich, Giants' defensive halfback, hit Graham low as he was about to pass and Tom Landry came in to make the tackle.

Says Colo Slugged Chuck

The tall mentor of the Giants praised the Browns for their clean play with one eexception. He accused Don Colo, Cleveland lineman of deliberately slugging Chuck Conerly after the Giant quarterback had completed a pass on the last play of the game.

"I ran out on the field and called Colo every name I could think of," he said. "I was very angry at this deliberate foul play and said some things I shouldn't have. Know what Colo said? 'You get Graham and it's all right, but when we try to get Conerly, you complain.' "

Baker, Valdes To Meet Dec. 7

Heavyweight Match Set For Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Nov. 8—(INS)—Bob Baker of Pittsburgh and Nino Valdes of Cuba were named today as opponents in the feature match of the 30th annual Cleveland News Toyshop Boxing Show at the Cleveland arena December 7.

Matchmaker Larry Atkins said he was able to get the bout only after Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club in New York, promised that the winner will meet world heavyweight champ Rocky Marciano in June.

Baker is the No. 2 ranked heavyweight contender and Valdes is considered the No. 3 best in the business.

The Cleveland fight will be the second meeting between the two fighters. In May, 1953, Baker won a disputed decision over Valdes at Huntington, W. Va.

George Hott's 20 Tds Is New Shepherd Mark

Widdows Has 30 EP, Last Eight In Row

George Hott, former Moorefield High School halfback, has scored eleven touchdowns for 66 points in six games this season for Shepherd College's Rams who can windup an undefeated season this weekend if they defeat the Shipbuilders of Newport News Apprentice School, Va., in a game set for Saturday at Shepherdstown.

Hott missed the D. & E. game this season due to illness.

In 1954 he played in only the last five games and scored nine touchdowns for 54 points. His 20 tds for 120 points in 11 games in two years is a new record at Shepherd.

Hott, who is 6-foot-3 and weighs 195 pounds, is one of the leaders in the West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference ball carrying averages with a healthy 8.1 yards per try.

Shepherd College, winner of the WVIC title, appears headed for its first undefeated - untied football season in the school's history. The Rams, coached by Don Fuoss, former Altoona, Pa., resident and All-State center at Catawba College, Salisbury, have rolled over seven opponents this season, scored 38 touchdowns and 25 PATs for a total of 235 points while limiting their opposition to five tds and 1 extra point.

Win Nine Straight

Shepherd has won its last nine games, scored in the last 21 contests, and has an overall 2-year record of 12-2-1 going into the 1955 final with Newport News.

In winning its first WVIC championship Shepherd defeated Fairmont State 26-6, Glenville 26-6, Potomac State 33-0 and Davis and Elkins 47-6. Non-conference foes defeated were Bridgewater 24-0, Gallaudet 41-13 and District of Columbia Teachers 56-0.

John Shearer, quarterback, of Bladensburg, Hott and Dick Widdows, former Allegany High (Cumberland) player, are the senior co-captains of the Rams.

Hott attended West Virginia University before going into the service, transferred to Shepherd to complete his education. Widdows is a 4-year letterman.

Shearer, a 200-pounder, has passed for 12 touchdowns this season to bring his two-year record up to 17 six-pointers via the air lanes. He scored five times this season and three times last year.

Widdows Boots 8 For 8

Widdows, an end, is having his finest season, having scored three touchdowns and 12 PATs. Barney Tucker of Cumberland is also a member of the undefeated Rams.

Lewis Locks Gates As WVU Team Drills

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 8 (AP)—For the first time this season Coach Art Lewis locked the gate on football practice at West Virginia University.

All this week his sixth - ranked Mountaineers will run through play patterns, pass defenses, blocking and tackling drills in secrecy.

It's that way with the Pitt game. Anybody who wants to see what Lewis has in mind must travel to Pittsburgh Saturday and join a crowd expected to fill Pitt Stadium to its 60,000 seat capacity.

Beard Nears 1,500 Mark In Yards Gained At VPI

Cumberlander Needs Seven To Hit Mark

BLACKSBURG, Va., Nov. 8 — Captain Dickie Beard leads Virginia Tech against a fast-improving N. C. State eleven in Bluefield Saturday, needing just seven yards to boost his collegiate ground-gaining total to 1,500 yards.

Dickie Beard

The 175-pound senior halfback from Cumberland, Maryland, is averaging almost four yards a carry with 273 yards gained in the eight games played this season. A year ago, Beard gained 647 yards to lead the Southern Conference ground gainers.

One of the finest running backs in Tech grid history, Beard was hampered by a leg injury early this season that cut down his effectiveness. Also, he was a marked man after his spectacular record of a year ago and opposing defenses were designed to halt his running.

Beard's latest two appearances were his best for the season. He picked up a total of 107 yards against George Washington and Clemson, averaging nearly 5 yards a carry.

As a freshman, Beard broke into varsity competition with 224 yards for the season. He collected 349 as a sophomore to lead all Tech backs, and last year's great record of 647 yards was high for the conference.

Beard's value to the team is not limited to his running ability. He has kicked 12 extra points, punted eight times for a 30-yard average and has been a dependable defensive performer.

Tech followers bank on Beard and his mates to match the recent Clemson performance against the offensive - minded N. C. State eleven. The Wolfpack goes into the Bluefield encounter boasting a three-game winning streak, the latest victim being Boston University by a 40-13 margin.

Tech trimmed State in a thriller last year, 30 to 21, for its 17th victory in the 31-game series.

Venezuelan Methods Confound Officials

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 8 (AP) — Venezuelan horse training methods confounded Laurel officials today.

Prendase, a 4-year-old colt entered in Friday's $65,000 International at a gruelling mile and a half, arrived by plane about noon.

A few hours later, owner Jose Federico Siccardi was asking Laurel officials if he "could start him in a race tomorrow or the next day."

American trainers consider a week the minimum between races.

However, Prendase has never raced on grass and Siccardi is anxious to have his horse try it.

Penn Sophomore Is Honored By The AP

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frank Riepl is a sophomore halfback on the Pennsylvania team that hasn't won a game. When it lost its 16th straight to Notre Dame last Saturday, it wasn't even close. The final score was 46-14. But Riepl showed enough in a losing cause to get Associated Press recognition as Back of the Week.

Riepl won his honors over the toughest type of competition, for last weekend was studded with brilliant performances by backfield men. It was the same weekend when Bob Mitchell, an Illinois sophomore, came out of nowhere to lead his team to a surprising 25-6 victory over mighty Michigan. It was the day Ronnie Knox flashed for UCLA, Lennie Moore sparkled for Penn State, Charlie Horton dazzled for Vanderbilt and dozens of other backs ran wild.

It didn't take long for Riepl to start throwing his 168 pounds around against Notre Dame. He caught the opening kickoff back of his own goal line and raced through the entire team in a shocking 108-yard run for a touchdown. That wasn't all although it was one of the longest runs of the season. Later in the first half he threw a 12-yard touchdown pass to Bob Barber and kicked the two extra points that gave Penn a 14-7 lead at 5:10 of the second period and a 14-14 tie at half time.

Laurel Double Payoff $1,315

Bill Hartack Boosts Total Wins To 376

LAUREL, Nov. 8 (AP)—After longshots brought about a $1,315.60 daily double in the first two races at Laurel today, favorites returned to winning form in the better-grade events and Westley E. Brown's Royal Battle score at only $4.40 for $2 in the Free State Purse, featured sixth race.

The longshots who got together to create the largest daily double of Maryland's new fall season were Flamingo Farm's Madok ($49.60) who scored at the first asking in the opening event, and Paul A. Rothfuss' The Surgeon, who returned $17.00 straight in the second race.

Lucky numbers in the combination pool were 12 and 11 and one $10.00 ticket and 55 two-dollar tickets were sold on the correct combo.

Since Hartack won six races on Saturday and came back with four yesterday, his followers were out in full force to swell today's gathering to 12,041 fans. They watched their idol finish second in two of the early events.

Today's three victories increased Hartack's score for the meeting to 21 victories and upped his national score to 376 wins. His goal is 400 wins for the season.

Broome, Citadel Halfback, Voted Player Of Week

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 8 (AP)—Budgie Broome, a 172-pound halfback largely responsible for The Citadel's surprising victory record this season, today was named the Southern Conference's football player of the week.

Broome, a standout in The Citadel's 13-7 triumph over Newberry, nosed out Richmond's Tom Theodose in the closest balloting this season in the weekly poll conducted by the Southern Conference's Sportswriters Assn.

Broome, a junior from Greenwood, S.C., picked up 168 yards on 10 carries, scored one touchdown, set up another, returned a kickoff 24 yards and lugged an intercepted pass back 33 yards. He accounted for 225 yards in The Citadel's fifth victory of the season and touched off his fine show on the first play from scrimmage by sprinting 66 yards to the Newberry two to set up a lead the Bulldogs never relinquished.

George Washington's Mike Sommer, whose 89-yard touchdown run threatened West Virginia's league supremacy; Virginia Tech's Jim Locke, a bulwark in the Gobblers' stern defense against Clemson, and the Mountaineers' workhorse fullback, Larry Krutko, who gained 105 yards rushing, also were recommended highly.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 8 (INS)—Ronald Colman comes out of five years retirement as a motion picture actor, although he has his own television show, to join the select group in Mike Todd's "Around the World in 80 Days."

This means one day's work for Ronnie, and he likes the idea, just as Noel Coward, Marlene Dietrich, Sir John Geilgud, Frank Sinatra, Bea Lillie and other headliners like the brief engagement.

Ronnie's stint calls for him to play an official on a railroad in India, and he does his acting with David Niven and Sir Cedric Hardwicke.

A happy Arlene Dahl told me that she makes her first picture, "Portrait in Smoke," in Europe for Mike Frankovich.

"Fernando goes with me," she said. (Fernando being her husband, Fernando Lamas). "We stop first in Milan to see his daughter who's there with her mother. Then I go on to London and Fernando will talk business with several producers who have written him about pictures.

"We'll make our backgrounds for 'Portrait in Smoke' in Paris and since we start December 20 we're leaving here November 17. I'm trying to get Christmas shopping done and my clothes ready, and I'm really busy, as you can imagine."

Alvy Moore, who had polio just after his smash hit in "Susan Slept Here," is now completely well and has himself a very important picture. He'll co-star with Tom Tyron (Hal Wallis' new discovery) in "Screaming Eagles," to be produced by Bischoff and Diamond Productions.

Alvy has been under contract to Walt Disney and has been very happy with his Disney engagements.

"Screaming Eagles" is the story of the famous paratrooper outfit of the 101st Airborne Division. This should be a natural for Alvy, who was in the paratrooper division of the Marine Corps in 1943.

Snaps:

Look for wedding bells for Diana Lynn and John Rae, British naval commander.

The seven Russian newspaper men had so much fun at Disneyland that it was difficult to pry them loose to keep other engagements.

Kathy Grant was Bing Crosby's date at the Blue Skies trailer opening in Palm Springs. Bing, slouch hat, pipe and all, was very much present.

Bing's youngest son, Linny, came with Frank Sinatra's attractive daughter, Nancy.

The Jack Bennys and William Perlbergs, owners, helped greet the guests.

Dinah Shore's been hearing regularly long distance from George Montgomery, who's making a picture on location. He's been gone seven weeks and she'll never understand how husbands and wives want to be separated.

Johnny Weissmuller will be an official American representative for the U.S. Olympic team when it goes to Australia for the games next summer.

Greer Garson telephoned to say she's off to New York for the Overseas Press Club program. She's been at her New Mexico ranch all summer.

That's all today See you tomorrow.

Police Open Drive On Teen-Age Gangs

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8 (AP)—Police said today they had started a special campaign against teen-age gangs who prey upon school children at bus stops and transfer points in the northwest part of Baltimore.

In a typical incident yesterday, two 13-year-old boys were beaten and robbed of a nickel and a pair of gloves by two Negro youths. Some of the gang members equip themselves with crude weapons or knives.

Laurel Double Payoff $1,315

Bill Hartack Boosts Total Wins To 376

LAUREL, Nov. 8 (AP)—After longshots brought about a $1,315.60 daily double in the first two races at Laurel today, favorites returned to winning form in the better-grade events and Westley E. Brown's Royal Battle score at only $4.40 for $2 in the Free State Purse, featured sixth race.

The longshots who got together to create the largest daily double of Maryland's new fall season were Flamingo Farm's Madok ($49.60) who scored at the first asking in the opening event, and Paul A. Rothfuss' The Surgeon, who returned $17.00 straight in the second race.

Lucky numbers in the combination pool were 12 and 11 and one $10.00 ticket and 55 two-dollar tickets were sold on the correct combo.

Since Hartack won six races on Saturday and came back with four yesterday, his followers were out in full force to swell today's gathering to 12,041 fans. They watched their idol finish second in two of the early events.

Today's three victories increased Hartack's score for the meeting to 21 victories and upped his national score to 376 wins. His goal is 400 wins for the season.

Broome, Citadel Halfback, Voted Player Of Week

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 8 (AP)—Budgie Broome, a 172-pound halfback largely responsible for The Citadel's surprising victory record this season, today was named the Southern Conference's football player of the week.

Broome, a standout in The Citadel's 13-7 triumph over Newberry, nosed out Richmond's Tom Theodose in the closest balloting this season in the weekly poll conducted by the Southern Conference's Sportswriters Assn.

Broome, a junior from Greenwood, S.C., picked up 168 yards on 10 carries, scored one touchdown, set up another, returned a kickoff 24 yards and lugged an intercepted pass back 33 yards. He accounted for 225 yards in The Citadel's fifth victory of the season and touched off his fine show on the first play from scrimmage by sprinting 66 yards to the Newberry two to set up a lead the Bulldogs never relinquished.

George Washington's Mike Sommer, whose 89-yard touchdown run threatened West Virginia's league supremacy; Virginia Tech's Jim Locke, a bulwark in the Gobblers' stern defense against Clemson, and the Mountaineers' workhorse fullback, Larry Krutko, who gained 105 yards rushing, also were recommended highly.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 8 (INS)—Ronald Colman comes out of five years retirement as a motion picture actor, although he has his own television show, to join the select group in Mike Todd's "Around the World in 80 Days."

This means one day's work for Ronnie, and he likes the idea, just as Noel Coward, Marlene Dietrich, Sir John Geilgud, Frank Sinatra, Bea Lillie and other headliners like the brief engagement.

Ronnie's stint calls for him to play an official on a railroad in India, and he does his acting with David Niven and Sir Cedric Hardwicke.

A happy Arlene Dahl told me that she makes her first picture, "Portrait in Smoke," in Europe for Mike Frankovich.

"Fernando goes with me," she said. (Fernando being her husband, Fernando Lamas). "We stop first in Milan to see his daughter who's there with her mother. Then I go on to London and Fernando will talk business with several producers who have written him about pictures.

"We'll make our backgrounds for 'Portrait in Smoke' in Paris and since we start December 20 we're leaving here November 17. I'm trying to get Christmas shopping done and my clothes ready, and I'm really busy, as you can imagine."

Alvy Moore, who had polio just after his smash hit in "Susan Slept Here," is now completely well and has himself a very important picture. He'll co-star with Tom Tyron (Hal Wallis' new discovery) in "Screaming Eagles," to be produced by Bischoff and Diamond Productions.

Alvy has been under contract to Walt Disney and has been very happy with his Disney engagements.

"Screaming Eagles" is the story of the famous paratrooper outfit of the 101st Airborne Division. This should be a natural for Alvy, who was in the paratrooper division of the Marine Corps in 1943.

Snaps:

Look for wedding bells for Diana Lynn and John Rae, British naval commander.

The seven Russian newspaper men had so much fun at Disneyland that it was difficult to pry them loose to keep other engagements.

Kathy Grant was Bing Crosby's date at the Blue Skies trailer opening in Palm Springs. Bing, slouch hat, pipe and all, was very much present.

Bing's youngest son, Linny, came with Frank Sinatra's attractive daughter, Nancy.

Dinah Shore's been hearing regularly long distance from George Montgomery, who's making a picture on location. He's been gone seven weeks and she'll never understand how husbands and wives want to be separated.

Johnny Weissmuller will be an official American representative for the U.S. Olympic team when it goes to Australia for the games next summer.

Greer Garson telephoned to say she's off to New York for the Overseas Press Club program. She's been at her New Mexico ranch all summer.

That's all today See you tomorrow.

Television And Radio

by John Crosby

Revolution

If you want to make a silly ass of yourself, make a prediction about television. They've all been wrong. Frank Stanton, president of CBS, today recalls wryly the time he was on the cover of "Time" and predicted boldy that TV would sweep the nation. He couldn't have been wronger. I can also recall one of my own predictions, which is unfortunately imbedded in print, that television shows—because of their greater impact—would only be five or ten minutes long in place of the old half hour radio shows. How offbase can you get?

I've just been flipping through the Nielsen ratings and one thing hits you in the face. Of the top ten rated television shows of the nation only one—"$64,000 Question"—is a half-hour show. The others are all in the sixty or ninety-minute format. Two years ago—same period—no fewer than eight of the top ten programs were half-hour shows.

That doesn't mean the half-hour show has vanished. Groucho Marx, "I Love Lucy," George Gobel, Jackie Gleason, "Dragnet" and Jack Benny are still holding their own—but they're all great shows The second-rate shows can't compete against the longer ones. And ninety minutes isn't the ceiling either. There isn't any ceiling. There have been quite a lot of two-hour shows—the latest one, Mary Martin and Helen Hayes in "Skin of Our Teeth," climbed to eleventh on the Nielsen list—and now NBC is talking about putting on the British-made color film "Richard III" as a three-hour show. Just to make a silly ass of myself all over again, I will go out on a limb and predict that a four-hour dramatic show is not inconceivable on TV either.

There has been a revolution in viewing habits. And one aspect of it is the revelation that the term "viewing habits" had better be sharply revised. It isn't that much of a habit. The old idea that the public had an unbreakable habit of tuning in the same old entertainer at the same half hour of the same day of the week year after year, just isn't so any more. It's just possible that it never was so, that the radio people sold this idea to themselves and perpetuated it far beyond reasonable limits.

Now irregularity rather than regularity is almost the rule rather than the exception. Again to go out on a limb, it is my guess that within five years there will be almost no regularly scheduled program in the old radio sense. By that I mean, you can't just assume that you'll find Milton Berle on at 8 p. m. Tuesdays. Come to think of it you can't even assume that today. Sometimes it's Martha Raye.

The real break-up of the public's "viewing habits"—if they ever had any—started with the NBC spectaculars a year ago. These were launched with some trepidation and some of them were pretty bad. Just the same they attracted a whale of an audience. After a halting beginning, they consistently made the top ten and two of them—"Peter Pan" with Mary Martin and "Babes In Toyland" hit the No. 1 spot. NBC claims that "Peter Pan" had the largest viewing audience of all time.

This year CBS has got itself thoroughly into the big show concept. Both the Judy Garland show, which got mixed notices, and the Noel Coward-Mary Martin affray drew tremendous audiences.

The pattern — irregularity and long lavish shows—seems clearly established. But just don't count on it. The one thing that makes this business fascinating is the fact that you can't count on anything.

The other day Walter Winchell quoted Groucho Marx as saying that his sponsor picked up "You Bet Your Life," not because it was the best show around but because it was the cheapest. So what happened? It swept the country and has been up close to the top ever since. That's the way things go.

Airline Seeks Right To Continue Overflights

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—Allegheny Airlines asked the Civil Aeronautics Board today to continue its authority to overfly Johnstown and Allentown, Pa., on some flights between Pittsburgh and Newark-New York. Without that special authority, which now has expired, Allegheny must stop at the two airports on all flights. It now serves them on at least four daily round trips.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

BETTER PLANNING NEEDED

SOUTH'S METHOD of playing the following hand left him with a sheer guess in a key suit, whereas better planning would have insured the slam contract.

North dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ Q 10 9 8 ♥ 3 ♦ Q J 5 3 ♣ A 9 6 4
♠ 4 ♥ K Q 10 5 ♦ 10 8 6 4 ♣ Q 8 7 3	N W E S	♠ 5 2 ♥ J 9 7 6 4 2 ♦ A ♣ K J 5 2
	♠ A K J 7 6 3 ♥ A 8 ♦ K 9 7 2 ♣ 10

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 ♦	Pass	6 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

In view of partner's original pass, it was rather optimistic of South to get slam-minded simply because North double-raised the spade bid. However, as it happened, North turned up with precisely the right cards.

West chose the natural lead from his holding, the king of hearts. South won and laid down the ace and king of trumps. Then, obviously pleased with his prospects, he led the diamond deuce to dummy's jack. East won with the blank ace, and, rather than lead away from his club holding into an unknown position, returned a heart. Dummy ruffed, of course, but declarer soon found that he was doomed to lose another diamond trick.

It goes without saying that South could have made the contract easily by leading a low diamond from dummy, thus knocking out East's blank ace without sacrificing an honor, but this particular matter was a sheer guess—there was as much chance that the diamond ace lay blank in West's hand as in East's. The correct line of play was to eliminate all the clubs and hearts in the North-South hands by cross-ruffing with high trumps, then to draw the outstanding trumps, and finally to lead the diamond. Under this plan, a blank ace in either East or West would not matter, because the defender would have to return a side suit, and this would let South discard a diamond while he ruffed in the opposite hand.

Players will find that it is a good idea to "strip" such hands as this before touching the key side suit, merely as a matter of good general technique.

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Television And Radio

Revolution

If you want to make a silly ass of yourself, make a prediction about television. They've all been wrong. Frank Stanton, president of CBS, today recalls wryly the time he was on the cover of "Time" and predicted boldy that TV would sweep the nation. He couldn't have been wronger. I can also recall one of my own predictions, which is unfortunately imbedded in print, that television shows—because of their greater impact—would only be five or ten minutes long in place of the old half hour radio shows. How off-base can you get?

I've just been flipping through the Nielsen ratings and one thing hits you in the face. Of the top ten rated television shows of the nation only one—"$64,000 Question"—is a half-hour show. The others are all in the sixty or ninety-minute format. Two years ago—same period—no fewer than eight of the top ten programs were half-hour shows.

That doesn't mean the half-hour show has vanished. Groucho Marx, "I Love Lucy," George Gobel, Jackie Gleason, "Dragnet" and Jack Benny are still holding their own—but they're all great shows. The second-rate shows can't compete against the longer ones. And ninety minutes isn't the ceiling either. There isn't any ceiling. There have been quite a lot of two-hour shows—the latest one, Mary Martin and Helen Hayes in "Skin of Our Teeth," climbed to eleventh on the Nielsen list—and now NBC is talking about putting on the British-made color film "Richard III" as a three-hour show. Just to make a silly ass of myself all over again, I will go out on a limb and predict that a four-hour dramatic show is not inconceivable on TV either.

There has been a revolution in viewing habits. And one aspect of it is the revelation that the term "viewing habits" had better be sharply revised. It isn't that much of a habit. The old idea that the public had an unbreakable habit of tuning in the same old entertainer at the same half hour of the same day of the week year after year, just isn't so any more. It's just possible that it never was so, that the radio people sold this idea to themselves and perpetuated it far beyond reasonable limits.

Now irregularity rather than regularity is almost the rule rather than the exception. Again to go out on a limb, it is my guess that within five years there will be almost no regularly scheduled program in the old radio sense. By that I mean, you can't just assume that you'll find Milton Berle on at 8 p. m. Tuesdays. Come to think of it you can't even assume that today. Sometimes it's Martha Raye.

The real break-up of the public's "viewing habits"—if they ever had any—started with the NBC spectaculars a year ago. These were launched with some trepidation and some of them were pretty bad. Just the same they attracted a whale of an audience. After a halting beginning, they consistently made the top ten and two of them—"Peter Pan" with Mary Martin and "Babes In Toyland" hit the No. 1 spot. NBC claims that "Peter Pan" had the largest viewing audience of all time.

This year CBS has got itself thoroughly into the big show concept. Both the Judy Garland show, which got mixed notices, and the Noel Coward-Mary Martin affray drew tremendous audiences.

The pattern — irregularity and long lavish shows—seems clearly established. But just don't count on it. The one thing that makes this business fascinating is the fact that you can't count on anything.

The other day Walter Winchell quoted Groucho Marx as saying that his sponsor picked up "You Bet Your Life," not because it was the best show around but because it was the cheapest. So what happened? It swept the country and has been up close to the top ever since. That's the way things go.

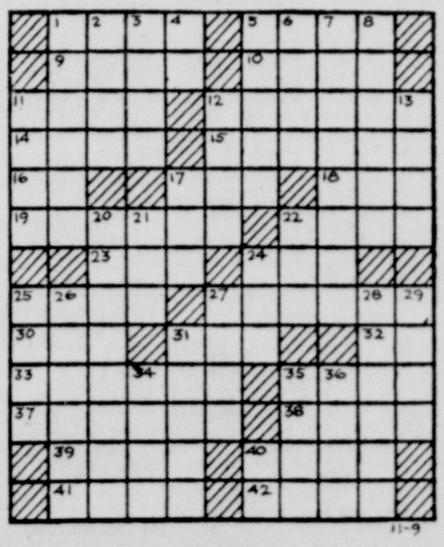
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X E is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: SO ANGUISH STILL SUCCEEDS DELIGHT, AND GRIEF OUR JOY ATTENDS—LILLO.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Mrs. Edith Nave, who departed this life, 2 years ago today, November 9, 1953.
Somewhere back of the sunset,
Where beauty never dies,
She lives in that land of glory,
With the blue and the gold of the skies.
And we who have known and loved her,
Whose parting has brought sad tears,
Will cherish her memory forever,
To brighten the drifting years.
Sadly missed by her mother & sisters,
Mrs. Ethel Zembower
Mrs. Cleo Wertz
Mrs. Pauline Shoemaker

In loving memory of our dear Mother, Mrs. Mary Jo Wolfe, who departed this life eight years ago today, November 9, 1947.
Could we but have one gift from God, 'Mom' we would ask for you.
Sadly missed by her Daughters, Hazel W. Soethe and Helen M. Vernall, and Grandson, Ray Vernall.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Mrs. Edith Nave, who departed this life, 2 years ago today, November 9, 1953.
Somewhere back of the sunset,
Where beauty never dies,
She lives in that land of glory,
With the blue and the gold of the skies.
And we who have known and loved her,
Whose parting has brought sad tears,
Will cherish her memory forever,
To brighten the drifting years.
Sadly missed by her mother & sisters,
Mrs. Ethel Zembower
Mrs. Cleo Wertz
Mrs. Pauline Shoemaker

In loving memory of our dear Mother, Mrs. Mary Jo Wolfe, who departed this life eight years ago today, November 9, 1947.
Could we but have one gift from God,
'Mom' we would ask for you.
Sadly missed by her Daughters, Hazel W. Soethe and Helen M. Vernall, and Grandson, Ray Vernall.

Mendes-France, Faure In Fight Over Elections

PARIS, Nov. 8 (AP)—Pierre Mendes-France and Edgar Faure, the two bright young men of the Radical Socialist party, are locked in bitter struggle over a proposal for December parliamentary elections. The future of the party is at stake.

Faure, 47, has won the first round. He got a bill through the National Assembly ending the mandate of the deputies on Jan. 2. This means general elections must be held next month, unless—

Mendes-France, 48, who has taken over control of the party machinery, succeeds. He hopes to block the Assembly bill in the Council of the Republic, upper house of Parliament, which is scheduled to start consideration this week. Even a short delay might be enough to wreck the election plans.

The men are at odds on two principal points. First, Faure insists quick elections are necessary because important decisions must be taken in the first half of 1956, especially on North African affairs, and that a new Assembly must be picked to give continuity to any action agreed on. Mendes-France, who has not had time to consolidate his hold on the party, says more time is needed to explain the issues fully to the voters.

Second, Faure is willing to go ahead with elections under the 1951 system of voting. Mendes-France insists a law establishing a new election system must be passed before any ballot box test.

Behind these two opposing positions are different conceptions of the party and the Legislature. The Radical Socialist party has historically been an ill-disciplined group giving shelter to all sorts of varying political opinion. When Faure was premier in 1952, Radical Socialists helped throw him out of office. A Radical Socialist revolt was the final blow that killed Mendes - France's government in February. Radical Socialists, led by Mendes-France, now are among the most bitter opponents of the Faure government.

Faure favors continuation of this loose grouping. Mendes - France wants to reform the party, to make it a disciplined group, to crack down on any representative of the party who does not follow the party line. He also wants to orient the party to the left. But their widest split is on the election system.

The 1951 election law permitted alliances among parties in any department (county) and gave all the seats to any alliance which got more than half the votes. But the Radical Socialist Congress, under Mendes-France's stage management, yesterday asked Radical Socialist senators to block new elections unless a district system of voting similar to that in the United States and Britain is adopted. That would eliminate alliance possibilities helpful to some Radical Socialists.

Roy Radford Blough vs. Thelma Mary Blough. No. 24326 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of Annulment of a marriage by the Petitioner, Roy Radford Blough, from the Defendant, Thelma Mary Blough.

The Petitioner states that the parties hereto were married on June 16, 1954, at Cumberland, Allegany County, Maryland; that the Defendant induced the Petitioner to enter into said marriage by means of certain fraudulent statements; that the Defendant was guilty of pre-marital unchastity of which the Petitioner was ignorant and has not condoned; that no children were born of this marriage; that the Petitioner is a resident of South Fork, Pennsylvania while the Defendant is a resident of Beaver Dale, Pennsylvania.

It is thereupon, this 1st day of November, 1955, ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, that the Petitioner cause a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper in Allegany County once each week for four (4) successive weeks before the 3rd day of December, 1955, giving notice to the said Thelma Mary Blough of the object and substance of this Petition and warning her to be and appear in this Court, in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 20th day of December, 1955, to show cause, if any she has, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

City Accepts Frederick St. Paving Project

Cheaper Plan Sought For North George St.

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz yesterday officially accepted the Frederick Street improvement project and said he is exploring means of stretching funds remaining from a $350,000 Urban Development bond issue to cover the extension of North George and the widening of one block of Franklin Street.

The commissioner accepted the project for the City of Cumberland yesterday afternoon following an inspection made with G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the Maryland State Roads Commission, and officials of the S. T. Brotemarkle Company, the contractor for the federal-aid project.

Buchholtz said he was "highly pleased" with the modern street which has been provided and that the final results were beyond his expectations.

Cost Over Estimate

He termed the construction which included the drainage, paving, curbing and sidewalks for some 7,000 feet of Frederick Street, from Woodlawn Terrace to Route 220, as an outstanding job all around.

There are a few additional things to be done, he said, but they will be taken care of by the city and the contractor within the next few days.

Cost of the work, he said, will be about $270,000, including the city's estimated share of $250,000 and about $20,000 worth of extras.

He said there is a possibility of the city's getting some money back when final costs are in, adding that the State Roads Commission, which had charge of construction, will try to have the final costs within the next 30 days.

Seeks Cheaper Plan

At present, he said, the city has about $80,000 left from the $350,000 Urban Development bond issue sold in 1953 to finance the Frederick Street job, extend North George Street and widen Franklin Street.

Buchholtz said he has under consideration a less costly plan to get from North George Street to Bedford that in the original program, which called for connecting to Sanders Street.

This, he said, would extend North George Street straight through to Polk Street. He said the plan under consideration would require a minimum of property acquisition.

The widening of Franklin Street would affect one block of the street between North Mechanic and North Centre streets, long termed one of the city's traffic bottlenecks.

One-Way Plan For Laing Ave. Is Considered

The Police Department is considering making Laing Avenue a one-way street eastbound from Virginia Avenue, according to Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan.

He said he and Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn have made a comprehensive study of the traffic problem at the point where Virginia and Laing avenues intersect and have conferred with Street Commissioner William V. Buchholtz on the problem.

Commissioner Keegan said the department's traffic division installed a mirror at the intersection to show up a hidden spot but that the mirror was torn down.

Then a blinker light was placed at the intersection, he said. In the three-month period it has been in operation, no accidents have been reported since the first morning the warning device was installed.

Residents of the area are still complaining about traffic conditions, he added.

He said he believes the one-way traffic move being considered will eliminate the complaints from that section.

Former State Firemen's Official Dies

A former state officer in the Maryland Volunteer Firemen's Association died Monday at his home in Cabin John Park in Montgomery County.

Funeral services for David Tuohey will be held at Cabin John Park Friday and members of the Allegany and Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association last night paid tribute to Tuohey who was well known in firemen's circles here.

Cromwell Zembower, LaVale Volunteer Fire Company, said last night Tuohey held various state offices in the Maryland Firemen's Association, the last being a member of the executive committee during Zembower's term as president of the state association in 1951-52.

Tuohey was president of the Cabin John Park Volunteer Firemen's Company and recently was honored by the Montgomery County Firemen's Association for his many active years in the organization.

Tuohey had been a frequent visitor to Western Maryland and attended the state firemen's convention here in Cumberland last June.

Safety Drive Under Way At Glass Plant

Committee Named By Building Trades

The Building and Construction Trades Council and Consolidated Engineering Company, Inc., are cooperating in a program to prevent accidents during the construction of the $34,000,000 plate glass plant being constructed for the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company at North Branch.

Safety committees have been set up by most of the AFL crafts and additional committeemen will be named as the other locals meet.

Members of the committee named so far include:

Lee Malone, president, for Iron Workers Local 568; John Neis and Cecil Clark, for Plumbers and Steamfitters Local 489; Galen Stamp, Laborers Local 616.

Robert Klingler, for Electrical Workers Local 307; William Moore and Harvey Smith, for Operating Engineers Local 37-B, and Earl Slider, for Carpenters Local 1024.

The committee was named as AFL officials met Monday with Howard Turner, general superintendent, and Joseph Lucas, representing the company.

The union delegation, headed by George W. Lucas, president of the Building and Construction Trades Council, included F. Patrick Allender, Charles Cross, Robert Weaver and George E. Clark, all business agents of the crafts, and Malone.

Lucas said the conference was one of several held so far on plans to keep accidents down during the construction of the plant.

He said the unions and the company are determined to make the job as safe as possible.

Legion To Honor Hero Who Saved Local Man's Life

CLEAR SPRING, Md., Nov. 8 (AP)—Clear Spring's American Legion post will present a national American Legion award for outstanding heroism Monday night to John Repp, 33, of Big Pool.

Repp is credited with saving the life of Leon Whitfield of Cumberland after Whitfield had been trapped in a burning car after an accident last February 7 west of Hagerstown.

Patrick A. O'Rourke of Frostburg was burned to death when the car in which he and Whitfield were riding skidded and crashed into an abutment of the Conococheague Creek bridge.

Although the car was enveloped in flames almost immediately, Repp managed to get Whitfield out. Repp had been driving behind the other car before the accident.

Clarence S. Baker, commander of the Clear Spring Post, will present the award to Repp.

Water Line Project Is Under Way

Crews Clear Route Near PPG Plant

Work on the water line to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant is under way, Water Commissioner William J. Edwards announced yesterday.

He said crews of the Cumberland Contracting Company, which was awarded the $165,175 contract for laying the line, are now clearing the right of way in the vicinity of the North Branch plant.

Ditching will begin, he said, as soon as pipe begins arriving in quantity.

Edwards said the 18-inch line will be laid from the glass plant property to the city and that the Cumberland Contracting Company plans to have it installed by early spring.

The S. T. Brotemarkle Company, which was awarded the $3,820 contract for unloading and storing the pipe, yesterday had slings prepared and notified Commissioner Edwards the unloading job will begin today at 8 a. m.

The arrival of the first carload of pipe, however, does not set the stage for the beginning of installation. Officials said the car to be unloaded today is not a "package" load, complete with fittings, and that a considerable variety of lengths and dresser couplings will have to be on hand before crews can begin the installation job.

Edwards said the pipe will be stored at the B & O Rolling Mill yard and used as needed. He said some of the pipe will oe in 50-foot lengths and that the job of installation will go quickly when all preparations are complete.

The overall cost of the 27,000 foot line which will supply the plate glass plant with water for sanitary purposes and standby fire protection, is estimated to be slightly over $400,000.

Four Men Held In Theft Of Brass, Copper

Metal Taken From Coal Firm, Railroad

Four local and area men are being held in jail on separate charges of larceny of metal from the Campbell Coal Company near Westernport and from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad here.

In Allegany County Jail are Larry Mayhew Jr., 27, and James Leonard Zeiler, 21, of Franklin, charged with the theft of copper, brass and babbitt from the coal company.

Ralph Edward Munday of RD 2, Baltimore Pike, and James Raymond Munday, 25 North Waverly Terrace, are being held in Mineral County Jail, Keyser, charged with the theft of about 600 pounds of copper reportedly taken from the railroad.

Trooper Milton G. Hart of the Maryland State Police arrested the two Franklin men yesterday at their homes with the aid of Chief of Police Burza Hanlin and Officer Richard Householder of Westernport.

The pair admitted stripping two diesel engines and two large generators of the metal parts over the past two months, police said.

The machinery, owned by Abraham L. Feldstein, Cumberland, had been bought from the coal company which has been idle for some months. The equipment has been rendered useless, Trooper Hart said Feldstein told police. The four heavy pieces of machinery are valued at $5,000.

Hart said the coal company property is located about two miles north of Westernport near the Westernport-Barton road and that the larceny took place at night, when there was no watchman.

The pieces of machinery were stripped and the various parts sold as junk to various dealers in the area, the state trooper said.

Discovery of the thefts was made Sunday by Feldstein, who had gone to the coal company property to pick up the engines and generators.

Police said the two men will be held on the larceny charges pending further investigation of the thefts.

Baltimore and Ohio police recently arrested the Munday brothers in nearby West Virginia and took them to the jail in Keyser.

They were given a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle, who set bond at $1,500 each.

The two men were unable to furnish bond and were confined to the jail where they are being held for action of the grand jury of the January term of Circuit Court in Mineral County.

Rev. Yingling Heads Traffic Safety Group

Rev. William Yingling was named permanent chairman of the Frostburg Traffic Safety Committee at its organizational meeting last night at Frostburg's City Hall. Mrs. Margaret Kidwell was named secretary.

The 18-member committee has been set up to study the traffic picture in Frostburg and to make recommendations to the Mayor and Council for any improvements it considers necessary.

The Mayor and Council, in turn, plans to present a program of suggested improvements for the committee's study.

Next meeting of the committee will be next Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in City Hall at Frostburg.

Farmer-Hobbyist And Work

Lawrence W. Mallery Sr., who runs a 330-acre farm on Lower Town Creek Road, displays some of the products of his two unusual and interesting hobbies — wood carving and stone grinding. Dr. Skitarelic Appointed To Heart Board

Association Plans To Move Offices

Dr. Benedict Skitarelic, Baltimore Pike, was appointed to the executive board of the Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association last night by Ernest B. Treat, association president. The appointment was made, Treat explained, to fill a vacancy.

Dr. Skitarelic was already a member of the Heart Association's Medical Advisory Board, but will now serve in both capacities. The only other physician on the executive board is Dr. W. A. Van Ormer, co-chairman of the Medical Advisory Board.

At last night's meeting of the executive board, it was decided to move the heart offices from the Law Building to the Clark Keating Building. A lease was signed for an office in the Clark Keating, selected because it is centrally located and provides elevator service. It is not desirable, members pointed out, to have an office situated where persons with heart conditions are required to climb steps. The board has been seeking such headquarters for several months. The office will be moved early next week.

Lee Bowers of Baltimore, educational director of the Maryland Heart Association, attended last night's meeting and helped in charting a program of lay and medical education into the heart program. Through such a program, it will be able to inform the public, as well as all physicians, of the full extent of the heart program and what the American Heart Association and the local association offer in free services to victims of heart disease.

Bowers urged that talks be given to various organizations, that press and radio be informed of the full heart program, and that everything possible be done to make people aware that the heart association is a social agency provided to serve everyone through a program of medical aid, home visitation and home care, prevention, rehabilitation and education.

Bowers said the local association is rendering excellent services to many heart cases in this area, and he reported on several specific instances of cooperation between the local and the state association.

Chicken Truck Damages Church, Driver Injured

Carl Whitmer, 22, Lazy Springs, Va., suffered minor injuries last night when the large chicken truck he was driving failed to negotiate a curve at Springfield, W. Va., and smashed into a white frame church.

Whitmer complained of chest and back injuries and was brought to Memorial Hospital where he will be X-rayed this morning.

The truck was owned by Good's Transfer of 234 Charles Street, Harrisonburg, Va. The accident occurred at 11:35 p. m.

Firemen were called from Romney as a precautionary measure because of gasoline saturating the building after the crash. There was no fire.

Sgt. R. E. Snell and Trooper G. C. Phillips of the West Virginia State Police at Romney, are investigating.

Town Creek Farmer Finds Two Interesting Hobbies

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

An Allegany County farmer who is a newcomer to the Lower Town Creek region near Oldtown has developed a keen interest in two rather unusual hobbies.

He is Lawrence W. Mallery Sr., a native of Washington, D. C., who nevertheless has lived most of his life on a farm.

For some 40 years he resided on a 50-acre farm at Lanham in Prince George's County until a real estate developer offered him such an attractive price for the farm he could not refuse. With his farm cut up into residential lots, Mallery began looking around for an Allegany County farm to buy.

Eventually he purchased Taylor McLaughlin's 330-acre farm on Lower Town Creek Road, some five miles from Oldtown, and with his wife, his 91-year-old father and nine of his 10 children, he has been living there since last December.

Mallery's two hobbies, which give him enjoyment and some little income during his idle hours, are wood carving and stone grinding.

How To Forget Problems

The gentleman farmer first became interested in wood carving during an illness about seven years ago. A friend suggested it as an activity which would help him forget his own problems.

Mallery began using the ends of apple crates and other waste lumber for his wood carving. Any soft wood would serve the purpose, although he recommends white pine and cedar above others.

Once he is through carving, Mallery will color the picture with crayons of watercolors.

Although money was not a consideration when he started the wood carving hobby, Mallery discovered later that his carvings had some little value. He said the other day that he has been offered as much as $35 for some of the best.

Takes Up Stone Grinding

The second hobby of stone grinding and polishing, which goes by the technical name of lapidary, came to Mallery rather by accident four years ago.

With 10 children of his own, Mallery has long been interested in the 4-H program and its benefits for rural boys and girls. In Prince George's County he served as a 4-H adult leader.

Back in the summer of 1951 he decided to take part in the State 4-H Club Week program at College Park, just a few miles from his farm at Lanham. There he saw a demonstration by James Anderson, an amateur stone grinder from Baltimore. That convinced him that he should also take up stone grinding and polishing.

Collecting what semi-precious stones he could find, Mallery has cut and ground them into trinkets such as brooches, ear rings and

Big Concrete Pour Made At Sewage Plant

Crews working on the city's $2,000,000 sewage treatment plant made a 350-cubic-yard pour of concrete last week, Mayor Roy W. Eves reported yesterday.

Workers, he said, began pouring the first part of the foundation slab of the plant's main sewage pumping station last Wednesday at 2 a. m. and worked continuously until noon to complete the pour.

Other crews of the Moyer Brothers Company completed preparing forms and made a 12-cubic-yard pour on a section of the plant's boiler house.

Work on the tunnel which will carry an interceptor sewer beneath B & O tracks to the plant was virtually completed.

The report from E. A. Kidd, project engineer for the city, noted continuing work on the walls of the sludge pumping station, stone paving of the levee walls on the river side, filling inside the plant area and laying of cast iron and clay plant piping.

John Humbird PTA Asks Policewoman At Intersection

The John Humbird School PTA has informed Police Commissioner William V. Keegan it heartily approves of a plan to place policewomen at school crossings and wants one of the special officers assigned to protect children of that school.

Mrs. Oliver M. Evans Jr., corresponding secretary of the PTA, in a letter to the commissioner, said there is great need for police protection for children of that school at the corner of Humbird Street and Virginia Avenue.

Traffic at that point, she said, is quite heavy now and will become even greater when the Wiley Ford Bridge is replaced.

Plans for that span, she added, call for running traffic from West Virginia directly into the southern end of Virginia Avenue.

Public School Language Program Discussed Here

James E. Spitznas, director of instruction of the State Board of Education, conferred yesterday afternoon with officials of Allegany County schools.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the possibility of expanding the foreign language program of county schools.

It was pointed out that a meeting will be held probably in Hagerstown the first part of next year at which time teachers of foreign language will be present.

Last year a demonstration lesson was taught to a class at Mt. Savage School with teachers of Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties attending.

The proposal of expanding the foreign language program is due to a larger number of high school students entering college where French, Spanish and other languages are stressed in various fields of education.

The trend in past years, according to a spokesman for county schools, has been to place more emphasis on general and vocational programs in the schools, and it is hoped to put greater stress on foreign languages.

Attending yesterday's meeting were Spitznas, Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany County schols; Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools; and Lewyn C. Davis, supervisor of junior high schools.

Marine General Visits Here

Flintstone Home Is Gutted In Two-Alarm Fire

Volunteers Fight Fire For Two Hours

A stubborn blaze in a Flintstone home threatened a residential section of that community yesterday afternoon until it was brought under control after almost two hours of fighting by volunteers of two companies.

Described by firemen as one of the worst fires in several years in the community, the flames gutted the interior of the six-room, two-story frame home of Quinner Bennett, an employe of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant here.

Extensive damage was caused by the flames which got a head start before being discovered. The water used to quench the blaze also caused heavy damage.

It was not known yesterday afternoon just what the cause of the blaze was, but it was thought the fire may have originated in a clothes closet.

Firemen said the damage to the interior of the home was so extensive that it was hard to determine the cause. Fortunately the flames were confined to the interior and did not eat their way out through the sides of the house.

At least six other homes are located in the immediate vicinity in the east end of Flintstone. The burned home was directly across from the school building.

Firemen said no one was home when the fire started. It was discovered by Bennett when he returned home from Cumberland.

Nine volunteer firemen from Flintstone went to the scene and later called for assistance from volunteers of Baltimore Pike. Three men from that company responded.

The firemen pumped water from Flintstone Creek and about 600 feet of hose was laid across Route 40.

First Sgt. Harry Holsinger and Trooper J. F. Lewis of the Maryland State Police at LaVale barracks were on the scene to direct traffic.

Curtis Nash was acting chief for the Flintstone volunteers. Assistant Fire Chief Thomas Ash was also on the scene. Three pieces of fire fighting equipment were put into service, firemen reported.

Beth Jacob Honors Physician

Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson was honored at a testimonial dinner held by the Beth Jacob Jewish Congregation in the synagogue vestry Sunday evening.

He was feted for his devoted and untiring efforts in behalf of the congregation during the past several years. A skit, "This Is Your Life," was portrayed by Leon Kruth, narrator, and photographic scenes from the doctor's childhood to the present time were shown.

Dr. Jacobson was presented an engraved watch by Sander Lewine, president of the congregation. At the dinner, the new spiritual leader of the congregation, Rabbi Leon Yagod, was installed succeeding Rabbi Joseph Schimelman, who has accepted a pulpit in New Jersey.

Rabbi Yagod, in accepting the spiritual leadership, urged the cooperation of the members in making the tenure of his office successful.

He also urged the building committee to expedite its plans in starting erection of the new addition to the synagogue, which is planned for next spring.

A silver cup was presented to Benjamin Marx in appreciation for his services to the congregation. Alexander Green also was given a testimonial for his personal services at the synagogue during the High Holy Days.

Fire Hall Addition Nearing Completion

The building committee of the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company reported last night at a regular meeting of the company that the new addition to the fire hall in LaVale is nearing completion.

The roofing will be placed on the addition, which will house new equipment bought by the company this week and it is expected the building will be completed within two or three weeks.

Meanwhile final plans were made for the auxiliary to hold a public ham and oyster supper from 5 to 7 p. m. Thursday at the fire hall.

Tuohey was president of the Cabin John Park Volunteer Firemen's Company and recently was honored by the Montgomery County Firemen's Association for his many active years in the organization.

Safety Drive Under Way At Glass Plant

Committee Named By Building Trades

The Building and Construction Trades Council and Consolidated Engineering Company, Inc., are cooperating in a program to prevent accidents during the construction of the $34,000,000 plate glass plant being constructed for the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company at North Branch.

Safety committees have been set up by most of the AFL crafts and additional committeemen will be named as the other locals meet.

Members of the committee named so far include:

Lee Malone, president, for Iron Workers Local 568; John Neis and Cecil Clark, for Plumbers and Steamfitters Local 489; Galen Stamp, Laborers Local 616.

Robert Klingler, for Electrical Workers Local 307; William Moore and Harvey Smith, for Operating Engineers Local 37-B, and Earl Slider, for Carpenters Local 1024.

The committee was named as AFL officials met Monday with Howard Turner, general superintendent, and Joseph Lucas, representing the company.

The union delegation, headed by George W. Lucas, president of the Building and Construction Trades Council, included F. Patrick Allender, Charles Cross, Robert Weaver and George E. Clark, all business agents of the crafts, and Malone.

Lucas said the conference was one of several held so far on plans to keep accidents down during the construction of the plant.

He said the unions and the company are determined to make the job as safe as possible.

Legion To Honor Hero Who Saved Local Man's Life

CLEAR SPRING, Md., Nov. 8 (AP)—Clear Spring's American Legion post will present a national American Legion award for outstanding heroism Monday night to John Repp, 33, of Big Pool.

Repp is credited with saving the life of Leon Whitfield of Cumberland after Whitfield had been trapped in a burning car after an accident last February 7 west of Hagerstown.

Patrick A. O'Rourke of Frostburg was burned to death when the car in which he and Whitfield were riding skidded and crashed into an abutment of the Conococheague Creek bridge.

Although the car was enveloped in flames almost immediately, Repp managed to get Whitfield out. Repp had been driving behind the other car before the accident.

Clarence S. Baker, commander of the Clear Spring Post, will present the award to Repp.

Water Line Project Is Under Way

Crews Clear Route Near PPG Plant

Work on the water line to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant is under way, Water Commissioner William J. Edwards announced yesterday.

He said crews of the Cumberland Contracting Company, which was awarded the $165,175 contract for laying the line, are now clearing the right of way in the vicinity of the North Branch plant.

Ditching will begin, he said, as soon as pipe begins arriving in quantity.

Edwards said the 18-inch line will be laid from the glass plant property to the city and that the Cumberland Contracting Company plans to have it installed by early spring.

The S. T. Brotemarkle Company, which was awarded the $3,820 contract for unloading and storing the pipe, yesterday had slings prepared and notified Commissioner Edwards the unloading job will begin today at 8 a. m.

The arrival of the first carload of pipe, however, does not set the stage for the beginning of installation. Officials said the car to be unloaded today is not a "package" load, complete with fittings, and that a considerable variety of lengths and dresser couplings will have to be on hand before crews can begin the installation job.

Edwards said the pipe will be stored at the B & O Rolling Mill yard and used as needed. He said some of the pipe will oe in 50-foot lengths and that the job of installation will go quickly when all preparations are complete.

The overall cost of the 27,000 foot line which will supply the plate glass plant with water for sanitary purposes and standby fire protection, is estimated to be slightly over $400,000.

Four Men Held In Theft Of Brass, Copper

Metal Taken From Coal Firm, Railroad

Four local and area men are being held in jail on separate charges of larceny of metal from the Campbell Coal Company near Westernport and from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad here.

In Allegany County Jail are Larry Mayhew Jr., 27, and James Leonard Zeiler, 21, of Franklin, charged with the theft of copper, brass and babbitt from the coal company.

Ralph Edward Munday of RD 2, Baltimore Pike, and James Raymond Munday, 25 North Waverly Terrace, are being held in Mineral County Jail, Keyser, charged with the theft of about 600 pounds of copper reportedly taken from the railroad.

Trooper Milton G. Hart of the Maryland State Police arrested the two Franklin men yesterday at their homes with the aid of Chief of Police Burza Hanlin and Officer Richard Householder of Westernport.

The pair admitted stripping two diesel engines and two large generators of the metal parts over the past two months, police said.

The machinery, owned by Abraham L. Feldstein, Cumberland, had been bought from the coal company which has been idle for some months. The equipment has been rendered useless, Trooper Hart said Feldstein told police. The four heavy pieces of machinery are valued at $5,000.

Hart said the coal company property is located about two miles north of Westernport near the Westernport-Barton road and that the larceny took place at night, when there was no watchman.

The pieces of machinery were stripped and the various parts sold as junk to various dealers in the area, the state trooper said.

Discovery of the thefts was made Sunday by Feldstein, who had gone to the coal company property to pick up the engines and generators.

Police said the two men will be held on the larceny charges pending further investigation of the thefts.

Baltimore and Ohio police recently arrested the Munday brothers in nearby West Virginia and took them to the jail in Keyser.

They were given a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle, who set bond at $1,500 each.

The two men were unable to furnish bond and were confined to the jail where they are being held for action of the grand jury of the January term of Circuit Court in Mineral County.

The Mayor and Council, in turn, plans to present a program of suggested improvements for the committee's study.

Next meeting of the committee will be next Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in City Hall at Frostburg.

Farmer-Hobbyist And Work

Lawrence W. Mallery Sr., who runs a 330-acre farm on Lower Town Creek Road, displays some of the products of his two unusual and interesting hobbies — wood carving and stone grinding. Mallery, who took up woodcarving seven years ago to pass the time during an illness, has been grinding semi-precious stones for the past four years. He also makes a little money at his hobbies.

Dr. Skitarelic Appointed To Heart Board

Association Plans To Move Offices

Dr. Benedict Skitarelic, Baltimore Pike, was appointed to the executive board of the Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association last night by Ernest B. Treat, association president. The appointment was made, Treat explained, to fill a vacancy.

Dr. Skitarelic was already a member of the Heart Association's Medical Advisory Board, but will now serve in both capacities. The only other physician on the executive board is Dr. W. A. Van Ormer, co-chairman of the Medical Advisory Board.

At last night's meeting of the executive board, it was decided to move the heart offices from the Law Building to the Clark Keating Building. A lease was signed for an office in the Clark Keating, selected because it is centrally located and provides elevator service. It is not desirable, members pointed out, to have an office situated where persons with heart conditions are required to climb steps. The board has been seeking such headquarters for several months. The office will be moved early next week.

Lee Bowers of Baltimore, educational director of the Maryland Heart Association, attended last night's meeting and helped in charting a program of lay and medical education into the heart program. Through such a program, it will be able to inform the public, as well as all physicians, of the full extent of the heart program and what the American Heart Association and the local association offer in free services to victims of heart disease.

Bowers urged that talks be given to various organizations, that press and radio be informed of the full heart program, and that everything possible be done to make people aware that the heart association is a social agency provided to serve everyone through a program of medical aid, home visitation and home care, prevention, rehabilitation and education.

Bowers said the local association is rendering excellent services to many heart cases in this area, and he reported on several specific instances of cooperation between the local and the state association.

Chicken Truck Damages Church, Driver Injured

Carl Whitmer, 22, Lazy Springs, Va., suffered minor injuries last night when the large chicken truck he was driving failed to negotiate a curve at Springfield, W. Va., and smashed into a white frame church.

Whitmer complained of chest and back injuries and was brought to Memorial Hospital where he will be X-rayed this morning.

The truck was owned by Good's Transfer of 234 Charles Street, Harrisonburg, Va. The accident occurred at 11:35 p. m.

Firemen were called from Romney as a precautionary measure because of gasoline saturating the building after the crash. There was no fire.

Sgt. R. E. Snell and Trooper G. C. Phillips of the West Virginia State Police at Romney, are investigating.

Town Creek Farmer Finds Two Interesting Hobbies

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

An Allegany County farmer who is a newcomer to the Lower Town Creek region near Oldtown has developed a keen interest in two rather unusual hobbies.

He is Lawrence W. Mallery Sr., a native of Washington, D. C., who nevertheless has lived most of his life on a farm.

For some 40 years he resided on a 50-acre farm at Lanham in Prince George's County until a real estate developer offered him such an attractive price for the farm he could not refuse. With his farm cut up into residential lots, Mallery began looking around for an Allegany County farm to buy.

Eventually he purchased Taylor McLaughlin's 330-acre farm on Lower Town Creek Road, some five miles from Oldtown, and with his wife, his 91-year-old father and nine of his 10 children, he has been living there since last December.

Mallery's two hobbies, which give him enjoyment and some little income during his idle hours, are wood carving and stone grinding.

How To Forget Problems

The gentleman farmer first became interested in wood carving during an illness about seven years ago. A friend suggested it as an activity which would help him forget his own problems.

Mallery began using the ends of apple crates and other waste lumber for his wood carving. Any soft wood would serve the purpose, although he recommends white pine and cedar above others.

He starts his wood carving by tracing the picture on the piece of wood. Then with a knife or chisel he begins to cut out the wood not needed, to give his picture the desired three-dimensional effect.

Once he is through carving, Mallery will color the picture with crayons of watercolors.

Although money was not a consideration when he started the wood carving hobby, Mallery discovered later that his carvings had some little value. He said the other day that he has been offered as much as $35 for some of the best.

Takes Up Stone Grinding

The second hobby of stone grinding and polishing, which goes by the technical name of lapidary, came to Mallery rather by accident four years ago.

With 10 children of his own, Mallery has long been interested in the 4-H program and its benefits for rural boys and girls. In Prince George's County he served as a 4-H adult leader.

Back in the summer of 1951 he decided to take part in the State 4-H Club Week program at College Park, just a few miles from his farm at Lanham. There he saw a demonstration by James Anderson, an amateur stone grinder from Baltimore. That convinced him that he should also take up stone grinding and polishing.

Collecting what semi-precious stones he could find, Mallery has cut and ground them into trinkets such as brooches, ear rings and

Big Concrete Pour Made At Sewage Plant

Crews working on the city's $2,000,000 sewage treatment plant made a 350-cubic-yard pour of concrete last week, Mayor Roy W. Eves reported yesterday.

Workers, he said, began pouring the first part of the foundation slab of the plant's main sewage pumping station last Wednesday at 2 a. m. and worked continuously until noon to complete the pour.

Other crews of the Moyer Brothers Company completed preparing forms and made a 12-cubic-yard pour on a section of the plant's boiler house.

Work on the tunnel which will carry an interceptor sewer beneath B & O tracks to the plant was virtually completed.

The report from E. A. Kidd, project engineer for the city, noted continuing work on the walls of the sludge pumping station, stone paving of the levee walls on the river side, filling inside the plant area and laying of cast iron and clay plant piping.

John Humbird PTA Asks Policewoman At Intersection

The John Humbird School PTA has informed Police Commissioner William V. Keegan it heartily approves of a plan to place policewomen at school crossings and wants one of the special officers assigned to protect children of that school.

Mrs. Oliver M. Evans Jr., corresponding secretary of the PTA, in a letter to the commissioner, said there is great need for police protection for children of that school at the corner of Humbird Street and Virginia Avenue.

Traffic at that point, she said, is quite heavy now and will become even greater when the Wiley Ford Bridge is replaced.

Plans for that span, she added, call for running traffic from West Virginia directly into the southern end of Virginia Avenue.

Public School Language Program Discussed Here

James E. Spitznas, director of instruction of the State Board of Education, conferred yesterday afternoon with officials of Allegany County schools.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the possibility of expanding the foreign language program of county schools.

It was pointed out that a meeting will be held probably in Hagerstown the first part of next year at which time teachers of foreign language will be present.

Last year a demonstration lesson was taught to a class at Mt. Savage School with teachers of Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties attending.

The proposal of expanding the foreign language program is due to a larger number of high school students entering college where French, Spanish and other languages are stressed in various fields of education.

The trend in past years, according to a spokesman for county schools, has been to place more emphasis on general and vocational programs in the schools, and it is hoped to put greater stress on foreign languages.

Attending yesterday's meeting were Spitznas, Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany County schols; Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools; and Lewyn C. Davis, supervisor of junior high schools.

Flintstone Home Is Gutted In Two-Alarm Fire

Volunteers Fight Fire For Two Hours

A stubborn blaze in a Flintstone home threatened a residential section of that community yesterday afternoon until it was brought under control after almost two hours of fighting by volunteers of two companies.

Described by firemen as one of the worst fires in several years in the community, the flames gutted the interior of the six-room, two-story frame home of Quinner Bennett, an employe of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant here.

Extensive damage was caused by the flames which got a head start before being discovered. The water used to quench the blaze also caused heavy damage.

It was not known yesterday afternoon just what the cause of the blaze was, but it was thought the fire may have originated in a clothes closet.

Firemen said the damage to the interior of the home was so extensive that it was hard to determine the cause. Fortunately the flames were confined to the interior and did not eat their way out through the sides of the house.

At least six other homes are located in the immediate vicinity in the east end of Flintstone. The burned home was directly across from the school building.

Firemen said no one was home when the fire started. It was discovered by Bennett when he returned home from Cumberland.

Nine volunteer firemen from Flintstone went to the scene and later called for assistance from volunteers of Baltimore Pike. Three men from that company responded.

The firemen pumped water from Flintstone Creek and about 600 feet of hose was laid across Route 40.

First Sgt. Harry Holsinger and Trooper J. F. Lewis of the Maryland State Police at LaVale barracks were on the scene to direct traffic.

Curtis Nash was acting chief for the Flintstone volunteers. Assistant Fire Chief Thomas Ash was also on the scene. Three pieces of fire fighting equipment were put into service, firemen reported.

Beth Jacob Honors Physician

Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson was honored at a testimonial dinner held by the Beth Jacob Jewish Congregation in the synagogue vestry Sunday evening.

He was feted for his devoted and untiring efforts in behalf of the congregation during the past several years. A skit, "This Is Your Life," was portrayed by Leon Kruth, narrator, and photographic scenes from the doctor's childhood to the present time were shown.

Dr. Jacobson was presented an engraved watch by Sandel Lewine, president of the congregation. At the dinner, the new spiritual leader of the congregation, Rabbi Leon Yagod, was installed succeeding Rabbi Joseph Schimelman, who has accepted a pulpit in New Jersey.

Rabbi Yagod, in accepting the spiritual leadership, urged the cooperation of the members in making the tenure of his office successful.

He also urged the building committee to expedite its plans in starting erection of the new addition to the synagogue, which is planned for next spring.

A silver cup was presented to Benjamin Marx in appreciation for his services to the congregation. Alexander Green also was given a testimonial for his personal services at the synagogue during the High Holy Days.

Fire Hall Addition Nearing Completion

The building committee of the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company reported last night at a regular meeting of the company that the new addition to the fire hall in LaVale is nearing completion.

The roofing will be placed on the addition, which will house new equipment bought by the company this week and it is expected the building will be completed within two or three weeks.

Meanwhile final plans were made for the auxiliary to hold a public ham and oyster supper from 5 to 7 p. m. Thursday at the fire hall.
